7, Norham Gardens.
Oxford.
31 Aug. 82

Dear Sir,

I send you enclosed the letter for which you thought you could find room in the November Number of the C.R. Of course you have to decide first whether you think it suitable, and I hope you will not hesitate for a moment to tell me if you do not quite approve of it. I should feel obliged, however, if you would kindly let me know your decision as soon as possible.

Believe on

Yours faithfully

F. Max Müller
7, Norham Gardens,
Oxford.

Sept. 6, 82

Dear Sir,

If it is the same to you, I should prefer November for the publication of my lecture. I have been asked to deliver the lectures which I delivered at Cambridge, at Oxford also, and, if I feel well enough, mean to do so at the beginning of next term, i.e. the middle of October. Of course, I could leave out the first lecture, but—what, if it does not otherwise interfere?
with your plan, I should like to feel that I might deliver it here to the Candidate for the Indian Civil Service.

Believe me

Your faithfully

Percy H. Bunchy Esq.       F. Max Muller
7, Norham Gardens, Oxford.

18 Sept. 82

Dear Sir,

There is no objection to your publishing my article in the October number, as I shall not give the lectures at Oxford.

I could read you now another lecture for November, if you can use it—on the Truthfulness of the Hindu— which would probably lead to some controversy in England &c. &c.

Yours faithfully,

T. [illegible] Miller
My dear sir,

I have been away the whole summer and am now very busy with arrears of work.

I enclose a letter from Robert Chudde Sen. You will see from the end of his letter that he means to work something for the C.R.

Please return his letter to me.

Yours very truly,

F. Max Miller.
Dear Sir,

I am going to deliver an address on the Life and Work of Giambattista Vico on the 27th of September, the 50th anniversary of his death. Would you like to have it for the Contemporary for October? I am afraid however I cannot let it go.
you saw it for less than £50, though it will at full 25 pages of the Review.

Yours very truly

F. [Signature]
My dear Sir,

My personal acquaintance with Castello is very much of the same character as your own. He promised to come to Oxford to lecture, then left us in the lurch, and we have not been able to hear from him since. I feel some difficulty in writing to him. He seems a man of impulse, and we must wait till the spirit move him.

I have an article 'On the Historical and the Theoretical Schools', which might perhaps suit the readers of the Cent. Review, though it would probably lead to some controversy. It is in the shape of an Address to the people of Birmingham to whom I have often been lecturing, and to whom I wished to explain once for all my views and objects. I might easily divert it if it's local colouring, but I am afraid it would lose by it its liveliness. Have you room in your March Number?

If so, I could send you a MS in a few days.

Yours very truly

F. Max Müller
I may have an article for the Contemporary Review, if you could keep a place for me in the November number. It is the first of a course of lectures. I mean to give in October at Oxford — the subject being 'What can India teach us?' I ought to say, however, that I intend to publish the whole set of lectures in December. If you like to see Mr. ... I could send it you in a short time.
12 June 87

My dear Sir,

I always received 22 a page from the Const. Reviews, except for lectures which I had delivered in London; and if you agree to that, I shall be quite satisfied now and in future. I do not write many articles, and, when I do, they generally represent the result of a long time of hard work. The pay may seem large, but it is not one tenth of what a painter or a lawyer receives.
and I should really make a good deal more by teaching or lecturing. However, I do not write for money, but I am glad to fill a gap now and then. I assure you quite frankly and Law and reserve.

Your very truly,

[Signature]
Dear Mr. Buntings,

I have followed your advice and shall administer my lecture, not in simultaneous, but in successive courses. I have given No. 1 to the Fortnightly for April. Would you like to look at No. 2, 'Identity of Thought and Language,' for May. It is type-written and I can send it you, whenever you are expected to read it.

Yours truly,

F. Max Muller
My dear Sir,

I received your cheque for £17.

If you will refer to our correspondence in June, you will find that you agreed in your letter of June 13, that I should receive £2 a page for ordinary articles, £1 10. for lectures. I receive the same from all the Reviews, and even more from some. This article on Andrea del Sarto.
is not a lecture, and it has given me considerable trouble.

I hope soon to get a good Autotype of it, and I know you will be pleased with it.

Might I ask you again, if it is not too late, whether I might have ten copies of my article?

