Major Doyle is Unexpectedly Opposed for Mayor

GIANT CHESTER CASS REFORM PARTY CHOICE TO HEAD MIDGEL VILLAGE

The atom against the massive David-Goliath contest—fight of the Lilliputian against the Brobdingnagian.
That is the fight for Mayor of Midget Village at the Century of Progress, as a result of the announcement of a "reform" party in the forthcoming mayoral race.

Thus Maj. James D. Doyle, two-time burgomaster of the bright little city, faces for the first time a serious contention in the race for the coveted job in Midget Village's ancient city hall.

Chester Cass, the giant guardman at the Castle gate, has announced his candidacy on a reform ticket.

For Common People
"Down with political rings," cries Giant Cass in opening his campaign. "The police department needs new blood. Give the people a chance. This is a fight between the common people and the office holders."

Major Doyle is little perturbed. "Let them investigate my office and the military police department all they wish. They'll find a real business administration here."

Mayor Doyle last night told a reporter that it had been reported to him that his political rival was enraged because, having been arrested for stepping over a midget house and disarranging the brick chimney, he had been unable to obtain bail and had to stay in the village lock-up over night.

Mayor Explains
"He was so tall," said Major Doyle, "we had to get a hose reel and wind him up on it in order to get him into a cell. He now complains of curvature of the spine for spending the night on the hose reel, but that is just his excuse for a crooked existence."

Giant Cass, however, complaining of "Cosack police," declares that the house over which he stepped was only two stories, anyway, and that when the police came, they refused him a seat on top of the patrol wagon. He had to carry eighteen from the riot squad cards, he said, in his arms, whereupon two of the detectives cut off locks of his hair.

GROVER KELLEY CHIEF SPEAKER FOR RETAILERS

WILL GIVE CHICAGO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION PLAN FOR MEETING INFLATION PRICE PROBLEMS

Ald. Charles E. Kelley, Midget Village's leading grocer, as principal speaker before the Chicago and Cook County Retail Grocers and Butchers' association June 22, provides a lesson in sound merchandising for all retail merchants. He discussed "Inflation Price Problems."

"Inflation price problems are not as simple as some new problems," declared Alderman Kelley, "They are so complicated that they might be more strictly attributed to the basic elements of sound merchandising at all times."

In brief, the situation is: More difficult purchasing by persons now compelled to watch their budget outgo and more difficult problems of collections.

The Dealers' Troubles
The retailer's difficulty is to keep a sufficiently varied stock.

Leading Business Man Claims Unfair Advantage of Adults; Appeals to Children for Major Doyle

Direct charges that unfair advantage of the tiny population of Midget Village was being taken by Chester Cass, giant candidate for mayor, were made last night by Herbert Rice, proprietor of the leading Plaza bar and tobacco store.

"Adults grown-ups are being misled by propagandists who whisper to them that Mayor Doyle plans to have 53 inches of the giant's legs cut off, if the man-mountain loses the election, to keep him from looking into third-story windows of Midget Village."

"This is a base canard. It is silly on its very face. The giant still could peer into second-story windows and besides, there is no room in Midget hospital long enough to house the giant during the operation."

"The tale doubles tough out of a casual remark by Mayor Doyle that the giant should be fed mushrooms; that another foot in height and he could not bend over enough to look into any windows—and could be used to relieve the battlefront, because he could look over everything at the far except the sky ride."

The Business Men's Association is firmly behind Mayor Doyle's business administration. They declare the only support the giant is receiving is from the habitues of the night clubs, the theatrical folks and those seeking to avoid personal property taxes.

Lactaire Medal for Third Year Won for Cleanliness and General Health Conditions

Considerable pride was evidenced in Midget Village today when it became known that for the third successive year, the Lactaire Medallion for Sanitation Engineering had been awarded to Lafayette Dose, chief of the village's health and sanitation departments.

A score of 98.4 was given Mr. Dose by the board of urban inspectors who spent a week scouring the village for evidences of municipal uncleanliness and in sanitation.

Score Almost 100

A cigarette and a cigar stub thrown by a visitor behind the shrubs north of the support of Castle Gate; a match left by a guard in the guardroom on the north bastion of the castle rampart and a crumpled soda straw in North Market, constituted the sole imperfections discovered by the inspectors.

Grocery's Good Score

In comfort, convenience and sanitary condition of foodstuffs, Kelley's Midget Village Grocery also scored 100 per cent, a tribute which Mr. Kelley gallantly gave to his wife, manager of the grocery.

Midnight Village Cafe Given O. K. by Floyd Gibbons, Tex Guinan

Restful, Reasonable Tavern Garden and Atom Cafe Appeal to Nodding Headlines of Stage and Radio

Celebrity twilitights at Tavern Garden, which operates in conjunction with Atom Cafe in Midnight Village, are becoming quite the thing.

Floyd Gibbons, International correspondent and radio star, discovered the peaceful quiet of the Tavern Garden's open-air terrace, removed from the bustle and much ado of the Midway, where the moderately priced fine food of this unique cafe could be enjoyed within full view of the stage where the entertaining theatrical revue is given.

"This is the most restful and peaceful dining place in the grounds," declared Mr. Gibbons.

What a rest it is, after the hubbub of the Midway, which seems miles away, instead of the few yards it is.

"The food tastes better within the sight of these quaint Bavarian Swiss chalets and the dinner your waiter has brought to you, takes on new gusto. Believe me, this is my place for tea or dinner or supper whenever I'm at the grounds."

Tex Guinan, world famous club hostess, agrees with Mr. Gibbons, enthusiastically—which is the only Tex can agree, anyway—enthusiastically.

"Get I'm giving myself a great big hand for finding this place," said Miss Guinan.

"You don't want to wise-crack here. You just want to laz around, take a load off your feet, fill up with good food and a modicum of good beer and smile at life!"

And you can eat with the giant's themselves and are they interesting! And cute! Say, I won't mention his name, but I dared not propose to one of them, myself, before I remembered that Leap Year was over."

Dinner parties, tea parties and supper parties are becoming the rage among Chicanos who have learned of the quiet comfort and utter oddity of this Alpine atmosphere, open-air garden of good food.

Home Rule Defeat Told by Giansard

Home rule for villages has its serious dangers, declares Alderman at Large Homer H. Parks, who represents the giant contingent at Midget Village Common Council.

"Minorities in villages have absolutely no equality in representation," declared Ald. Parks, who is urging the state legislature to recover supervision of Midget Village involving as it does privileges and rights and fishery rights are concerned.

"There are only four giants in Midget Village," he declared last night before the Dinklebuehl Civic Club. "Physically, each giant is the equivalent of eight midets. Our expenditures are more than eight times that of a midet, for food, clothing and shelter.

"Yet we have only one-sixth the representation on the city council. We are allowed only a twenty-fifth of the extra-mural social representation. We are taxed a tenth of the whole taxation in the village's personal property, are denied the right to build within the village limits and 100 per cent of us are required to do communal labor.

"We simply ask the legislature to give us that equality which was mentioned in the Declaration of Independence.

"We are lining up solidly behind our candidate for mayor, Chester Cass, in the hope of regaining at least an approach to equal privileges.

The giant contingent, besides Alderman Parks, who is 7 feet 4½ inches tall and weighs 258 pounds, includes: Chester Cass, 7 feet 9 inches, 230 pounds; High Johnson, 7 feet, 10 inches, 242 pounds; and Jesse Adams, 7 feet, 4½ inches, 241 pounds.

