SAVE THROUGH THIS GREAT BRITANNICA WORLD'S FAIR OFFER

(THE SPECIAL OFFER IS GOOD ONLY DURING THE 1934 CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR)

1. Special 24 volume heavy rag paper 14th Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica bound in Red Britannotes and stamped in gold. Paper and printing are same as that used in the hand-book sets selling for from $375.00 up!

3. Extra size mahogany compact bookcase to accommodate these special-size 24 volumes. Value $25.00.

4. Membership for one year in Britannica Foundation.

A Custom-made Rag-Paper Edition

- To commemorate the Century of Progress World’s Fair being held this year in Chicago, Britannica has produced a special limited 14th Edition using the extra heavy all-rag paper and printing such as is used in the custom-made bindings which sell for from $375 up. This heavy rag paper will last for generations without disintegrating or coloring and is similar to the paper used in our special library bindings of Britannica. Because of the added thickness of this paper Britannica volumes are made considerably wider, requiring a larger-sized bookcase. Obviously the added permanence makes a rag edition in great demand and discerning people will be quick to seize this opportunity to secure a superior binding at the very low prices made in this offer.

In Red Britannotes Binding

- In addition to the De Luxe paper this special edition is bound in Red Britannotes and stamped in gold leaf. Britannotes is known to exceed the best Moroccan leathers in durability while certainly holding its own as to general attractiveness. Through the World’s Fair Offer you may have these extraordinary features at no increase in price—truly an opportunity you can not afford to miss!

The De Luxe World’s Fair View Book

- FOR those who would like a permanent picture-book showing all of the important features of the great Century of Progress Exposition this 164-page de luxe View Book is the last word. This magnificent volume, size 13x14 by 10½, has been especially prepared for Britannica and is bound in handsome red Britannotes and stamped in gold leaf on backbone and front cover. This charming volume will be found hundreds of beautiful half-tone plates, many in full color, which will tell the story of the Fair most vividly, to the generations to come. A limited number of these View Books have been printed and bound, the value of which is $7.50 per copy. This most interesting feature is open to the fortunate few who purchase Britannica during the period of the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, 1934, after which the offer will not be repeated.

Special Compact Bookcase

- In order to accommodate this special 24-volume rag-paper Britannica 14th Edition, a bookcase larger than the regular size is required. Accordingly Britannica has produced a handsome mahogany compact bookcase similar to the illustration. An inspection of this piece of furniture will reveal that it is worthy of association with the best furniture to be found in American homes today. Through the World’s Fair Offer, you receive this charming and useful bookcase, size 30½” x 16½”, included in the low price at no extra charge. If you were to purchase a similar type of bookcase at retail today you would be forced to pay at least $25 for such a piece of furniture.

Britannica Foundation Membership

- PURCHASERS of the special Britannica World’s Fair Edition are entitled to full membership for one year in the Britannica Foundation. There are many distinct advantages to membership in this honorary organization.

1. You receive for one year free of charge the Britannica supplementary bulletin, a topical magazine, called THE WORLD TODAY. This highly authoritative, as well as fascinating magazine, featuring the greatest list of world-famous writers ever assembled in a magazine, features illustrated articles on all current world happenings of importance and is issued at least five times a year.

2. You receive a choice of any four Britannica Home University Reading Courses free.

3. You may receive information at any time on any subject of fact or scholarship from the Editorial Board of the Britannica without charge.

4. You receive a handsome Britannica Foundation Certificate of Membership suitable for framing.