Yours very truly,

F. Max Müller
My dear Sir,

I have had so many inquiries after my Abbosso of Andrea del Sarto that I should like to publish a reproduction of it, if I can succeed in getting something really good. I should give a photograph of the fresco as it now exists, much dilapidated; another of an early engraving, and a third of the cartoon now in my possession. I should have to give a description of The picture and its discovery, and I write to ask whether you and the publishers of the Cent. Review would allow me to use my articles for that purpose. I should like in the main to keep it as it is, though I should have to add something, and to alter something here and there.

I read your Collo-type specimen, but I hope to get something better before I publish.

Believe me,

Yours very truly,

[Signature]
P.S. I shall have to attend a Meeting of the English Folk-Song Society one Wednesday. Would you send me a line to say which day you prefer for the Lecture, addressed 5 Oxstow Gardens, S.W.

7, Norham Gardens.

12 April 86

Dear Sir,

I can lecture on the Thursday, Friday, or Saturday. If you will let me know which day would be most convenient. Of course, the Review should not be out before the Lecture is delivered.

When would you want the MS?

I have permission to print trans. lations of Goethe's letters. They are so many and treat of such different subjects that I can only give them which bear on the subject of World literature.

I have not been able to get Carlyle's letters to Goethe. They had been promised to Mr. Charles Norton, and he is going to publish them in America. But he has not got Goethe's letters except a few published in Frondi's life of Carlyle.

Yours truly,

J. H. Mac Miller.
16 April 86

My dear Sir,

I was in London and have acccepted the last Saturday in May for my lecture provided they can find a room to lecture in.

I do not know Mr. Charles Norton's present address, but I understand that his book will grow into a life of Carlyle with a large amount of Correspondence.

All these letters willopeous be published.
in German, I suspect, by the Government of Ludwig Wiener and the German Gothic Society.

I hope the truth of May will not be too cold for my Mrs. I have still a great deal to read, chiefly in Mrs. too, and that takes up much time.

Yours very truly,

F. S. H. Walker
7, Norham Gardens, Oxford.

7 May 86

My dear Sir,

I send you the MS. of my article on Wodehouse literature, illustrated by some newly discovered letters of Goethe to Carlyle.

I hope the printer will be able to make it out, but I should be glad to have a revise soon. I have some more letters which I could add, - a curious Testimonial until Goett wrote for Carlyle when he stood for the Moral Philosophy Chair at Aberdeen. But I think the article as it stands is closely long. We shall see when it is in type.

Yours truly

F. Max Müller
7, Norham Gardens, Oxford.

20 May 86

Dear Mr. Bunting,

I hope my proofsheets arrived in time. You were so kind on former occasions as to let me have some separate copies of my articles. Might I ask for the same favour again?

Yours very truly,

F. Max Müller
My dear sir,

I thought you had done the titles, and so I copied it better than my own, that was 'World literature, illustrated by letters from Goethe to Carlyle.' I think the Preface to the Society will be more attractive, but whatever title you prefer, I shall be satisfied.

Our Society counts 200 members in England, and nearly 2,000 in Germany.

Yours very truly,
T. [Signature]
7, Norham Gardens, Oxford.

5 June 86

Dear Mr. Bunting,

I received the enclosed letter from Mr. Nutt, the Assistant Secretary of the English Guth Society. I do not know whether you approve of his proposal, and shall wait till I hear from you before answering his letter.

I have no objection, provided the reprint of my article is confined to Members of...
It Goethe Society and is not for sale.

There are a few more misprints that might be corrected - twice Carlyle for Carlyle, p. 194, l. 3 from below, 785, l. 2 from below.

Yours truly,

F. Max Müller
7, Norham Gardens,
Oxford.

9 April 81

Dear Sir,

I am going to deliver an address on Goethe and World literature in the last week of May, having been chosen President of the new English Goethe Society. My materials are chiefly Goethe's letters to Carlyle, which have been lately found at Weimar and entrusted to me for my address.
have not been published before, either in German or English, except one or two in Prout's life of Carlyle.

Would you have room for my address in the June number of the Contemporary Review.

Yours truly,

F. Max Muller
My dear Sir,

I send you my article on Goethe. I have had to correct a good deal, and I hope the corrections will be carefully made. The proof was so badly printed that I preferred to strike it out.

I have added a different ending which I hope you will approve of.

Goethe's testimonial to Carlyle is too long, otherwise I should have been glad to insert it in my article.

Would you kindly send me two copies. of the recov.

