Washington City

My Dear Sir,

I write you this note with the hope you will be able to comply with my request. The bill to one of the largest conventions in Louisville on the 10th of August will be held in Ky. Now can you not as if by chance be there, it will have a most happy effect upon our friends, and strike terror into the ranks of the enemy. My father, old as he is, will put his arm, and take an active part for true unity. Let me hear from you truly yours,

L. Mckittrick
New York, July 22, 1860.

Dear Sir,

As we advance our prospects seem to grow brighter. They certainly look much better than I anticipated at this stage of the canvas. I am now of opinion that we shall not only save the country by the defeat of Lincoln, but that if we can show to the country our ability to carry New York, that if we can make this fact apparent by the 1st of October, nearly the whole South will wheel into line, as well as nearly the whole South.

In this State we have to fight against Scripture with the argumentum ad hominem. The position must be disgusting to every honest and intelligent man. His impotent wrath ought to be made to recoil upon his own head, by uncovering the poisonous spring from which it flows, and exhibiting to the world the inevitable results of following his example. He made a speech in Rome in 449, which I posted Olney on, and which he has briefly noticed. I doubt this subject will be attended to, especially by Mr. Cassedy and our friends at Albany.
I have been informed that in Georgia the Bell & Everett men are not averse to forming a new standard. The present crisis would appear to demand the formation of a new conservative party to cure the country from sectionalism and Black Republican ascendancy as a natural consequence. For one I should be willing to make any terms with the "Union party," not absolutely dishonorable to you. I say this to you because you are a politician in the largest sense of the word—and who can be a statesman without being a politician? The danger is, in this country more than in any other, that the greater may be sunk in the less—thus reversing the maxim of the schools—as has been done by Meade, Buchanan, Buxton, and others, with a bad judgment at that.

Mr. Stephens writes me and says "I thought the nomination of Judge D. unjust to him; but none but the tried friends of the Judge can hear even that much from me. I shall certainly support him cordially and heartily." At the right time, I have no doubt if his health permit, we shall see the bright Damascus blade of Stephen, glittering among the foremost in the fight.

Mrs. Faithful

Sirs,

Having personally a stranger, I think the transcript of the following letter I wrote to Geo. D. Sanders on the 25th of last June will afford you your pardon for the liberty of addressing you.

My intention is to start an Italian newspaper in this city. We have three in the United States, one in this city & two in San Francisco. Indeed, at the request of some friends of mine I am supplying one of the latter with some writing, as you can see at any time you like. The Italian community in this country is very large & it is growing a good deal larger every day. Some 3,000 countrymen of mine have landed at the several seaports of the United States during the last two years, according to Gen. Cogswell's report to the Senate. They came at the invitation of their relations settled in the country in former years. I will write and to speak weekly papers in a charme in the American press, I propose to fill. I hope it could be successful, for I have too many relatives to fear thus of the full support of all my countrymen in the United States. I have a great many friends in California, at Cincinnati, & at St. Louis, Me, at New Orleans, & elsewhere, & they will spread my paper everywhere. I know the state of affairs in the country, & once starting up in my national element, you can make a fine rate all. My editorial course would be three fold.

Let Advocating the sound Italian doctrines of universal suffrage & the Democratic one of popular favor, especially as it is advocated by Mr. Douglas. In the latter re-fruit, I am inclined to assume a more decided position in relation to both American & European, to a large part of European & especially Hebrew races.

I have further heard Mr. Douglas' pamphlet & in an essay to Chief Justice Waite, which I gave my hearty approval, because I cannot find a better compromise between the contending parties under existing circumstances than Mr. Douglas' doctrine. Such a measure, I say, is the only one to be followed by an Italian editor of a real paper who lives in his country. I cannot agree with the European Republincans, for they want no protection from & I remember hearing once read in the London Post an able written editorial on the real side of increasing the duties, which I think should be a powerful means of stimulating the whole nation at one day. I suppose I have explained you my mind, but I must say that I saw in all of material means, which the party can furnish, if we come to an agreement of giving good references, the campaign requires to go about hurriedly & you will be too kind to give me an answer. Respectfully.