GIANTS PRESENT PLAN FOR UNIQUE FIRE PROTECTION

Clever Political Move by Mayoral Candidate Possesses Much Merit

The village giant contingent has formed an association and tendered its services to Mayor James D. Doyle for future firefighting service in the village.

The move, which is purely philanthropic in purpose and sure to win wide acclaim from the villagers, is yet regarded by the wiseacres as a master political move by Chester Cass, giant candidate against Mayor Doyle's re-election.

High Johnson, tallest of the giants and able to see over all the houses in the village except the City Hall itself, will act as watch tower, reporting and locating any fires which break out.

One as Fire Tower

Jesse Adams, who is 7 feet 4½ inches tall, will act as fire tower, and will attend all fires to lift hose and firemen directly to the floor level where the flames appear, on any of the buildings.

Alderman Homer S. Parks, "buskidiest" of the giants, will act as hook and ladder truck, performing any skyscraper rescue with his hands.

Wiseley keeping in the background, Candidate Cass is known to be the originator, sponsor and founder of the plan, and to have prepared the letter transmitting the proposal to the Council, which says, in part:

"The human element always has been overlooked in fire hazards. Too many persons perish in flames because they become so scared they lose their heads.

"Also, injured, sick and crippled people and those who are overcome by smoke or are asleep have need of an outside agency to rescue them despite their helplessness.

A Human Ladder

"A burned wire will render an alarm system useless; this difficulty will be overcome by High Johnson's 7 feet 10 inches."

"Jesse Adams not only can lift hose to upper floors of any skyscraper, but can hold a midget fire crew on either hand to present themselves directly before the burning section of the building."

"Alderman Parks not alone can lift down to safety those who are cut off by flames on upper levels, but can reach into any upper room in the Village and rescue those who would otherwise be doomed to perdition by the flames."

Candidate Cass already has received much praise for the idea.

CLUB HAS PROBLEM AS WOMEN SEEK TO GAIN MEMBERSHIP

Executives' Gallantry Puts Them on Spot for Business Session After Friday's Luncheon

Executives Club will hold its next semi-monthly luncheon in Atom Cafe at Tavern Garden next Friday, Alderman Jimmie Rosen, chairman of the entertainment committee, has selected as speaker for the luncheon, Frank H. Delaplane, publisher and business manager of the Midget Village News, who will speak on "The Relation Between Perspiration and Remuneration in Business." Judge Geo. Liable will preside.

Women Are Equal

"Women have taken their equal place in business with men in many lines of endeavor," declared Mrs. Kelley last night. "There is nothing in the program of Executives Club which makes women out of place as members.

"Executive women have exactly the same problems as executive men, and while we expect to gain much from membership in the club, we feel that women's intuitive sympathy with problems of merchandising, of employment management and of relation between business man and buyer is such that we can make an equal contribution with men."

If the club opens its membership rolls to women, applications are expected at once from Miss Jennie Quigley, owner of Hotel Fu Fine and social doyenne of the Village; Mrs. Geo. Liable of the Spielzeug or toyhouse; Miss Sadie Jane Williams of the Bank shop, and Mrs. Elinie Schultz of the Pharmacy.

NOW HAVE PROBLEM

Haveng evaded the question for months, the Executives Club will be brought face to face with the question of women's membership in this heretofore male-dominated organization, by a petition presented by Mrs. Charles E. Kelley, business manager of the Midget Village Grocer, and Mrs. Flo Rothschild, proprietress of the Midget Beauty Salon, for membership.

The women sized upon the men's moment of weakness last month when, in a burst of gallantry, they admitted Duchesse Louise, hostess and secretary to Mayor James D. Doyle, to honorary membership.

GUARDS’ COSTUME PARTY PRESENTS UNIQUE CONTEST FOR THE QUEEN

The annual costume party of the Midget Village Royal Guards, the famous organization which runs back to the medieval days before Midget Village was a free city, will take place Aug. 22, in the old Tower Guard Room of City Hall. The highly colorful costumes of the Royal guards will, for once, match the brilliance of costuming of the feminine contingent.

Special invitations have been forwarded by Prince Dennis, Captain of the Royal Guard, to the guardians at Belgian Village in the Century of Progress grounds, whose costumes will lend new splendor to the occasion.

A unique situation has developed in the annual contest for queen of the Guardsmen’s ball, in that two sisters, Stella and Helen Royal, are equal contenders with Princess Suzanne and the Duchesse Louise who at present moment lead the contestants. Others high up on the voting lists thus far for queen include Sadie Williams, Janet Newman and Grace Gould.

Thus much as voting has only begun, it is much too early to predict a winner.

By common consent, Mike and Ike, the twins, have withdrawn from the race, on the ground that no one possibly could tell which one he was voting for, because they look so much alike. Also, it was pointed out, their selection would lead to grave social consequences afterward, for each could claim to have been the real king and no one could determine which was which.

Already, discretion has broken out in the administration. There have been grumblings from the silk-stocking North ward that the entire street cleaning force, consisting of Lafayette Dose, has been recruited from the South ward, and prominent committee-men complain that, whereas they get none of the village patronage, they are called upon to furnish a lion’s share of the men for guard duty on the battlements.

PHILADELPHIA PARTIALLY SWEET CREAM CHEESE
NATIONAL DEFENSE

We shall live in the air, this coming century of progress.

And in the air we shall carry our important progress.

And in the air will lie the dangers of future wars. Silently, in the night, death may lurk; no city longer is isolated, no farm home free from danger. Safety, too, lies in the air.

It is refreshing to note that leading and far-seeing businessmen are recognizing this. Arthur Brisbane has not pleaded in vain, as a voice, calling in the wilderness.

Witness the interest taken in aviation by the Curtis Candy Co., in offering special prizes for aviation accomplishment in the Century of Progress air meet.

But Baby Ruth, supplying sweetness and sugar for energy, also hopes to help supply common sense to national defense.

Without such preparation, the unknown entirely will have to rely on the armed military guard of Midletown Village which you see walking sentry duty on the parapets of the battles.

SMALL THINGS

In the midst of your enjoyment, entertainment, and excitement in Midletown Village, take a moment for serious thought, of the slogan of MIDLETOWN VILLAGE NEWS: "Be Right in Little Things."

Many a cub reporter longs for a "big story," so he can show the editor what a great writer he is. But he ignores the little stories day by day, and thus fails to prepare himself, to recognize the big story when it comes; and second, to know how to handle it when it does come.

What this country needs is a host of men and women who will look carefully after little things which, in the absence of bigger things, may come to appear rather important, after all.

A dollar really is made up of cents; great building of single minds. Five pieces of carbon control all the lights of the Century of Progress.

Give careful attention to small things. Real enjoyment comes from them. Perfection is built on them.

WELFARE COMES FIRST

While somewhat in sympathy with Mayor James D. Doyle's candidacy for re-election for mayor of Midletown Village, we nevertheless feel, as an independent newspaper, the urge to remind all residents of the Village that the welfare of the community comes above personal considerations.

The proposal of his rival, giant Chester Cass, to form a fire brigade of giants which can light the fire on upper stories of any skyscraper in the village, is meritorious.

Mayor Doyle should stop his upper stories from attaching the fire of his rival, on the trivial grounds that the giants, in rescuing persons from flames, would be "given a license to invade the privacy of upper story dwellers, to their embarrassment," by peeping into windows.

Gather in closer, brethren, and listen to Uncle Nat, while he tells you somewhat about the Midletown Village, where the heart of the Midway.

It's a wonderful and a natural, my masters, believe me. Nothing like it elsewhere on land or sea.

