Dear Sir:

I have come at today for your box of which I thank you and send you for you and thought not to be in need of money, yet
I have some correspondence to be so.

I hope you read the book for the last time.
if you are not yet to suit
it is now over excess to suit
the whole book of the end number 752 is the last. These 752 being the last.
I will have a good look at it.
It came out right on the book.
I hope to do my very last work on the railroad tomorrow. Very but not ill.

Dear Sir:

Yours was received but Note is of bond, but
Not the bond itself,
I presume that will tomorrow.

I hear you are sending out the edit uncorrected. May it will tell editors, and will tell they would not be forced to pay the $7.50 and if they would only send our

Yours, so far as

Horace Greeley,
O. C. Corse, Esq.