To your, Mr. Sneider. Now, sir, I must tell you that I never got an answer, though I called twice at his office & at his house, just before he had settled in the basket. I lived in the city during the last six years, & am a printer. This was not my trade in Italy where I received a Scholar Education. It would be a great pride for me to be an editor—a business I am well acquainted with & I am very sorry that the Suiders' violence compelled me to wasting time of an able of making up party, if you want. Popular sovereignty with states assumed as their representative king, & have intervention of any foreign power is all what the Indians want in their actual struggle, so that the country must be long to itself as well as you claim in the territorial question. The Indians in the United States will be with you if they be well enlightened & the political state of Italian & of your party's affairs being akin, I feel able to aroused my countrymen's enthusiasm, that is very strong for the sake of their fathers.

Knowing that you will give me an answer on the subject I lay unto your consideration, I remain most respectfully

Your old Sir,

My Dear Judge,

There is much anxiety felt here as to your return home. We cannot get any authentic news as to your coming and I am satisfied it is very important you should come at once. If you would come as soon as possible, much it would set the ball rolling and then we could... go ahead but now it is impossible to raise any estate rent.

Please let me know what you think about it so I can tell our friends.

We want two days notice at least when you intend to be here. You will have a very warm reception.

Dear Mr. Douglas:

I send the enclosed for your perusal and consideration. It contains a note from one of my agents, but when the interest of the land fell for sale, the party in whose favor I held the mortgage is willing to sell the property for a sum which will fully discharge my indebtedness. For these reasons I think every effort will have to be made, and I am willing to do all in my power to accomplish that end, and the manner in which I plan to will offer the great advantage of circulating documents which your friends, may please lend to the parties by which a deed, the Norfolk Act, and the being purchased by the different parties and the various modifications, etc., and making offers, etc. So that their friends are able to prearrange your friends' interests. Thereby any contract of conveyance at all times, without any fear of doubt whatever, I have had them to do the best possible advantage and any other information or instruction in my power to assist, if you will, your humble and obedient servant,

Hon. Stephen A. Douglas,

Dear Sir:

I regret, exceedingly, that absence from the city, last week, prevented me paying you my personal respects, by making your acquaintance.

Your views upon the Slavery question are so eminently sound and national, that the whole country will, ultimately, acquiesce in them as a final settlement of that question, as the whole country has acquiesced in the Independent Treasury as a final settlement of the financial policy of the government. And that will be a greater and broader triumph than an election to the Presidency.

It is too early, as yet, to form any accurate judgment of the result of the present contest. But I do not despair of a favorable issue. Few, properly estimate the strength of the great principle of our interposition by Congress, freedom of the people of the Territorial with the Slavery question. And, therefore, I am prepared to see, before November,
Such a movement of the masses as has not been witnessed since the days of Gen. Jackson.

Your position is a proud and a grand one, and deserve success.

I purpose going west tomorrow as far as Kansas, or I should not fail to see you at Saratoga.

I hope, on my extended tour, I shall be able to learn something of the feelings of the people of the great West, and I trust they will be found to bear in unison with the Democratic heart of the East.

Very truly yours,

Dr. My,

I have been solicited by the delegation from the 2d Assembly District of this County to address a line to you for the purpose of ascertaining from you how long you intend to remain at Saratoga. Our Grand Masonic Convention will be held at Saratoga on the 31st inst.

The morning lines, formerly an theoritian affair will on Friday next host the names of Duvalas and Johnson. It has a large circulation and will be of great service to me in this campaign.

I enclose proceeding of the 2d Assembly. Dept. Convention also an article from the Atlas Express in relation to the Convention.

the Convention will be admitted, while the voting will be regulated by the rule prescribed in the call. The "Little Giants" will, we learn, probably send a delegation from the Club, and this example might well be followed by Clubs throughout the State. The gentlemen who have been prominent in getting up this Young Men's Convention deserve much credit, for they have initiated a movement that cannot fail of being beneficially felt in the campaign, and its success will doubtless be so decided as to well compensate them for the labor they have bestowed upon it.
Second Assembly Young Mens' Democratic District Convention.

