continued from second page

and I will get you one half pint. The woman left her table and went to a small room just behind of the check room and came out with a one half pint of red fluid which she gave me and I found it to be satisfactory.

This man and woman were like the two and the two women who were at our table and I drank part of the liquor and danced two dances.

The waiter came to our table again and I told him I was running short of liquor and asked him to get more. This waiter went to a man I know as Yeremon the seaman and talked to him. This man looked at me and turned back to the waiter.

The waiter soon came to ours.
continued from third page

our table and gave me a pint of red fluid for which he charged me $8.00.

I later found the fluid to be ligon.

Soon the waiter came to the table and gave me a cork screw and held a glass under the table and asked me to give him a drink, which I did.

All transactions were made under the course of the table between the waiter and I.

I then explained to the girls as an excuse to leave the cafe that some fellows were following us and we must leave at once.

Both girls solicited us to indulge in prostitution for a price.

I gave one girl one dollar to buy a lot of candy. I then gave the waiter the

Over
continued from page four

Lauer excused and went to the tailor and then went to the chief room and got our coats and left the cafe and went home.

William Payne
Remaining ledger pages are blank