Dear Sirs

I cannot think of enclosing a letter for your wife Mrs. Horn. without inquiring after you - who I trust has not suffered but trifled, from the journey. These the last accounts from abroad were more favourable - I heard of James lately, he had been long ill - but thanks God, then quite recovered - but must go to return home for a twelve month. to recover - after it - which I trust he will, if there is no war - your friend Mrs. Campbell is in good health - as we now in our own house - & tho' you doubt must approve of the new town - you must allow our prosperous from I never thought to be so Beautiful - that it makes up for other faults - Mrs. Moore is in good health we meet very often - in spite of the distance