Can you imagine twenty midlets in one village? That's not enough. Can you imagine fifty? Living in a complete little town all their own? You're still shy on imagination for here there's even an hundred of them—the tiniest people in the world, running as complete and attractive a town as any ever saw.

BETTER THAN TOWN

Better than any town, take it from me, for here there's no taxes, either for the little folks or for you after you get in, unless you gather up a scuttle full of the souvenirs, or give your friends a good time by mailing them a copy of the Midletown Village News with its laugh in every line, or do yourself a benefit by dining in the Tavern Garden.

Now, there's a place, that Tavern Garden. Al fresco dining. If you like it, which means dining out of doors, to you and me—or inside if you prefer. Midlets to eat with you if you want to broaden your education by talking to them. Quiet as a country roadside, too, though a hundred feet away the Midway's going in full blast.

Hot Dogs Look Bigger

The hot dogs look bigger when a midlet hands one to you, if you buy one, and how big a bottle of pop looks! You may want to grab off some souvenirs—canes, pennants, airplanes, glass pottery or the like and there's masses of places for that.

Give your eye a shot at an absolutely perfect grocery store in full blast.

Or see a whole drug store—or let Mayor Doyle and his brass band and the band of the community come to an above personal consideration.

WE TRY EATING RIGHT, VISITING IN MIDGET VILLAGE

Little Folk, Says Jean Prescott Adams, Can Teach Us Common Sense in Balanced Diets

By JEAN PREScott ADAMS

Dinner-types of hunger are appeased easily. It is the subtle hunger of bones, nerves, tissues and the faculties which must have more informed attention.

While most of the contents of this issue of the MIDGET VILLAGE NEWS need not be, taken too seriously—indeed, much of it should not be taken seriously, in hot weather—there nevertheless remains in a study of these little folk in Midget Village a great deal of practical instruction which seems too valuable to overlook in humor.

Therefore, while you enjoy, elsewhere in this issue, the spectacle of normal human affairs dawarded by the clever hands of the editor into the supposed realm of midget-world, let us give serious consideration to some lessons easily gained in this, the most restful, interesting and instructive of almost all the Century of Progress features.

Even as we dine so comfortably, so delightfully and, as usual, so generously in the Village Tavern Garden, let us do more than relax (as one can, here away from the noisy exposition) and watch the little people; let us do some thinking.

These midgets are completely developed, just as are all of us, only on a small scale, certain pituitary deficiencies resulting in halting their growth.

We’re Bigger, But—

The small amount they eat completely satisfies all the functions and faculties of a body as complete as ours.

But, it will be said, our bodies are so much larger than theirs, we must eat that much more! And yet so many complain, in the same breath, that their bodies are TOO much larger— in such places as abdomen, hips, etc.

It’s the same old story in new guise — We eat more than we need to, or should, for our own good health.

And it’s the second story in new guise — When we do “diet,” we take on an unbalanced, high-sided food curriculum which reduses weight, to our own health disadvantage.

These little people’s little eating, supplies all they need, because their diet, containing less of each element, yet embraces all the elements needed for keeping on its toes a human being.

Our Diet Needs

The results of scientific feeding experiments emphasize the necessity for more fruits, vegetables and grains in the American diet.

The vital elements in vegetables too often are lost through careless cooking. To be cooked perfectly, a vegetable should retain all its nutrients possible, keeping its color and flavor; most vegetables are overcooked.

A general rule is: Above-ground vegetables should be cooked in boiling water, in an uncovered kettle. Below ground vegetables should be cooked in a covered container.

Put green vegetables (except spinach and very tender greens) into boiling salted water; cook the first ten minutes with uncovered kettle; drain immediately they are done. No soda, in water for green vegetables.

Cook yellow vegetables in very little water, quickly.

In cooking red vegetables, add a little acid such as lemon or vinegar, to hold their color.

Steam, oven-bake or boil white vegetables and remove and dress them the moment they are done.

Time for Cooking

Boiling time for vegetables: Spinach, 5 minutes; cabbage, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower and asparagus, 10 minutes or less; potatoes, carrots, rutabagas, turnips and young peas, shelled, 20 minutes; beans 30 minutes; beets, 50 minutes.

We should, also, balance our vitamin diet. Do we remember all the uses of the vitamins—A, to fortify against infection and develop sight, in green leaves and yellow vegetables; B, for the nerves, in roots, fruits, cereals and yeast; C, for the skin and against anemia, in fruit juices and milk (don’t heat them in open air); D, the “sunshine” vitamin, in irradiated foods, egg yolks and butter.

How may we have an entirely balanced diet without including meat, emphasizing the elements we said were so much needed in the American diet? In an adjoining space I will give such a sample menu.

As we sit in this twilight of peace in Midget Village, almost seeming to be far away in the Alps or in quaint Bavaria, let us resolve to test this diet out for a full week—nothing else eating moderately, and see how we feel.

If we keep faith with ourselves in this, we shall find that Midget Village was our favorite spot in the Exposition—for another reason.

In meet demands; allow no items to accumulate with destractive demands on credit, and avoid accumulation of slow accounts.

"After all, isn’t that the eternal problem of the retailer? I suggest not only thinking about, but putting into practice, these principles:"

"As to stock: Keep only nationally advertised items which will move.

"When items stick to the shelves, sell price them off.

"Steops in the financial problem are: First, keep your credit sound; second, earn a living; third, extend that surplus profit.

Personal Advertising

"As to selling: Increase your personal advertising by reminding customers of bargains or new, fresh, seasonable items seasonable by weather of the day, as well as by the season.

"As to collections: If you were a customer, unemployed or with lessened income, how would YOU do your buying? Write down all the plans you would have to make to get by, if you were a customer. Then work up such plans for your store, so you can help customers meet their problems. If a customer is in difficulty in paying you, have a FRIENDLY talk with him and work up, together, a plan to help HIM.

"In other words, be a neighborhood, friendly, business man."
Helpful Information for Visitors to Century of Progress

June, 1933

BOB BARTLEY

Director of Promotion, A Century of Progress

FOR THE CONVENIENCE of those who visit the Century of Progress grounds, we have prepared the following information for your guidance. It is intended to be a quick-check, which is the essence of the Niagara Falls Railroad, and to make appearance as far as possible a pleasant one for a visitor from anywhere, especially if he has never been in Chicago before.

WHERE IS THE COUNTRY WHERE YOU ARE?

Go to the promenade, where there is a large map of the world. You will see that the United States is surrounded by many countries, and that the part of the world which you are now in is the United States.

SAFETY PROVISIONS

All major buildings are steel-framed, as far as possible, so that in case of fire they cannot be carried away.

The Exposition has a complete fire department, and these are being carried out in every building.

ANCHOR BUILDINGS are in the south and north sides of the grounds. On the southern side, the Exposition is in the north and south sides of Van Buren Bridge to the mainland. If you stop by the lake at your right and the city skyline at your left, you look directly on the north side of the river. In the night, the moonlight makes the color of the river at the north.

GROUNDS MAP—The Exposition will be built in four basic parts. Group 1 is a North Park which includes the grounds to the north part of the river, and the main entrance, Rosemont Road and Grand Park Drive. Group 2 is the central area, between the railroad and the river. Group 3 is the main building of the World's Fair, and the central area of the grounds. Group 4 is the north part of the river, including the railway bridge.

OUTSIDE THE GROUNDS

EXTRA-MURAL EXHIBITS—Outside the walls of the Exposition, there are places where you might properly be to visit. The South Park is one of the most interesting places to visit. It is located in the southern part of the city, and is open to the public. The main entrance is on Park Avenue, near the center of the city. From the main entrance, you can walk to any part of the South Park. The main park is divided into two parts, the north park and the south park. The north park is located in the southern part of the city, and is open to the public. From the main entrance, you can walk to any part of the north park.

