This Indenture, made and executed this day of A.D. 182 between of the first part, and of the second part, WITNESSETH,

That the said party of the first part agrees to sell unto the said party of the second part, acres of land, lying in the section of in the county of more particularly described as follows, viz:

And the said party of the second part, hereby covenants to pay to the said party of the first part, for said land, dollars, in manner following, viz:

And the said party of the first part, covenants with the said party of the second part, upon the receipt of the sum of $ aforesaid, in manner aforesaid, together with the interest and taxes aforesaid, to make and deliver to said party of the second part, his heirs or assigns, a Deed, investing said party of the second part, with a valid title, in fee simple, to the above described tenements... Provided however, and it is further agreed by and between said parties, that if said party of the second part fail to comply with his covenant aforesaid, and pay the several sums of money therein contained, punctually, and according to the time therein limited, then this agreement, so far as it may bind said party of the first part, is to be utterly void, to all intents and purposes. Signed, sealed and delivered, this day of A.D. 182.
Whereas, firmly bound unto by a certain obligation of this date, in the penal sum of conditioned for the payment of with interest on

Now therefore, do authorise and empower any attorney of any court of record, to appear for at the suit of the said obligee, or his representative, and confess judgment against upon the said obligation, or as for so much money borrowed, of any term, or vacation of term, antecedent or subsequent to this date, and to release to the said obligee all errors that may intervene in obtaining said judgment.

Signed and sealed this day of Annoque Domini, one thousand eight hundred and in presence of Personally appeared before me, James Geller, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for the County of Greene, and voluntarily made the following statement: Michael D. Fuhrman to wit:

That about three weeks before the time of the foregoing declaration at the city of Southbury, was attacked, wishes to wit sometime in November, 1819, William Whitmire, a tenant, slept in the store of Mr. Meen, and was soliciting me for more than three weeks to speak open Jennings and close the store, to get out the boy pocket book, and told me I would not do nothing to get other people's property by this way. About two days before the robbery, he beset me again, telling me there was no chance of detection, and would have nothing to do with it. On the night of the robbery, he got a small half inch auger, cut off the handle, so as to leave it about 14 inches long. On the day before the robbery, he and I went down to work at the bay, and slept at Mr. Meen's barn room; on the night of the robbery, he got up, was absent about an hour, came back, and lay down, and went to sleep. I have tipped them now.

The next morning, I went to work; was cutting wood. I was cutting wood for Mr. Meen with another young man. The next night after that, he came to me, requesting me to commit him in carrying the money home. He hid the money hid under a large stone near of Mr. Meen's well house, after long talking, I consented to help him, so we put it under a large white oak root near his house; but the paper money we hid below that under some brush that stuck out from the tree. I then did not know how much there was.
The money was kept secreted there, until some time in January when, knowing the money to be in his possession, he and Shadwell took the same money and put it in a bundle and left it in the store. They then wished me to take an oath that I never would appear on evidence against him; which I would not do, but said I would tell the truth. I was called upon. He then advised me to start away, so that if it should be found out I never should be taken. Watkins has often told me that he was the money that was taken. When he got the store open he crawled in and took away the cash, got to the bank, carried the money, with a large stone, stone in the bottom. I believe he had the money hid. I thought at the time, that if I had not seen him get up in the night, that the money, and the money taken, he had the money. He, as such as he could judge, there was as much as $400 or $800 in silver. There were two packages, one in a small bag, the other in a square piece of canvas. I saw the paper money. It was not known how much. I saw Watkins give Elver Watkins some paper money. He did not know how much. Before Elver went to the state of New York, he was going to buy a span of horses, to see about his family. He went to New York, I saw him no more. William Watkins told me he put a bag of money in his pocket, on the night of the robbery, in his pocket. He hunted for it for a time, and could not find it. He supposed somebody also found it. I saw some of the small bills of the paper money, as they were of eastern Banks.

The above confession was made in the presence of the persons who have hereunto subscribed their names.

John Tolmich
Joshua Marvin
Shadrack Marshall
Nate Benedict
Alexander Dickson

[Signature]

John Tolmich
Personally appeared before me and was sworn on of the County of New York in the County of Steuben, and voluntarily made the following statement, that Michael B. Tauroth to wit,

That about three weeks before the assassination of Abraham Lincoln at the city of Chicago, he was a resident there, William to wit sometime in November, A.D. 1865, William Witham, as an individual, slept in the street of the town, was soliciting me for more than three weeks to speak open disloyalty in the street, to get out the big pocket book, and told me I would do nothing to get other people's property in that way. About two days before the robbery, he beat me again, telling me there was no shame of defection, and I would have nothing to do with it. On the night of the robbery, he got a small half-inch auger, and cut off the handle, so as to leave it about 6 inches long. On the day before the robbery, he cut down the fence at the park, and slept at Mr. A.'s room, about the night of the robbery, he got up, crossed about about an hour, came back, after he lay down, he said, damn, we have found them now.

The next morning he went to work, was cutting wood. I was cutting wood for Mr. K's farm with another young man. The next night after, Withamen came to me, requesting me to assist them in carrying the money home. We had the money hid under a large stone north of the fence well. I have a horse, after long carrying, I consented to help him, we put it under a large white oak tree, near his house; but the paper money we had below that under some brush that stuck out from the tree.

I then did not know how much there was.