Yours truly

F. [Signature]
My dear Sir,

I send you a Ms. which was sent to me by a Hungarian gentleman. It will want a good deal of trimming, but the subject may possibly interest people in England.

Yours very truly,

E. Max Müller
5th April 54

My dear Sir,

Many thanks for cheque for £10. 10. I hope the article may do some good. Its somableness was entirely due to you. I know there is a strong feeling for France in England there is even a fear of a revival of a universal German Democracy as under Charles V. Still I cannot help thinking that England would prove her friendship by making it impossible for France to think of war.

Yours very truly,

F. Max Müller

I wonder whether you would give me a review of my "Science of Thought" in the Cost. Review. I believe there were a few notes on it in one of the numbers some time ago, but, as far as I remember, written by a contributor who had found no time to read my book and who had not even understood the drift of the Table of Contents.

I could never see in two men at Oxford who could write a bona fide review of the book. The subject is surely of the highest importance. I do not see why I should not say so. I did not make the facts; I only described them such as they are. But T. J. James Stephens in the 18th Century should have been the first to see what I mean is curious, though I can quite understand that a study of law must lead a man to the same conclusions as a study of language. Nothing exists in law except what has been named, and the very life of law is definition of its language.
7, Norham Gardens,
Oxford.

March 27, 91

My dear Sir,

I wonder whether the enclosed short article would suit the Cont. Review. It would please people in India, I believe.

Yours very truly,

[Signature]

T. MacMillan
May 10. 51

My dear Sir,

I send you a short article which may possibly interest you or others at the present moment. It is an account of Nathan Brown, the missionary and linguist, who spent the best part of his life among those hill tribes, north of Manipur, who are giving such trouble at present.
This life has just been published in America, but I doubt whether any copy has reached England yet. I went to correspond with him many years ago and gave the results of his labours in my letter to Charles Bunyan, published in 1856.

Yours very truly,

[Signature]

F. Max Müller
14. Hertford Street, Mayfair, W.

June 8, 1854

My dear Sir,

I thank you very much for your letter which I take, of course, consider as confidential. I only wish you had been quite candid with me before. I sincerely hope that the payment which you offered me, and which I always receive from Mr. Review, was your usual payment or your usual maximum. Most of my articles are written for a purpose, not for profit. What I like is being told & I receive twice as much as you do from such & such a review.
My purpose in delivering the lecture on it.
Parliament of Religion was to move public opinion in England to that sense. I see the great importance of the Meeting.
It is easy that it should have been so completely ignored in England. I do not remember a single article on the subject. I have been asked by many people what that Meeting meant, and I have little doubt that my article would receive attention, prompt contribution.
Mr. American Pilgrim was a success or a failure does not matter much. Even that idea was good in itself, and may have some front by and by. I say we ought not to wait for success before we say Bravo!

I am urged to send the article to an American paper, but I prefer I am sorry it should not appear in an authoritative reviewer in England. Mr. Knowles will not have it, because he says it is meant as an advertisement of Dr. Dunn. I don't think that is a very good idea, but I never argue with an Editor, so I shall say no more to you beyond expressing my conviction. that the article would be 'bien sin' in America, and would help forward a movement. I think, I should think, you, as Editor of the Ant. Review, would approve.

Yours very sincerely

G. Max Miller
Dear Sir,

A friend of mine, Dr. Wissensitz, asked me to submit to you the enclosed Ms. It is a lecture which is to be delivered at Oxford. It facts are correctly stated, but I am not sure whether it would suit the readers of your Review. Dr. Wissensitz is a poor man, and would be pleased to know that it is to reach its mark.

Yours very faithfully,

T. Max Müller
7, Norham Gardens,
Oxford.
18 Jan. '95

My dear Sir,

I send you a paper which has been sent to me from Italy. I did not expect much, but now that I have finished it, it strikes me as very good. I think it is worth a perusal. It was later to be sent, but it requires revision by a scientific writer. It seems to me that if possible in a Begbie Review, it would be well admimed. Please let me know what you think of it.

Yours sincerely

F. MacBride
7, Norham Gardens, Oxford.
5 Dec. 95

Dear Mr. Hunting

Would you look at an article I sent you on the late Centenary of the French Institute?
It is written by Mr. New Miller.
As it relates to a recent event, it would be desirable I saw it published at an early date.

Yours truly,
F. Mac Miller
7, Norham Gardens, Oxford.

