This is a letter by Henry VIII to the Duke of Brittany, the grandson of the King of France. The letter is dated the 20th of July in the year of the reign of the King of England, Henry VIII. The letter is written in Latin and is signed by Henry VIII.

Henry VIII writes about the recent events in England and expresses his concerns about the situation. He mentions the recent death of the Duke of Brittany and his efforts to maintain peace and order in the kingdom. He also expresses his desire to maintain strong relations with France and other European powers.

Henry VIII concludes the letter with a request for the Duke of Brittany to send a representative to London to discuss matters of mutual concern. He also expresses his gratitude for the Duke's continued support and looks forward to future correspondence.