CHICAGO CITY NUMBERS

CITY OF CHICAGO—Chicago numbers run north and south from Madison Street, the principal east-west streets of the city. That is for north and south. For east and west, you must keep to the river. General, all numbers are 500 north or south. For east and west, you must keep to the river. General, all numbers are 500 north or south.

Helpful Information for Visitors to Century of Progress

By E. ROSS BARTLEY
Director of Promotion, A Century of Progress

FOR THE CONVENIENCE of those who visit the Century of Progress grounds for the first time, and who may not be familiar with the "lay of the land" on these new acres which house the exposition, the following information is given. It is not intended to be a guide-book, which is obtainable on the concourse stand throughout the grounds. However, there is condensed herein some information not generally included in such guide-books. It is prepared as though for a visitor from far away, who never had been in Chicago before.

WHICH WAY IS NORTH?

EDITED BY E. ROSS BARTLEY

WHICH WAY IS NORTH?—To orient yourself as to compass directions, remember that, both on Northerly Island and on the mainland, the principal thoroughfares run directly north and south. The Sky Ride cables run east and west. On the mainland, Field's Museum, the Aquarium and the Administration Buildings are at the north limits of the grounds; and Roosevelt Road, which is known to old-timers as Twelfth Street. The water shoreline runs north and south, and so do the Illinois Central railroad tracks on the west side of the grounds. On northerly Island, the Planetarium is at the north; the south end of the Island leads onto Venetian Bridge to the mainland. If you stand with the lake at your right and the city skyline at your left, you look directly north. At night, the fan-shaped searchlight display of rainbow colors is at the south.

FOUR GROUPS—Roughly, the Exposition might be said to fall into four groups. Group No. 1 would be Northerly Island, east of the lagoon. Group No. 2 would be the north part of the mainland, from Roosevelt Road and Grant Park down to Twenty-third street. Group No. 3 would be on the mainland from Twenty-third street to Twenty-ninth street, and would include the Midway and model home sections. Group No. 4 would be mainly the transportation section, from the big General Motors, Chrysler, and Maytag Temple structures to the south end of the grounds at Thirty-ninth street.

OUTSIDE THE GROUNDS

EXTRA-MURAL EXHIBITS—Outside the walls of the Exposition grounds are three groups which might properly be called parts of the Exposition, no one of which you will want to miss. They might be called Groups 4, 5, and 6. Group 4 would comprise the Field Museum of Natural History and the Shedd Aquarium, just outside the northern gates to the grounds. In many details nothing like them exist in the world. Group 5 would comprise the Art Institute, visible to the north across Grant Park from the North Gate of the grounds. It is on the east (park) side of Michigan Boulevard at Adams street. Here is presented the Exposition's art exhibit. Group 6 would be the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry, south along the lake shore in Jackson Park, where the World's Columbian Exposition (world's fair of 1893) was held. It occupies what then was the Fine Arts building, most beautiful of all samples of ancient architecture in America. The electrains of the Illinois Central railroad (which runs north and south, parallel with the grounds on their land or west side) busses on Michigan avenue or Lake steamers will take you there.

CHICAGO STREET NUMBERS

CITY STREET NUMBERS—Chicago street numbers run north and south from Madison street, the principal east-and-west street of the city. That is for north-and-south streets. They also number east and west from State street, the second street west of Michigan avenue. Generally, all numbers run 800 to the mile. However, on the South side, Roosevelt road (old Twelfth street) marks the first mile; Cermak road (old Twenty-second street) marks the second mile; Thirty-first street marks the third mile, and thereafter they number 800 numbers to the mile. Going north from Madison street, the mile-streets are Chicago avenue, North avenue, Fullerton avenue, Belmont avenue, Irving Park boulevard, Lawrence avenue, Bryn Mawr avenue; Devon avenue and Touhy avenue. Going west from State street, the mile streets are Halsted street, Ashland avenue, Western avenue, Kedzie avenue, Crawford avenue, Cicero avenue, Central avenue. The mile streets on the south side have been indicated. Thus, a house at 2400 West Thirty-first street would be three miles south of Madison street and three miles west of State street.

ASK QUESTIONS—Two provisions are made in the grounds, to answer every question you may ask. Information booths are plainly marked—at every entrance to the grounds, in each of the major buildings and on long stretches of thoroughfare between buildings. GUIDES are prepared solely to help you see everything safely, satisfactorily, conveniently and comfortably. They are the young college men in the slate-gray uniforms having the red arrows pointing down from their shoulder and carrying yellow swagger sticks. Go to them with all questions; if they cannot answer at once, they will accompany you to where you can be informed.

SAFETY PROVISIONS

All major buildings are steel framed, of fire-resisting material, tested to hold more than can crowd into them. The Exposition has its own complete FIRE DEPARTMENT, just double in capacity to any estimable need. The city's apparatus, both land equipment and fire boats, are connected to our alarm system for immediate availability. Fire alarm boxes are so located that it is said one cannot stand out of view of one.

POLICEMEN are in the red jackets and white tropical hats. There are 250 of them, in addition to the details of expert detectives from the Chicago police department who mingle unnoted with the crowds. Our police telephones system and our police radio system connect with those of the Chicago police department.

There is a complete emergency HOSPITAL on the grounds, with a motor ambulance in each major group mentioned above, alert night and day. The hospital, in the Hall of Sciences, is staffed with physicians and surgeons, nurses and orderlies. Just across the Illinois Central tracks, at the north end of the grounds, is St. Luke's, one of the world's noted hospitals. A few blocks from the Twenty-third street entrance is Wesley Hospital, equally well known. Similarly adjacent to the south end of the grounds is Mercy Hospital, likewise world famous.

NO ONE NEED BE LOST

CHILDREN may be "checked" in a children's paradise—Enchanted Isle on the Northerly Island. They'll have twice as much fun there as you could provide for them, and be as safe as in your own home.

If any of your party becomes "lost," report it to the nearest guide or information station. All over the grounds are giant loud speakers through which your lost friend can be located instantly.

TELEPHONES are located in every major building and may be found also in practically every concession on the grounds.

TELEGRAPH stations likewise are located in all major display buildings. They will handle all telegraph business direct from each station. Messengers also are available at these stations.

DRUG STORES. Three of the finest drug stores, fully equipped, in all Chicago are marked with large signs—"Walgreens.'

KEEPING THE GROUNDS CLEAN—So that those who attend, after you, may find the grounds as clean and inviting as you found them, and for health's sake, waste cans are distributed generously all over the grounds, unobtrusively located, so you may throw your gum papers, cartons and other waste, and the grounds will thus be kept as clean as your own lawn. Will you watch for them?

Every display building and most of the concessions have COMFORT STATIONS with rest room, shoe shining and toilet provisions as complete and clean as in the finest hotel.

Nearly every large building contains drinking fountains.

All foods and drinks used on the grounds are carefully inspected by health authorities; all meats are certified by gov-

... monument inspectors. Sanitary conditions under which foods are dispensed are inspected oftener than daily. Cleanliness and wholesomeness are required, whether in the largest restaurant or the smallest soda shop.

IDENTIFY BUILDINGS and guide yourself by the large white signs sprinkled up and down the thoroughfares, like street signs. If you have purchased an official guide book, and are looking at the map of the grounds—and if you are accustomed to reading maps which have "north" at the top of the page—turn your map so that the widest part of the grounds shown (with the lagoons) is at the top; that's north.

