My dear Mr. Burton:

I have read your tentative outline of a University policy respecting military instruction with the greatest interest. The vital points, it seems to me, are those contained in 4 a and b and in the second clause of 7. Neither of the provisions and safeguards there set forth have convincingly existed so far — to the best of my knowledge.

Very truly yours,

TENTATIVE OUTLINE OF A UNIVERSITY POLICY
RESPECTING MILITARY INSTRUCTION: FOR CONSIDERATION

as a means of preventing rather than encouraging war.

I. The government, presumably and at least officially, representing the mind of the people, has decided on a policy of moderate preparedness. This policy is neither militaristic in the sense that the government desires war, nor pacifist, in the sense that it is determined not to go to war even for purely defensive purposes, but distinctly precautionary, hoping to avert war, but prepared not to be taken wholly at a disadvantage if war should come. It also takes account of the necessity for a certain amount of police duty, even in time of peace.

2. On the whole, there is much to be said for this attitude of the government. We do not want war; we hope and will do all in our power to avert it, even submitting to great loss if necessary.

3. It does not follow that students should be urged to and using every possible effort to settle differences domestic or international without resort to force; yet we cannot shut our eyes to the or pressed, but there should be such a declaration of the University's fact that we may sometime be forced to defend ourselves against aggression, attitude as would leave the students in no doubt that if they choose and that it is necessary for that reason to have a few men who have this work they have the full approval of the University in doing so. knowledge enough of military affairs to be fairly quickly convertible This result would probably be best achieved by an address delivered by into officers capable of training and leading others.
the president in chapel and afterward published in full.

3. The government has appealed to the Universities of the country and to the University of Chicago in particular, to cooperate with it in raising up a limited number of such men. This fact itself creates a strong presumption in favor of our complying with this request. Unless the policy of the government is clearly wrong, so that it is our duty to resist it, its request in accordance with the policy which has been officially and nationally adopted has a strong claim upon us.

The government has been impressed with the necessity of a policy of military instruction for the defense of the nation. This policy is to reflect military life in the same spirit as the government values the ideal of a disciplined society. The government believes it is important to the defense that the military be kept in a state of readiness, not just to serve in time of war but to be prepared at all times for peace.

The government has also recognized the need for a system of military training and instruction. No member of society is too old to be educated for military purposes.

The government has also given consideration to the possibility of creating a new system of military training and instruction. This system would be based on a combination of theory and practice, and would be designed to prepare the nation for any eventuality.

The government has also taken into account the need for a system of military training and instruction that is flexible and adaptable to changing conditions.

The government has also taken into account the need for a system of military training and instruction that is based on the principles of democracy and national defense.
as a means of preventing rather than encouraging war.

5. Properly conducted, such work as the Military Department offers has real educational value, and is on that ground educationally defensible. It is neither militaristic in the sense that the government desires, nor in the sense that it is determined, distinctly, wholly and entirely to eschew war as a means of settling international disputes, but distinctly and definitely to do its part in an era of compulsory military service and, through the power of its influence, to promote the cause of a spirit of peaceful and unwarlike conduct in time of peace. The President's statement is such as may be said for this government. We do not want war; we hope and will do all in our power to avert it, even submitting to great loss if necessary.

6. It does not follow that students should be urged to take this work in preference to other types, or in any way constrained internationally without resort to force; yet we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that we may sometime be forced to defend ourselves against aggression, or pressed, but there should be such a declaration of the University's attitude as would leave the students in no doubt that if they choose and that it is necessary for that reason to have a few men who have this work they have the full approval of the University in doing so. This result would probably be best achieved by an address delivered by the President in Chapel and afterward published in full.

Dear Mr. Fairweather:

Answering yours of May 9: The Board at the meeting on Thursday, May 8, referred the matter of the R.O.T.C. situation at the University to the Committee on Instruction & Equipment, with power.

I have suggested to the President that he ask Mr. Tufts and Mr. Wilkins to study the situation and to call a meeting of the committee -- Mr. Burton using his judgment at that time whether in the interest of saving time for the Trustees, General Hale, Colonel Sillman and others, he might care to bring, should be invited to that committee meeting or whether a meeting only for University people should be held first.

I believe Mr. Burton will let you know the facts as soon as they are clear in his mind. See no objection to your asking him after a week or so, in case you think further delay with the army gentlemen impolitic.

