The first drinks were served at about 9:30 P.M. and the last round at 12:30 A.M. Monday Feb. 14th. Colored waiter No. 1 served all drinks.

A person ordered our beer, nothing was mentioned by the waiter as to it being Sunday, or that they only sold Bevo or near beer, as Colored waiter No. 8 told us last Sunday (Jan. 27).

The beer was brought out in brown bottles and served in tall glasses, as on our previous visit. The beer served tasted like real beer.

When we ordered the first round of highballs I told the waiter that I wanted a good Whiskey ginger ale highball, and to serve the others the same kind. The highballs served to me tasted of whiskey. They were served from small metal topped bottles, same as on our previous visit of Sunday, January 27th.

When Miss Coles ordered her drink she mentioned the waiter said they could only sell the white kind, which he did serve her. I tasted the drink and it tasted like a real crème de menthe.

The rest of the highballs served to my tasted like real whiskey highballs.

I tasted on of Mrs. De To's highballs and it tasted like a real whiskey highball.

When ordering the highball which Harry de Witt drank at our table (upon my request) I told the waiter, that it was for Harry de Witt and to make it a good one. I tasted this drink and it tasted like a real whiskey highball.

When ordering the highball which Louis Weiss drank at our table (upon my request) I told the waiter, that it was for Louis Weiss the boss, and to make it a good one. I tasted this drink and it tasted like a real whiskey highball.

As I danced I could see all drinks served on every table. I did not see any beer except on our table. I did see what appeared to be highballs, wine, shot gun, pizas, and water.
About 36 people were present during stay. Among them was a Second Lieutenant, 1 Soldier, a private, 1 Sailor, 1 prostitute, 1 uniformed policeman, star number 974, and 2 men whom I saw playing cards at Van Praag's, 2222 So. Deadwood, on my visit to that place January 24th 1918.

I saw the Second Lieutenant served with what appeared to be 5 gingsal highballs. He sat with 1 man and 2 women. They were in and seated when we got there, and they all left at 12:15 a.m.

I saw the private soldier served with what appeared to me to be 3 gingsal highballs. He came in with 2 women and 1 man at about 10:50 a.m. and they all left at about 12:30 a.m.

The sailor was with a girl and he was served with what appeared to me to be water.

The prostitute I saw, is one whom I met Oct. 5th 1917 at 740-746 East 115th St. in room 18. At that time she said her my name was Miss Russell, and she solicited me to prostitute. Room 18 was at that time occupied by a woman who said her name was Margaret Brown whom I met at the Canary Cottage Oct 3rd 1917, thru Charles Depford who was manager at that time.

At about 11:30 and while I was dancing with Miss Coles I saw Harry DeWitt talking to the uniformed policeman No 974, just outside of the front door. They talked for about 15 minutes. From where the policeman stood he could see the drinks on the table which were served to the Second Lieutenant and his party.

The two men whom I remember seeing at Van Praag's gambling house sat together at the butl'table to ours.
They came in at about 11:15 P.M. and were still there when we left. Louis Weiss drank with them the greater part of their stay and drank two drinks which appeared to me to be highballs.
From their expressions and the way they would lean over the table to one another and then whispered conversations, they appeared to be talking over something serious.

Louis Weiss told me that he was the boss, and that the Canary Cottage was his.

After introducing him to Mrs. De Forz, I invited him to the table to have a drink. He came and I introduced him to Mr. V. and Miss Coles. I told Mr. V. loud enough for Mrs. De Forz and Miss Coles to hear, that Louis Weiss had just told me that he was the owner of this place and to take it in that matter with him. Mr. V. then spoke to him about getting a girl friend of his a job there as a singer. I heard Louis Weiss say then, that the thing to do would be for Mr. V. to bring the girl down some night so that he could try her out, and if she was any good would pay him $50 or $55 a week. Inv. V. told Louis Weiss that he would not begin to get better until he had by working there. Louis Weiss said that it would be alright, as “we don’t have to toe the mark here.”

Louis Weiss was just as active as last Sunday Jan 21st in receiving people, going back and forth to the service bar and drinking at different tables. At about 11:45 P.M. I saw him go out of the entrance door and go straight back with his coat collar turned up. I saw him do the same thing at about 12:00 A.M.

I saw the young man entertain dance with patrons
I saw patrons from different tables dance with one another.

The dancing as on my previous visit was suggestive

Louis Weiss saw all of this and smiled at them all.

I saw Harry De Witt smile, when one couple who were dancing kissed each other.

S. S.

My expenses at above named place $3 15.

Note. As we were leaving Inv. V told Louis Weiss that he had forgotten his name and asked him what it was. Louis Weiss replied "Weiss". Thereupon Inv. V shook his hand and said good night to Weiss.
Did not work this day on account of working Sunday January 27.

In Company with Investigator X
Tuesday 7:45 to 8:30 pm February 12th 1918

Called at the above address to check off an informal notice, we were admitted to the rear door, and into the kitchen by a young woman whom Inv. X called May.

There was a man present, with his hat & coat off. After Inv. X talked a few moments with May, and just as we were about to leave, stating that we would return later when she would be alone the man rushed over and locked the doors putting the key in his pocket.

He said I know who you -- -- are, you are Thrasher's men, and I am going to kill you both, and I only wish it -- that that little fellow -- was with you so that I could kill him too.
He told May to get his gun which she did, and to call up the adair and get Edith over.

He said now if Edith tells my that you two fellows are the ones I am going to croak you both.

While we were waiting for Edith the man said that he had been watching us all the adair.

Edith came and said that we were not the ones.

The man said that he hated a stoof, and had a pretty good idea that we were the others' men, and that if he ever found us investigating on the same side he would kill us.

Description of man:
