I then made my excuses and left, remaining in this room about 8 minutes.

Saw to be operated as a Sunday saloon
I entered into the bar room and while ordering a glass of water, the tender who I later heard called Jenny, asked me if I had inquired about Rose a few weeks ago.
I told him I had inquired about Rose. He replied, "Mystie is back there and you might have into cafe."
I did so and found two women
sitting at two tables, smoking.
A man, who later said his name
asked me to sit down and sipped a sound of drinks served. I asked him his price.

About the loop investigations

While on survey of the loop district, I saw many women with the earmarks of prostitutes on the street and in several saloons who were apparently waiting the opportunity to solicit.

While we were in the Hi-Jngle cafe at 14 East Monroe street I saw two unescorted women at a table. These women flirted with us and when they left their table they beckoned for us to follow them.

We again saw these women on the street. Inv. X approached them and entered into a conversation with them. Later I joined them with Inv. U.

We accompanied these women to the St. James Grillroom in the Great Northern Hotel Bldg.
During our stay here I saw one of these women give Inv. X. her address and phone number and heard her say “call me up.”

While in this place I saw another woman who appeared to be a prostitute. One of these women with us spoke to her, and later remarked, “I have not seen her for some time” and on leaving us joined their party.

While in the vicinity of Jackson Blvd and Clark Stree. we met a girl whom Inv. X. said he knew to be an inmate of Claudie Wood’s at 3732 Pierce Ave.

He introduced her to me as Miss Jackson.

I heard Miss Jackson give Inv. X. her telephone number and said “call me up sometime.”

While standing at the bar drunking a glass of beer. Bartender said, "Do you boys want to go up?"
we replied yes.

We were told to follow
another man, who appeared to be a lookout or runner. He led us to the east end of the cafe where he took a key from his pocket and unlocked
a door leading upstairs and told us to go right up.

At the bottom of these stairs
sat an old negro woman about 70 years old who appeared to be a lookout.
At the top sat another

"Martha," and "Jeanette."

Both girls solicited
us to prostitution. The girls said,

"Come on let's go into a bedroom and jazz." I went into a bedroom with Martha where she said, "It will cost you 200 for a start while or $5 for an hour. But as things are slow now

I can give you a good jazz and we can take our time."

I did not hear the price mentioned to Inv. X.

When leaving the girls, two other men came into the hallway and were greeted by these same two girls

These men went in the bar

room the same time as us.

We were admitted into a middle dining room by a woman who was later addressed as "Winnie."

Soon a girl came in whom we met and obtained evidence against on Wednesday August 21st 1918 who said his name was "Tola."

Tola told us that Winnie was the landlady and that she had just got out of jail.

Tola solicited us both to prostitution, she said, "you boys come back at 9 1/2 and I will have two more nice girls for you and we will have a good jolly for all night."
When I asked Lola what this would cost for all night she replied.