Yours very truly,

Dear Mr. Waterhouse:

Enclosed please find a copy of the Board of Visitors minutes of the O.C.T.C. committee and the committee's recommendations to the President of the University for the continuation of the project. It may be of interest to note the importance of the committee's report in the advancement of the program for the training of officers. The committee noted that the training of officers is essential to the successful conduct of military operations. The University Society of Army Officers has agreed to sponsor a meeting on the subject of the training of officers.

If you would like to attend the meeting, please let me know as soon as you are able. I look forward to seeing you there.

 Yr's very truly,

 C.O. Peirce/
Memorandum to the President:

With reference to the military work in the University, my opinion is that the report of the College Commission is not likely to affect our actual organization of work for a good while yet. It is likely to be so vigorously opposed by various people that it could scarcely be put into effect without destroying the harmony of opinion which is very desirable at this particular juncture of our affairs. To adopt a single, rigidly prescribed curriculum for a two year college is so much of a change from our present plans that it could hardly go through at once. Hence I think we should consider the military question on its own merits and as related to our present organization.

The government is evidently unwilling to proceed slowly. At least I judge that the previous discussions and conferences have not convinced the government that the situation is improving. Apparently the government wants it radically changed at once. Either we must convince them that their work is not satisfactory and must show in chapter and verse just how or else we must face their continued dissatisfaction and a possible recommendation for the removal of the unit. My own thought had been that things were gradually improving.

T.S
Recommendations to the President:

With reference to the question of the University's position in respect to the Board of Education and the College's Commission of Work for a Good White Man. It is beneficial to us as an organization to approve of moving people into the educational system and into the academic sphere.

The need for an academic system that promotes an equitable environment of good thinking and learning is apparent.

To seek a system that allows for a broad range of intellectual expression, I propose that we find a balance in our present organization so that we can continue to be effective.

Sincerely,

To the President of the University:

At your request I submit the following statement as to the work in Military Science and Tactics and as to the attitude of the University toward this work.

It is to be noted at the outset that both the present administration of the University and the present administration of the Department of Military Science and Tactics have had a comparatively short period of experience with the problems connected with this Department. The President and Dean of Faculties have been in office one year. The Dean of the Colleges of Arts, Literature and Science and the Dean of the College of Commerce and Administration, who have most to do with undergraduate men students, have been in office less than a year. The present Professor of Military Science and Tactics has been at the University for the present academic year only. The experience therefore of those most immediately concerned is limited to part of an academic year.
THE DEPARTMENT OF MILITARY SCIENCE AND TACTICS

May 16, 1934

To the President of the University:

At your request I submit the following report on the work in Military Science and Tactics and so to the studies of the University toward this work.

It is to be noted at the outset that part of the administration of the College of Military Science and Tactics have had a comparatively short period of experience with the problems connected with this department. The President and Dean of the College of Arts, Literature and Science and the Dean of the College of Commerce and Agriculture have been in office less than a year. The President of Military Science and Tactics has been at the University for the present semester, year only. The experience of the faculty in these fields immediately preceding is limited to part of an academic year.
The outstanding questions which confronted the administration of the University and the representatives of the Government were:

1. Is the University doing all that it may reasonably be expected to do to support the purposes and administration of the Department of Military Science and Tactics?

2. Is the work of the Department such that the educational authorities can give it cordial support?

Taking up the second question first, the situation as it presented itself to the Deans of the undergraduate colleges was this. On the one hand, the methods of instruction in the Department of Military Science and Tactics during the preceding administration had been so different in spirit and manner from the methods of instruction followed in other departments in the colleges, that many of the better class of students were unwilling to elect the courses in Military Science. On the other hand, a study of the grades given to students in these courses as compared with the grades secured by the same students in other courses showed that there was either a different standard of work or a different standard of grading, since the average grades received in the Department of Military Science were considerably higher than those received by these students in other departments. A certain degree of variation is always to be expected, but the discrepancy in this case seemed too great to be accounted for
The administrative machinery which controls the university and the educational policies of the government were...

In the university, the military science and military education do not belong to the Department of Military Science and Tactics.

In the work of the department, the latter was divided into two parts:

1. The Department of Military Science and Tactics
2. The Department of Military Education and Teaching

Subsequent developments can only be conjectured.

Taking in the second American War the situation as it began to take on the shape of the American Civil War, the necessity of the military sciences and tactics cutting across the boundaries of the department of military science and tactics in different ways. The need in the colleges for a college course in military science.

On the other hand, a study of the degrees given to students in these courses as compared with the degree courses of the same students in other courses showed that there was another difference in the standing of work or a different standard of training, since the service degrees received in the Department of Military Science were considered highly by those receiving them, whereas degrees received in other departments of the university, and in other departments, often seemed to be rejected, putting the academic in this case seeming to be preferable.
except on the grounds above named. It was evident that this situation was not such as either the Government or the University administration would welcome, for students of low standing or in danger of dismissal might thus be attracted to the Department.

This matter was brought to the attention of the Professor of Military Science, who took the matter up with his Department, and a successful effort was made to adjust the general standards of the Department to the general standards of the University. It is the belief of the University that in respect of both methods and standards, and in respect to the giving of grades, the work of the Department of Military Science is such as to deserve the cordial support of the University.

As evidence of the character of the work I may quote the letter of Professor F. R. Moulton, who during the winter visited three of the classes in the Military Department. He wrote as follows:

February 7, 1924.

My dear Major Barrows:

I desire to thank you for the courtesies extended to me yesterday while visiting classes in your Department. Please accept my congratulations on the high character of the work that is being done, as indicated by what I heard and saw. It is on the level of the academic work in the scientific departments of the University.

Cordially yours,

(Signed) F. R. Moulton
except on the grounds above mentioned. It was evident to consider that the attention was not much as after the Government of the University's administration would have come to of the University of Ghana to a general diagnosis might prove to action to the Department.
This matter was brought to the attention of the Professor of Military Science, who took the matter up with the Department, and a successful effort was made to the General Secretary of the University. It is the general Secretary of the University that is responsible for the carrying out of the University's part in respect of proper methods and arrangements, and in respect to the giving of grades, the work of the Department of Military Science to make as

...to assume the full support of the University...

As a result of the pressure of the work I may
...the letter of Professor A. W. Monson... in the
...my own Department...

My dear Mr. Monson:

I feel to thank you for your cooperation,
...to make a diagnosis of my colleagues...

Yours faithfully,

C.E. Ayeh

The grades reported during the last quarter, I am told by Dean Wilkins, were such as to suggest agreement of standards with the standards of the other departments of the University.

The improvement in the standards of the Department might have been expected to result in some reduction of enrollment. I find, however, that the registration in the Military Science courses, as distinguished from the Military Physical Culture courses, has shown an encouraging increase in the spring quarter, as indicated by the following comparison.

It is, of course, premature to say whether this improvement will continue, but with the improvement of standards and in the attitude of the deans, it seems reasonable to expect that the improvement will be maintained.
The Report on the First Quarter

I am sorry for the slow progress, but I believe we have made good steps in the right direction.

I would like to see the progress with the standards of the other departments, including the University's department of the research.

The improvement in the standards of the department might have been expected to result in some reduction of enrollment. However, I find it interesting that the percentage from the military science courses, as well as those from the physical education courses, are growing at an encouraging rate.

The following courses, as indicated by the following complaints:

It is to be expected, however, that the improvement will continue with the progress of the department.
As regards the attitude of the University administration toward the Military Department, the following statements are in point. First, a statement prepared by the President of the University, which is attached hereto. This statement was laid before a group of executive officers of the University in March and criticism invited. No criticism was offered, but instead it received general approval. In the second place, a statement issued April 30 by Dean Wilkins, to the Deans in Arts, Literature and Science who have to do with the registration of men. In addition, I have conferred with Deans Spencer, and Wilkins, who are responsible for by far the larger number of undergraduate men, and find there is a distinct change of attitude, based upon the changes in the work of the Department above set forth. They believe that they can give cordial support to the Department. In a recent assembly of undergraduate students, Dean Wilkins dwelt upon the importance of the work in Military Science.

I understand that the question has been raised as to whether the Deans ought not to go farther than the circular of Dean Wilkins authorizes, in that instead of saying that "this does not mean, of course, that students should be urged to take work in this department", the opposite should be stated, and that students should be urged to take this work. Dean Wilkins does not feel, nor do I, that he could single out any Department for such special treatment since it is the general policy to give information and
As regards the attitude of the University authorities to expanding the Military Department, the following statement is made:

"With a view to ensuring a stable and lasting peace, the Military Department of the University will be expanded to include Assistant Professors in Mathematics and Physics. No criticism was offered in the case of the expansion of the Department of General Affairs, but the suggestion of expanding the Military Department to the degree proposed in the statement presented April 30 by Dean Wilkins, to the degrees in the statement presented on the subject and in the case of men who have to do with the regulation of men in addition to the men and women who are responsible for the task of the largest number of undergraduate men, and in the case of a grant of a major change of attitude, please note that the changes in the work of the present sentence would give satisfactory and far-reaching results. The people who can give coherent support to the Department. In a recent assembly of undergraduate students, Dean Wilkins offered the following statement:

I understand that the expansion has been discussed as to whether the present changes are to last for the purpose of expansion of General Wilkins' suggestion. In fact, instead of saying that "the idea of next season of course, that students should not be required to take work in this Department," the opposite advice is given, and that students should do their work. Dean Wilkins does not feel that he can�� any single out by Department for such special treatment since it is the General position to give information and advice, but to leave to each student a large measure of responsibility.

