A note of Elizabeth given to the 3rd of June. 1554

First to the person ot Elizabeth of York, lady, and to be kept in the great chamber, and to be used by the governor and the bishop of Winchester, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Secondly, to the person of William of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Thirdly, to the person of Robert of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Fourthly, to the person of John of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Fifthly, to the person of Anne of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Sixthly, to the person of Margaret of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Seventhly, to the person of Thomas of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Eighthly, to the person of Michael of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Ninthly, to the person of William of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Tenthly, to the person of John of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.

Eleventhly, to the person of Anne of Pembroke, and to be kept to her, and to be used as need shall require.
A handwritten document containing several lines of text, likely from a historical or legal context. The handwriting is cursive and the content is not immediately translatable without expert knowledge of the language and context.