DON'T LOSE VALUABLES!

- POST OFFICE—A complete post office for sending mail is found in the huge E-shaped General Exhibits building south of the Hall of the Sciences, mainland. In this building, likewise, is the LOST AND FOUND department.

Incidentally, the Exposition Management wishes to congratulate the crowds who have attended, on the honesty, neighborliness and courtesy they have displayed, as indicated by the fact nearly every article reported lost has been turned in by its finders. If you lose something, it's good to know that good, neighborly friends will turn it in when found, isn't it?

WRITE DOWN, on a paper to be left at your hotel, the number and date of your railroad tickets, the number of your watch and similar descriptions. Then if this property be lost while in Chicago, you have information for recovering it. Several railroad tickets have been recovered in this way. If transportation be lost, notify the railroad over which you arrived in Chicago, at once.

COMPLAINTS may be given to any Guide. If not satisfactorily handled at once or if its nature requires, come to the Administration Building, notify the young lady at General Information table, and it will be given attention immediately.

RIDING WITHIN THE GROUNDS

GROUNDS TRANSPORTATION—Three handy means of transport within the grounds are provided, if the vast distances which must be covered, to see it all, prove too taxing on feet unaccustomed to it. At each entrance are push chairs, each with an attendant to wheel you in comfort anywhere. Or you may fancy a Japanese ricksha, faster and to occidentals, more unique. Young college men operate these. Rates are moderate. The Greyhound subway-type buses ply constantly and are unusually comfortable, convenient, safe and enjoyable. Use the dime turnstiles and ride far as you wish.

LAKE TRIPS, both in gondolas or motorized barges on the lagoons, or on cool old Lake Michigan herself, are available at moderate cost. Instead of trying to memorize locations of the nearest boat landings, ask the first guide or information booth you encounter to direct you; it will save you time and worry.

SOUVENIRS—Because these so often are lost or damaged in being carried around, every concession stand in the grounds is prepared to wrap and mail for you any souvenir you purchase—or you may attend to it at the Century postal station in General Exhibits building. Thus you do not need to carry them around and they are waiting for you when you return home.

An unusual number of people are mailing souvenirs such as this issue of the MIDGET VILLAGE NEWS, pictures and the like to their friends, as more convenient and comprehensive than a postcard. Many souvenirs of the 1893 World's Fair are quite valuable today. Keep that in mind in supplying yourselves amply with memorabilia.

ELSEWHERE IN CHICAGO

WHAT ELSE IN CHICAGO shall I see? That, so often, is asked. Naturally, we of Chicago can name such a long list of things that if you saw them all, you never would be able to get back home and would have to stay on here forever, which would please us, mightily, for we always can use more fine citizens.

But perhaps a few unusual things may be selected of such unique or majestic character that you would want to have returned home without being able to say you saw them. Such a list might include:

The three other largest parks—Jackson at the south, where the 1893 World's fair was held and where is located University of Chicago campus; Garfield to the west, with its world-famous flower house, and Lincoln at the north, now five times as large as it was in 1859, being made from hundreds of acres of land brought up from the lake, and containing the zoo, Chicago Historical Society, Academy of Sciences, Gun Club, yacht harbor, bird sanctuary and four complete golf courses. Connecting these are the arteries of Chicago's park system, greatest since history began, and a sight-seeing bus can take you to see all of it.

Chicago feeds the world, it is said, so the great Union Stock Yards and the Board of Trade should be seen.

Wacker Drive, a river-side ornamental driveway which shames the Seine in Paris, begins where old Fort Dearborn stood, at Michigan blvd. and the river.

At night the most powerful searchlight in the world, the Lindbergh Beacon atop Palmolive building, a mile north of the river, is interesting.

Steel mills at the south end of the lake at Gary, or the Chicago end of pipelines running clear to Texas and Oklahoma and bringing crude oil to the refineries at Whiting, are nearby.

There is only one State st. like this one in the world. Begin at Marshall Field's at Randolph st. taking a directed tour with a young lady guide, then go south to the other stores, ending with Sears Roebuck's big retail store at Van Buren st.

Buckingham fountain in Grant Park is 26 per cent greater than the famed fountains at Versailles.

The Stevens Hotel, within view of the north gate, is the largest hotel in the world.

Almost every day this summer one of Chicago's great baseball teams—the Cubs (National League) or White Sox (American League) will be playing at Wrigley Field or Comiskey Park.

You can see Municipal Pier, which stretches nearly a mile into the lake, off on the horizon north of the grounds. You also can see the dim distant water erbs, far out in the lake whence comes Chicago's pure water supply.

Municipal Airport sends and receives more air mail and passengers than any other such port in the world. An airplane ride around Chicago and over the Exposition grounds will supplement the view obtained from Sky Ride, the captive balloon or the Goodyear dirigible blimps.

And, of course, your visit will be wholly incomplete, if you have not visited the Midget Village!
A GIGANTIC CRITIC TELLS OF MIDGETS

By Ashton Stevens

Am I becoming a soothsayer, or are these miniature men and women of the Midget Village at the World's Fair really much better and much more modest actors than Europe's famous "The Lilliputians," who used to come to our town when I was a lad and bore me stiff? Take them, all in all, "The Lilliputians" were the nastiest and vainest collection of exhibitionists that I ever saw, and I thought they had left me off midget companies for life until the other evening Jack Fine permitted me to rest my weary feet in front of this midget procession for the duration of what turned out to be a delightful little revue.

I soon learned that men are men in Midgetville. For immediately a pair of husky rascals called Ike and Mike had washed up from their hard-hitting boxing bout and took their ease at our ringside table. They took more than their own share—two or three steins of beer, in either one of which you could have drowned a duckling, and (from their own source of supplies) a couple of enormous cigars of the shape known to the wealthy as the corona-corona-corona.

And the revue ran on. Came its star. A lady hardly larger than a magnum of champagne, and not a bit barred, dancing her tiny toes without torture, without the embalmer's death-like smile. There was no taxi-driver about this Miss Stella Royal, 26, pretty as a piece of silverware by Cellini, and alive as a wink.

If she ever sits on a famous financier's knee there will be more than financial gossip in next day's banking columns. It was when Ben Bernie's three-foot competitor, Jimmy Rosen, announced the twelve-piece band that I was impelled once more to mount my laborious shoes and dash down to the footlights like a suitor in "Pagliacci."

Drum a Flat

Only seeing at close quarters is believing this midget band, whose tuba-player, for instance, can hide in his instrument whenever there arises a bigger wind than the one he blows himself.

There is a lady bass-drummer behind a drum in which she could do her housekeeping and a lady xylophone whose scale passages would be easier on her little limbs if she employed roller skates. The only instrument that makes allowance for the size of its player is the perfectly proportioned piano, which is, or ought to be, known to the trade as an infant grand.

Anyway, this fault-finder could think of only one possible improvement for Mr. Fine's fine midget revue. That would require the presence of a full-grown adult on the diminutive stage—an adult with a Wall street mustache and a slightly Duration nose, who would pretend to be a ventriloquist while the midget seated on his lap pretend to be a ventriloquist's dummy. (From Chicago Evening American.)

ARCHITECTS FIND VILLAGE A GEM

This Tells Who Designed, Built and Outfitted the Unique Homes of the Midgets

"Architecturally a triumph, and an exact replica of the Bavarian village of Dinkel-schonhüt is the description of Midget Village by Burton Holmes, world renowned traveler, on his recent visit to the village.