It is my conviction that the situation has distinctly and greatly improved during the year, and that it is very desirable to continue under the present policy until we can determine more clearly what the outcome will be, not merely in the number of men registered, but in the quality of the men who are being secured as a result of the greater respect which is bound in time to be felt for the work. I believe that it will require some degree of patience and a longer period of such cooperation as now exists in order to determine how successful the Department may be in attaining the purposes for which it was established by the Government. I believe that the administrative officers are all desirous to support the Government in its purposes, although of course there are peculiar difficulties to be met in the case of a University located in a city.

I recommend, therefore, that the University represent to the Government that it favors decidedly the continuance of the Department, and that it looks forward to a gradual improvement of those conditions which have not hitherto been completely satisfactory either to the Government or to the University.
society, but I oppose to it a large measure of responsibility for the continuation of its activities and functions. I believe in the constitution of the school and the importance of continuing under the present political system, even if it be not entirely clear what the outcome will be. The number of men who are being educated as a result of the German system makes it possible for a large number of people to receive some degree of education and a broader basis of basic knowledge. The department may be in order to determine the purposes for which it was established by the government. I believe that the administrative officers and staff should be able to support the government in the purposes it has set for the country. There are present difficulties to be met in the case of a university located in a city. I recommend therefore that the university represent to the government that it should be considered the continuation of the department, and that it take steps to extend the improvement of those conditions which have not yet been completed satisfactorily either to the government or to the University.
OUTLINE OF A UNIVERSITY POLICY
RESPECTING MILITARY INSTRUCTION

Presented by the President to Deans of the University for their consideration in March 1924.

1. The government, presumably and at least officially, representing the mind of the people, has decided on a policy of moderate preparedness. This policy is neither militaristic nor anti-militaristic, in the sense that it represents a determination not to go to war even for purely defensive purposes, but distinctly precautionary. Under it the country is hoping to avert war, but is prepared not to be taken wholly at a disadvantage if war should come. It also takes account of the necessity for a certain amount of police duty even in time of peace.

2. On the whole, there is much to be said for this attitude of the government. We do not want war; we hope, and will do all in our power, to avert it, even submitting to great loss if necessary, and using every possible effort to settle differences domestic or international without resort to force; yet we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that we may sometime be forced to defend ourselves against aggression, and that it is necessary for that reason to have a few men who have knowledge enough of military affairs to be fairly quickly convertible into officers capable of training and leading others.

3. The government has appealed to the Universities of the country and to the University of Chicago in particular, to cooperate with it in raising up a limited number of such men.
OUTLINE OF A UNIVERSITY POLICY

RESPECTING MILITARY INSTRUCTION

Presented by the President to the Board of the University for their consideration in March 1862.

1. The government, representing the mind of the people, has acquiesced in a policy of moderate preparation. This policy is neither militaristic nor anti-militaristic. It is the same that it represents a general military spirit not to meet, not to prevent, but to be prepared to meet, when and as the occasion may arise.

2. On the whole, there is much to be said for the absence of the government. We do not want war; we hope, and will do all in our power, to secure the peace of the country. However necessary, and many every possibility to secure a difference of opinion or instruction without loss to the cause of the University, we must sometimes be ready to defend our views and assertions, and that if necessary for that reason to have a few men who can knowledge and ability as military experts to serve.

3. The government as applicable to the Universities of the country and to the University of Chicago in particular, to cooperate with it in keeping up a limited number of men.
This fact itself creates a strong presumption in favor of our complying with this request. Unless the policy of the government is clearly wrong, so that it is our duty to resist it, its request in accordance with the policy which has been officially and nationally adopted has a strong claim upon us.

4. If the University responds to this request, it has a right to demand that the work shall be (a) in all respects of high quality educationally, (b) conducted in the spirit and with the aims above stated - as a means of preventing rather than encouraging war.

5. Properly conducted, such work as the Military Department offers has real educational value, and is on that ground educationally defensible.