The delegates to the 2nd Assembly District Convention, met on Saturday last at the house of Henry Sloan, Guilderland, and organized by the appointment of Samuel C. Harris as Chairman, and James Kennedy, Secretary.

The following named persons were elected as delegates to the Young Mens' Democratic Convention held at Saratoga on the 21st inst.:

J. Welser Smith, Edward Donahoe, jr., James Kennedy, James Finch and George Thornton.

Alternates.—Jesse B. Wooley, Edward P. Patter, John M. Rankin, Daniel Craver and David Devoe.

On motion of Edward Donahoe, a Jr. Committee of three was appointed to report resolutions expressive of the sense of the Convention. The Chair appointed Messrs. Donahoe, Huber, and Hogan, as such committee.

Mr. Donahoe, the Chairman, presented the following, which were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The coming election is one which demands the earnest attention of all lovers of their country.

Resolved, That we commend the names of Douglas and Johnson as "worthy of all acceptance," and call upon our fellow citizens and Democratic brethren to unite in the effort to secure the triumphant success of the regular nominees of the Democratic Party.

Resolved, That we deem it eminently proper and that now is the accepted time that all conservative men should rally to the support of conservative principles, and that independent of party, we cordially invite the brave young hearts of the country to carry with us the banner of "Non-Intervention" to certain and glorious triumph.

On motion, the Chair appointed the following to call future Young Men's Democratic Conventions:

On motion, the proceedings were ordered published in the Albany Atlas & Argus and Times.

On motion the Convention adjourned sine die.

The Young Men's Democratic State Convention.

The young Democracy of New York hold their State Convention at Saratoga on Tuesday, July 31st, and the indications are, that the movement will be a decided success, and will exercise an important influence in the campaign. The idea of gathering together the young Democracy in a State Convention was a happy one at this time, the present contest is one well calculated to excite the interest of the young Democracy, and Judge Douglas, above all former candidates, has a peculiar claim on the warm sympathies and earnest support of the young men of the State.

The Saratoga Convention will draw together a class of voters capable of doing efficient service in a campaign, and will lead to their thorough organization throughout the State. In this aspect, its effect will be of incalculable value. The enthusiasm spreading so generally over the State, will gather force and consistency from this Convention, and the delegates will return to their several districts prepared to recommend an effective plan of organization, and to enlist in behalf of the candidate of the Democratic party, new and vigorous recruits from the young men of every portion of the State.

The Assembly Districts generally are holding their local Conventions, and sending full sets of delegates, and we have no doubt that the representation will be large. In this county, the "Little Giants" have very properly taken the initiatory steps in calling the District Conventions, and judging from the Delegates already elected, the character of the representation will be unexceptionable. If the same prudence is exercised all over the State, the Convention will be one that in ability and character, as well as in numbers, may well challenge comparison.

The representation is to be five from each Assembly district, but we presume all who go for the purpose of attending DOUGLAS CAMPAIGN PAPER.—It will be seen, by referring to our advertising columns, that a campaign paper which will advocate the claims of Stephen A. Douglas to the Presidency will be issued from Boston. It will be edited by an association of gentlemen who are well acquainted with the politics of the country. We cheerfully recommend it to those seeking political reading.

The Milwaukwe Daily Wisconsin says that more Eastern “drummers” have passed through that place in the last thirty days than in two years before. “This shows that the promise of a good crop has done much to raise the credit of the West again, and that Eastern merchants have not doubted the inclination, but only the ability of our merchants to meet their obligations. The large crop this year will enable us to purchase much more goods from the East than we have done for ten years past.”

The proportion of twin brothers in Philadelphia is one in seventy-five, according to official statistics, and at Dublin, one in every fifty-seven.

DELEGATES TO SARATOGA.—The “Young Democracy” of the First Assembly have accredited Messrs. Julus Earl, of Skaneateles; K. S. Phillips, Lysander; Daniel Candee, of Van Buren; Theodore H. Bates, of Camillus, and George F. Grinnell, of Clay, to the Saratoga Convention.

Your nomination by the National Democracy has inspired universal enthusiasm here, while there is a general howl of operation,盛大 against him, and his tools, who so grossly misrepresented us in and out of the convention.
