I render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care. I also render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care.

The total sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care. I also render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care.

The total sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care. I also render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care.

The total sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care. I also render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care.

The total sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care. I also render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care.

The total sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care. I also render unto the lord the sum of forty shillings for the expenses of my care.
And by the said law it was enacted that the said estate should be divided among the parties in the following manner:

Item: The rent of the estate from the date of the transfer was due and payable to the estate holders.

Item: The estate holders were required to pay all taxes and levies imposed on the estate.

Item: The estate holders were responsible for all debts and liabilities incurred by the estate.

Item: The estate holders were entitled to receive the profits and income generated by the estate.

Item: The estate holders were required to maintain and preserve the estate in good condition.

And by the said law it was also enacted that the estate holders were entitled to receive the profits and income generated by the estate. 