Edwin H. Clark was the architect who visited Europe and recreated, at the Century of Progress, this architectural gem of the Alpine-influenced Bavarian hamlet which is the Midget Village.

He Built It

Herbert Henke of Minneapolis and Chicago built the village after Mr. Clark's thorough plans. It was he also who built the Lion motoromone, nearly as well as Miller High Life Cafe on the Island, and the interior of Midget Village Grocery.

Miss Mildred Moore, the noted decorator of 830 Tower Court, Chicago, created the Hotel on First, interior with Ruth Skinner as her assistant. Miss Moore is a member of the American Institute of Interior Decoration.

The Tiny Furniture

The ancient City Hall will be decorated under the skilled hand of Mrs. Corinne Luminard, the tiny furniture coming from the Lehman Furniture company of America, leading makers of tiny furniture.

Emil J. Paider is responsible for the miniature fittings of the perfect barber shop and beauty salon.

VILLAGE COURT HOLDS A SESSION

LION TAMERS VISIT

Wrestling around with lions which take their clawing and mangling seriously finally becomes tiresome, even to Miss Marg Kemp, who has been clapped up twice in the Lion Motoromone of the Midway. So the whole lion taming force dropped in often as they can to enjoy the rest and interest of Midget Village. In the party usually are Nat Eagles, Beau Brummel of the concessions; Miss Kemp and her costar Miss Virginia Dawn; Hal Kemp and Breezy Thompson, who already has lost one arm to lions in the arena. The Londeome is usually so crowded they don't have much time to spare, but when they do, they're here.

Beau Brummel Race

It's almost a dead heat, now, in the race between Nat Rodgers, who has charge of amusements for the Century of Progress and Nat Eagles, head of the Lion taming crew at Lion Motoromone, to see who shall be the best dressed man on the Midway. Meanwhile, Jack Fine of Midget Village and S. B. Strauss of Tavern Cafe are over-taking the leaders where Rodgers holds the top by one new set of eartorial scenery per day.

PROPOSE NEW FIRE STATION FOR VILLAGE

Bids will be asked shortly by the Village Council for a new fire station for Midget Village.

At present, Judge Geo. Liable and Charles E. Kelley, the grocer, have assumed liability for the village apparatus, which is stored near the grocery. Apprehension is felt by the village fathers that the apparatus will suffer from exposure to the weather, although City Treasurer Stanley Graham, Tiny "Will" Rogers

John Leal and his ever-present rope repeat in Midget-Land's Tiny Theater, tricks and wisecracks like those once in Ziegfeld Follies.

Countesse Louise, secretary to His Honor, Mayor Doyle, ushered Miss Rose Scott of Chicago into executive office in City Hall.

THE ORIGINAL MIDGET FLORADA SIXTET

Reminds old-timers of grown-up songsters who made the 1933 World's Fair stick in memory.
IN THE “LITTLE THEATRE”

By JACK FINE

This week’s Wee Revue in Midget Village’s Little Theater presents exceptional attractions of unusual merit.

Each hour, as the city hall clock shows ten minutes past the hour, these remarkable feats of the theatrical folk present on the Little Theater stage a revue as all-embracing as a Ziegfeld follies.

So general, indeed, has interest grown in the revival of the original Floradora Sextet (midget) that the Pathe News Reel sent to Midget Village to put onto the talking ribbon a session of the village court under Judge Geo. Liable, seized upon the opportunity to capture for the talking this interesting revue number which captures the heart today as fully as its grown-up namesake captured popular esteem in 1893.

Famous Sextet

Many are the copies of the Floradora Sextet’s slitting and graceful music and dance. But here is seen the original midget sextet which is, in fact, a double sextet—six girls and six boys.

Master of Ceremonies Jimmy Rosen is now at home with his crowd of visitors who throng the Plaza North whenever the notes of the stage piano and the far-reaching loud speaker forecast another showing of the revue.

Over on Garden Inn’s terrace, beside Atom Cafe, dining guests turn their chairs so as not to miss a single feature.

The elfin young women in the Floradora Sextet include the three graceful and tuneful Hoy sisters, Margaret, Helen and Elizabeth; Ann Leslie and the two beautiful Royal girls, Stella and Helen. The young men in the accompanying sextet are Herbert Rice, Charles Royal, Charles Silver, Prince Ludwig, Elmer Spangler and Frank Ber.

It is like old times, for those who also saw the 1893 World’s Fair, to hear “Tell Me, Pretty Maiden, Are There Any More at Home Like You?”

Princess Suzanne’s famous butterfly dance is particularly graceful and a touch of comedy comes with the brief appearance of the fattest midget in the world, Jolly Bonita, weight 238 pounds.

Tiny Star Toe Dancer

Little Stella Royal, whose piercing eyes is like that of a feather on a summer breeze, is a slip toe dancer, almost the only one in midget land. Her diminutive size lends an, rather than detracts from her graceful-ness, and she is winning wide acclaim since her return from an enforced absence due to a slight ankle sprain.

John Leal, the Midget Will Rogers, with his running gossip and mysterious rope acts, is a decided hit, and dusky Joe Victor’s snappy tap dancing always gets a big hand.

All of this runs to the strains of lively music by Maestro Elmer Spangler’s Midget band and orchestra which, so help me, is a brilliant musical organization. When the tiny maestro leads his charming musicians into the dreamy air of “By the Waters of Minnetonka,” you begin to go places beside a waterfall and along a rippling stream. The Midget Maestro is a favorite with Village visitors, who are generous with their applause.

DAINTY STELLA ROYAL

Maestro Elmer Spangler’s Orhephonic Orchestra take to the air with airs arranged by world’s smallest composer, Jean Pafi, second from right.

CUBES MEET GRIEF UNDER BARRAGE OF WHITE SAX

MILK FUND GAME GIVES FANS A NEW SLANT

Gabby Hartner’s Homer In Eighth Frame Sinks Commanding Bases, Not Enough to Win for Cubes

In a midseason practice game for the Milk Fund on an idle day in both schedules, the White Sax surprised Midget Village fans yesterday by trimming the last year’s champ Cubes, 5-3, Gabby Hartner’s homer in the eighth with two on saving the day entirely for the Cubes.

If this is a square indication of relative merit, Manager Grim still has some work cut out for him in leading his tribesmen to the fountain of youth and after.

The Cubes bode heavily on Leo Chagow who was making his first start of the season, in the busy eighth, but Major Weiss fell under the master hand of Sweetin, who came in to relieve the crumbling Sax hurler, and the rally was over.

Well oiled, the galloping machine of the Sax rumbled on over the helpless Cubes for seven straight innings, during which, led by Red Kress, the basemen of the Pols Sax got together for a conference and enacted every phase and then when the mood moved them, and picked themselves out a run or two to keep the score wide.

Two in the third, one in the fifth, one in the sixth and seventh marked the Sax attack.

Only the swift, swift wheeling of Chagow by Fonseck stopped the embattled Cubes in the deadly eighth. Stevie had laid down a smooth hit and fielded it now and then, and then a sacrifice bunt, then a base on balls, Sweeze, then a sacrifice on the fly, Rank and an error, and Sweetin gamely at the plate, run the last two to home.

However, since expert disguised WASH TUB REGATTA DRAWING ENTRIES

New Shingle Boat Rules Will Require Nicety of Building Balance and Seaman ship

Entries continue to pour in for the annual Midget Village wash tub regatta to be held in South Lagoon of the Century of Progress grounds in August.

The plan-shake and shingle boat classes are attracting particular attention, as well as the wash-tub event, in which new restrictions will bring out, this year, new evidence of seaman ship.