17 Feb. 99.

Dear Sir,

I have been asked to forward to you a manuscript paper for consideration in a Contemporary Review. I should be glad if I could have a line from you stating that I could send to the writer in case you reject it or accept it.

Yours faithfully,

T. Max Müller
Dean Park House, Edinburgh.

3 March 88

Dear Sir,

I will think very seriously of the proposal that you have put forward at present. I think I may have time to give it a careful consideration.

With all respect,

Short paper as you.
shak n. But the idea is good: you might Men with names. Meanwhile,

Lam. Gordon

[Signature]

W. Muir
My dear Sir,

Not assuming any value than you yourself, I am...

my mind agrees with bringing the...

sense of hearing the...

must ask you...

cause me from the...
I am sorry that at the present time, at any rate, I am not in a position to accept your Cordially for the proposal. I am.

W. Muir

[Handwritten note suggesting a short trip to the Continent for the Bologna 8 Centenary.] I have not begun to elaborate what I have not begun to do. -- Even if I felt qualified for it, it is not something which I am orthodox in.
Standard Office
Buenos Ayres
March 5th, 1887

Dear Mr. Bunting,

On arrival here, 17th ult., I found your very kind letter of Dec. 10th, enclosing cheque, for which accept my thanks.

At the time I left London you were away in the Black Forest or Samarcand or some place off the beaten track. I hope your trip did you good. The climate here is very delightful after England. If we had the British Museum, Library, 2 Richmond Park, 2 half-a-dozen cultivated friends from London, life here would be perfect.

I do not expect to return to England this year. I have a very pretty country-house which I built for my wife 15 years ago, only 30 minutes by rail, & I have notified the tenant to leave.

If you could spare a vacation trip of 90 days, my wife & self would be delighted to take care of you for a month.
I show you something of B. Types. I also of the camp or bush life. Our months from March to Nov. 30th are delightful, quite a paradise, for anyone desirous of repose the trip to B. Types is the best thing imaginable. You see this canoe on route.

Hoping you and family are well.

Yours faithfully,

Michael J. Muthill

Percy W. Bunting Esq.

London
Harcourt
Balbriggan
Oct. 29th 1890

Dear Mr. Bunting,

Accept my best thanks for yours of yesterday with cheque enclosed. My large cyclopedia of statistics from all times & climes is now going through the press: it is double-column, double imperial, uniform with Chambers cyclopedia. I shall have the pleasure to present you with a copy as an old & valued friend, & I know you will kindly accept it. Hoping that you & yours are in good health.

I remain,

Yours Faithfully,

P.W. Bunting Esq.

M.J. Mulhall

[Signature]
With compliments of
M. J. Mulhall
Yancoott
Balbriggan
Co. Dublin
Killiney Peak.
Co. Dublin.

Sept. 11th 1894

Dear Mr. Bunting,

Your kind letter, enclosing a cheque, is to hand. We are disappointed that you cannot come over for a week to see as beautiful a stretch of country as can be seen anywhere, short of Rio Tavigne. Next month (Oct.) we mean to take the P. & O. on the Orient steamer for Naples, to pass the winter in Italy.

The abrogation of the treaties is certainly right on principle, and may turn out beneficial. But the jubilation of people like Sir Howard Vincent tends to create a feeling... of the "Latet anguis in herba" kind. You can never trust the Tories. In imperial Zollverein is uppermost in their thoughts; moreover, look at how they have abandoned the Agricultural Department for Ireland after promising it in two "Queen's speeches."

The condition of this unfortunate island is becoming worse every day. I have now resided here 3 years, and seen much. During my 10 years in London I really knew less of the state of Ireland than I did of Belgium. No wonder that Englishmen fail to understand the case of Ireland and quit every well-meaned effort so futile that they give up in despair.

This island is held and governed by 300 Orangemen, for the benefit of themselves and their families. It is Sparta after a new form: for Helots, read Roman Catholic.

But Sparta had great men in her oligarchy, whereas, the Orangemen here are mostly a stupid, illiterate, horse-breeding, horse-racing, whiskey-drinking faction. So we can hope for nothing from them to regenerate Ireland, and as for the "plebs" they are little better than what you lawyers call "adverse globes."

The best thing for Paddy is to emigrate; but this is ruinous to Ireland: all the best go.

Yours faithfully,

Michael J. McShane