MANY FREE ATTRACTIONS

Step through the gates of the replica of old Fort Dearborn and you step back more than a century into Chicago’s history. This great attraction will be open free on Homecoming Day, October 6.

You need not journey to the remote interior of China to see the celebrated Golden Temple of Jehol. Its exact replica will be visible to you free of charge at the Fair on Homecoming Day.

When darkness settles over the Fair grounds, the faithful star Arcturus performs its nightly miracle of turning on the lights. Three miles of Chicago’s lakefront flashes and gleams like a rajah’s jewels—a never-to-be-forgotten sight.
Attend CHICAGO WEEK at the CENTURY OF PROGRESS... October 6–12, incl.

Free conducted tours... free field events... free shows... bargain attractions... sensational super-spectacles... mammoth fireworks display... prizes and souvenirs... seven days of fun and education for the home folks.

CONCEIVED in a time of great prosperity as a celebration of the marvelous century which began at the time Chicago was incorporated as a village, and carried through to completion during a great depression, A Century of Progress truly exemplifies the indomitable spirit of Chicago.

Chicago proved that she could “take it” when she rose triumphant from the ashes of one of the greatest conflagrations of modern times. The anniversary of that disaster, October 9, has ever since been “Chicago Day.” It celebrates the spirit of a city that marches on to a greater commercial, civic and spiritual destiny in spite of all temporary setbacks.

“Chicago Day” was the high point of the great Columbian Exposition of 1893. It will be the high point of A Century of Progress. No matter how many times you have been to the Fair, make your plans now to share in the celebration of “Chicago Day,” and plan to attend every other day of Chicago Week. Come often to the greatest of all expositions!

Chicago Week starts with Homecoming Day. Write your relatives and friends who used to call Chicago “home” to come back for the week. Let’s have a family reunion!