Will Lose Spills

Restriction of each tub's crew to skipper and one man will avoid the sluggish events of other years, and is expected to cut down the spinning in re ceptacles from baleful moments.

Some of the thrill will go out of the classic because of the ex pected decrease in spills due to over anxiety of three and four man tub crews in light winds.

However, since expert seaman ship is the goal sought, it is expected that limiting sail area to the equivalent of a bed sheet (midget) will enhance the opportuni ty of the shallow-water sailors to show their stuff in an easy race, to round the outer buoy, which is fully 20 yards from the starting line.

In the plan-shake division an effort was made this year to separate the square-enders from the pointed enders, the Central Foundation Yacht club officials believing that while skilled enders enjoyed some advantage from freedom in yawing and rolling, and in steadiness from carrying a spe cial class should be set up for the speedier pointed enders with a keel-fin.

Inasmuch, however, as the keel-fin question will be settled by the shingle-boat this year, allowed a 4-inch, 2-ounce over all keel-fin, the matter was left over for another year.

And the actor of the speedy shingle-boat events this year which is attracting attention, is the ruling against fabric sails, as well as metal wire sheets. With the sail-spread limited to 321 square inches, the sail to be of paper only and only one guy wire from mast to deck, no height limit to masts has been set.

Try-on contests have shown the peril of masts beyond 17 inches in height to catch upper air breezes, since a squall or a heavy sea will overcome the steadying influence of the weighted keel-fin and capsize the craft. The problem seems to center around the nicety of balance between mast height and keel depth.

HOBBY HORSE MAIDEN RACE TAKEN EASILY BY FRANKS ON BILLY

Protest by Plug's Rider That Hobby Wheels Left Ground in the Stretch Disallowed by Judges

The Midget Village Handicap at Arlington yesterday, $2.50 added for 3 year olds and up, rocking horses, went to Tiny Tee, Bradley entry, who took it under the expert hand of A. Piccolo by a length, going away easily.

The annual rocking horse classic only to the Derby champ is over the full length course of a quarter of a mile, still going for even a 3 year old rocking horse. The track was fast, Tiny Tee negotiating it in 33 minutes, 59 seconds, only 8 seconds under the track record.

Midget Girl Champion Takes Golfing Prize

Janet Newman, Midget Village’s woman golfer, met little difficulty yesterday in cleaning out all but two putts and Pat Thid returned 3 cents 9 mills for show at the mutuels.

The third race, 300 yards challenge for the hobby horses, offered the only other interesting race of the five-race card. Billy, with J. Short up, pranced the distance to take it by a nose from Dobbin, with Joe Victor up, Plug with A. Turner up, finished a length back of the leaders for third.

J. Peters, astride Bonnie Boy, believing himself in, entered a protest against Plug, declaring that the hobby horse wheels were off the ground twice during the 30-yard stretch. Assistant Starter Dad, on his way to the clutches for the next race, had delayed at the stretch and explained to the judges that a stone on the track had caused the hobby horse wheels to bounce, and Peters’ protest was disallowed.

The greatest attracted attention because it was Turner’s first appearance on the track after the 10-day suspension at Homewood for swinging his hobby horse stick against the legs of Mirkel, up on Dasher, whose claim of foul was allowed.
Society

BY PRINCESS JANZARA

Almost the last of the larger social affairs of the season centered around the wedding of Princess Summers, to Harry Fish, played off at the Little Midget Theater company. Judge Eugene Holland of the Chicago Municipal Court, per- formed the ceremony, on the steps of the ancient City Hall.

Prince Ludwig was best man and Duchess Louise was maid of honor. Captain the Prince of the Royal Guards was master of ceremonies, in full regiments.

Misses Margaret, Helen and Elizabeth Hoy, Stella and Helen Royal and Ann Leslie were bridesmaids, and the typical Floradora costumes of the gay nineties.

Ushers were Charles Silvern, Herbert Rice, Charles Royal, Elmer Spangler, Jimmy Rosen and Frank Ber.

The wedding march was played by the Little Theater orchestra: Jean Pauli, composer and arranger of orchestration, wielded Maestro Spangler’s baton while the latter was in the wedding party.

“Happy is the bride the sun shines on,” runs the ancient adage, and the cloudless skies forecast a long and happy life for the young couple. Princess Mariska’s charming wedding dress of delicate orchid satin was capped by an immense veil and train fully sixty inches long.

After retiring to the Hotel at Fine for a brief reception, a wedding supper was served on the lawn of the tiny castle of the judge, Charles G. Leib, dean of the Village diplomatic corps, was host and toastmaster, leading with the deft hand of art, none of the usual troubles shall be “little ones.”

A gorgeous, four-decked wedding cake, in miniature of the cake of Prince Leopold of Belgium and Princess Astrid of Norway, was presented by the great establishment of the Ward Bakery Company. It was half as tall as the tiny bride herself.

A round of prenuptial events began with the exclusively small party in honor of the princess given by the Duchess Louise, whose active interest in politics made her Midget Village’s official hostess, as secretary to Mayor J. D. Doyle.

The Duchesse led her guests through a special entrance and up the ancient guard room of the City Hall, where her granddame forced the abduction of a Junior Warden, Francis, and made Midget Village a free city. Thence for tea at the Atomic Cafe of Tarrant Garden.

Costumes were simple and summery. Ongandie was favored by the Duchesses and Princesses Mariska, both in cool white, while cotton crepes in small colorful patterns made up frocks of most of the guests. A feature was the wide summer lawn hats of the guests.

Present were Mmes. Charles E. Kelley and Flo Rothschild, the Princess Suzanne, the Royal girls, Stella and Helen; Miss Sadie Jane Williams, Margaret Hoy, of the famous Hoy sisters; Grace Gould whose torch singer has been a sensation in the Little Theater; Janet Newman and Mrs. Ann Lester, whose baby, Jane Fedora, received at the ancient guard room as page.

A theatrical shower after the stage presentation Wednesday night was attended by all the girls appearing at the Little Theater in the Princess Mariska. They included Anna Barba, Donna Blaske; Helena Gonsa and her sister Carole, Lila Gold, hostess of the songs; Justin Balonzi, the hero of all the songs, and about 10,000 others, all willing to be linesmen.

Chore Section Meeting

Grace Gould’s A Capella choir will hold a preliminary, session leadership rehearsal in Music Hall at McKesson building Saturday evening. Leaders of the sessions will receive instructions in the new score of Handel’s Messiah, to be rendered Aug. 5, 1930th anniversary of the consecration of the Temple in Jerusalem by the Navazene.

Women Voters—Call on City Clerk Charles Royal for pre- election confab.

Chief of Police Tom Keenan, Frank Ber, Prince Ludwig, Officer Adolph Piccolo, Charles Silvern of the Midget Village police bureau; Fred LaPlante, Herbert Rice, Roy Holgate, the demon cheeker of Tavern Garden; King and Prince Wil- liam, Victor Wetter, Frank Packard and Charles Royal.

Friends of Drama entertained Princess Mariska Friday at a Tavern Garden dinner attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Kelley, the grocers; Mme. Flo Rothschild of the beauty salon; Mr. and Mrs. Short, Judge and Mrs. George Lattie; Miss Scott- er, Mona Cooper, Leila Cauton, Adgie Frank, H. B. Williams and his sister, Sadie Jane Wil- liams; Prince Wilman, the dog king; Margaret Nicklow and Victor Wetter, Pussy Carmo and Janet Newman, Ethel Weisman and Sylvia, the artist and astrologer.

DOWAGER’S BIRTHDAY

Midget Village will take part in the festivities for the annual birthday celebration of Miss Jennie Quigley, dowager of the village on Aug. 28, when the village’s social mentor will be 85 years old.

Miss Quigley is a spry and chipper as when she was a little Scotch lass on the benches above the banks of the Circle, and she looks forward to her annual levee in her suite at Hotel Fine.

Major James D. Doyle, mayor of Midget Village, and Miss Sadie Jane Williams, proprietress of the Baby Ruth Candy Shoppe on Plaza North, have the affair in preparation. A special performance of Tiny Revene; a terenode by Maestro Elmer Spangler’s noted band and orchestra; a review of the military guard under Captain Prince Dennis and of the police by Chief Tom Keenan, and a visit en mass by the Village’s giant contingent, Chester Calk, Aldenman Homer H. Parks, Jesse Adams and High Johnson, will be included on the program.

At the suggestion of Alderman Charles E. Kelley, all business places will suspend business for an hour or so that the Plaza, in gala attire for the event, my join in the celebration.

American National Dish Is Hot Dog Says Merchant

If the American national dish formerly was turkey, as anger krant and pig’s knuckles is that of Germany, roast beef of England and frog’s legs of France, it now is hot dogs, declares Prince William, the hot dog king of Midget Village.

“Servingly, it is like ice cream,” declares Prince Wilman. “People will leave a good meal and in a few minutes eat a hot dog or a dish of ice cream, as though they did not dine.”

Book Circle Gathering

The Fortnightly Literary Circle’s review of the book of the month, at the Library over Kelley’s grocery chateau, was presided over by Mrs. Anna Leslie, and was enlivened by a recital in burlesque of the last month’s book selection, by the Hoy girls, Margaret, Helen and Elizabeth.

This month’s book, “Forty and a,” will be dramatized next month by the Royal girls, Stella and Helen, and Miss Sadie Jane Williams.

Joe Cook Likes It

Joe Cook, the only man in the world who publicly has refused to imitate four Hawaiians, and probably greatest of stage comedians, came unobserved, visited the Village and on leaving wrote to Midget Village News, “It is staged wonderfully.”

STANDARD OF STANDARD OIL NOW IN GROCERY

The “Standard” of Standard Oil has displayed itself in the grocery business, in Midget Village Grocery, where the paragon is in still the “standard” means of scaling in the freshness and goodness of jellies and jams in most house- holds, just as a demdame polishes the nation’s furniture and Finnic keeps household wheels turning, says Charles E. Kelley, the tiny village grocer.

RUMORS FLY AS ROLLER SKATE STOCKS SLUMP

New York, June—Sudden collapse of International Motorized Roller Skate on the curb market today, when the common of this popular transportation factor almost fell out of the market, gave rise to rumors that a delivery would be started at once, without a moment's delay.

Admittedly, business has enjoyed at least a brief spurt of activity. Also, it is conceded generally that the expected summer slump will not materialize this year.

In spite of this, there are evidences in some circles to hold back, to delay the beginning of competition, and acquire action until there remain no single doubt of full business recovery.

Holds Back Recovery

The net result is, of itself, to hold back full restoration of prosperity.

If the city administration would announce definitively and positively that such work as the new subway, fire station, new intercepting sewer and high-pressure water main will replace the damages heard when water stops flowing in Public Fountain and Municipal Fountain, were to take place, issuance of a definite date, the confidence already engendered would be maintained fully by such pronouncement.

Why is there needless delay, anyway?

If the two fountains, for instance, are to be maintained with flowing water and not pour out the thousands of cents necessary for such improvement right now?

Why Not Start?

If the new fire station is to be built, or if a portion of North Market is to be converted to such use and a park installed between Round Tower and the City Hall, why not give this work out now, so surpluses may be built up by the present unemployment against the chill of winter when the Exposition is closed, rather than to wait until use must be deferred on these public institutions and no work is given meanwhile.

Surely the present administration does not wish to be accused of that same dilatoriness and lack of decision which wrapped its predecessor in defeat before the polls, at last election.

NEW YORK, June.—Notwithstanding a new high on the dime on today's foreign exchange, stocks, while generally strong, declined erratic in the early and late trading, smoothing out for midday sales.

Talk of a German moratorium on all foreign loans led to the early weakness, particularly in industrials such as AAA Roller Skate, 8-mm Kodak and International Doll Stoll.

A strong buying market showed the results of first knowledge of the drop of the English penny and the French sou, although, this resulted in a sharp upturn in footwear such as Sugar Candy and Root Beer.

Whole Scale Up

Erratic as it was, the whole scale of the market was considered rather auspiciously in heavy on such transportation stocks as American Flyer and Lionel Miniature Train, Scooter and Canotier; the last named, however, quit only a shade above yesterday's close.

Only seven listed stocks on the exchange closed lower. The advent of green apples and hot weather should have caused a heavy rise in sweet Cantaloupe Oil, but the determined feeling against the management of this affair showed itself not above a minimum of trading, but in the sharpest decline of any stock on the whole list.

Its drop of 5c from yesterday's close disclosed the bitterness against TCO, which, however, is regarded as seasonal, coming in the summer months.

Then the Crash

Almost over night the market crashed. Out of fifty-two roller skate manufacturing concerns, all went by the board except the top two.

Again a reorganization under new management as the International Motorized Roller Skate Company developed a new product—the individual motorized roller skate for midgets. Brought out, like the Austin, first in a roadster and coupe, the latest engined roller skates have a longer wheel base and with sedan bodies take on the utility of a motorized scooter, pushmobile, or baby buggy.

Unless, however, means can be evolved now to take the roller industry over, the early days appear to boom ahead for the oldest skate firm in the country.

MIDGERTOWN STOCK MARKET IS JUPPY

RECORD TRANSPORT FIRM TO UNITE

DETOUR, June—It is currently reported hereabouts that the next move of the leading midgertown transportation firms in this city are contemplating a merger which will be, in effect, a new General Motors of the midgertown wheel industry.

The three firms are the Consolidated Pushmobile, the U. C. Scooter Corporation and the Snow Skate Corporation.

Gives Domination

Such a combination would provide domination of the year-round midgertown transportation field, in a large sense. The depression has brought about a heavy demand for an economica- lly operated, local skater, which has been the backbone of US Scooter.

Air Conditioner

Finding its main production wholly seasonal, Snow Skate began developing this spring a substantial busines in oil burners converted from cigar lighters. With the aid of automatic, low-pressure squirt gun and an extension-vane palm fan, the new oil burner becomes an effective air conditioning unit, which has had wide favor in bird houses, dog kennels, etc., and now is being brought into the suburban midgertown bungalow field.

MIDGET VILLAGE ISSUES OVERBID

WASHINGTON, June.—Secretary of the Treasury Graham announced today that Midget Village's 500,000-cent security issue had been overdub nearly four to one, based on the popularity of the Village at Century of Progress.

For the first time since the war, also, the interest rate on the new long-term securities went to $.05 mila, showing a desire on the part of investors to keep an ample surplus in government securities against the necessary set-backs in resumption of a long-remembered business.

The secretary also announced that many subscriptions were for 25 cents or less, showing the return of hoarded money from mattresses, tin banks and socks.

This was interpreted in business circles as one of the surest evidence of the return of confidence on the part of the people, for anyone who would bring to light an entire quarter at one time either had plenty of confidence or was so scared there was no holding him.

While no definite admittance came from any official sources of the three firms, the report seems definite that this new concern will be known as General Midget Motors and will be ready with its combined models for the fall.