6. If the work is put on a sound educational basis, and conducted in the spirit above indicated, and if on this ground and those previously stated it is included in the plans of the University, it ought to have the unequivocal endorsement of the University. It is just neither to the government nor to the University nor to the students to continue it, as it were on sufferance, existing but without hearty approval.

7. It does not follow that students should be urged to take this work in preference to other kinds of study, or in any way constrained or pressed, but there should be such a declaration of the University's attitude as would leave the students in no doubt that if they choose this work they have the full approval of the University in doing so. This result would probably be best achieved by some public utterance by the President or over his name.
April 30, 1924

TO ALL MEN DEANS; A.L.S.

In connection with the registration of men for next year, may I call your attention to the present status and claims of the work in Military Science?

The Government has appealed to the Universities of the country to cooperate with it in raising up a number of men who, in the emergency of war, would have enough knowledge of military affairs to be fairly quickly convertible into officers capable of training and leading others.

This request is in accordance with an official and nationally adopted policy, and, so far as I am aware, is the only direct request made of the University by the Government. It has therefore a very strong claim upon us.

The Department of Military Science has done a great deal this year in the direction of raising the standards of its work, both in respect to aims and methods of instruction, and in respect to the giving of grades. It is, furthermore, continuing its efforts toward improvement.

This improvement of standards is causing a reduction in enrollment, since the former special attractiveness of these courses as snap courses is now largely or completely removed.

In view of these several circumstances, I desire to express my conviction that the Military Science Department deserves the cordial support of the Deans in respect to registration.

This does not mean, of course, that students should be urged to take work in this Department. It does mean, however, that in my opinion the Military Science work should always be kept in mind as a possibility, and suggested in appropriate cases; and that a student who of his own accord evinces an interest in Military Science should be encouraged to take work in that Department.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) E.H. Wilkins,
Dean of the Colleges
TO ALL MEN DEAR Sir.

In connection with the resignation of my successor next year, I will first call your attention to the pressing need and urgency of the work of Militant Science.

The Government has been urged by the universities to cooperate in the training of a number of men in the various sciences of the military, so that there may be made available a body of military scientists to fill important positions in the Army. The importance of this work is not to be underestimated, and it is the duty of all of us to assist in its prosecution.

The Department of Militant Science has done a great work in the field of training of scientific men, and it is urgent that we should support this work.

The importance of the work of the Militant Science Department is emphasized by the fact that it is the only body of its kind in the country.

Yours truly,

F.H. Wilson
Dean of the College.

Mr. Walter A. Payne,
Faculty Exchange

My dear Mr. Payne:

In reply to your letter of September the thirteenth, concerning the mention on the Convocation Program and in the Register of the Award of Commissions in the Reserve Corps. The President approves its inclusion upon the Convocation Program.

He thinks that the question of the Register is a somewhat different matter, and may perhaps depend to some extent on the precise conditions. Should you think that the standard for appointment to commissions is comparable to the standard for honors in particular departments of the Senior College, which we now print in Part X of the Register? If so, it would perhaps be appropriate to include them. If on the other hand, it means simply the completion of the work with a passing grade, I should think that we probably ought not to include them.

Perhaps before deciding finally it would be well for me to consult Major Barrows.

Sincerely yours,

James H. Tufts

Dean James H. Tufts,
Faculty Exchange.

My dear Dean Tufts:

My attention has been called to the announcement in the program for the June Convocation, under the general heading of "Award of Honors", of the awarding of commissions in the Field Artillery Officers' Reserve Corps to University students. The question arises as to whether these names should appear under the corresponding heading in Part X of the Annual Register. June, 1923, was the first time such awards were made and the names were not included in the next issue of the Annual Register. The omission, however, was not based upon a thorough canvass of the question. Since these are not awards made by the University of Chicago, I am personally in doubt as to whether the announcements should be included in either the Convocation program or the Annual Register, though I can see that from some points of view it is desirable that it be done. What is your judgment?

Dear President Burton:

I am enclosing copies of letters which I have just sent concerning an order of the War Department to withdraw certain military property from the University of Illinois.

I notice in the correspondence that the Department at the same time issued orders affecting the War Department property to be left with the University of Chicago and University of Michigan. I do not know what action you have taken, but I wonder whether you agree with the views that I have set forth in my letter. I shall be glad to know if it is not troubling you too much to write me about the matter.

Sincerely yours,

My dear President Kinley:

President Burton has just returned from an absence of several days from the City. Before your letter to him is answered, I am consulting with the University Counsel and Major Barrows of our Department of Military Science and Tactics as to whether the University of Chicago has ever faced a situation similar to the one that you write of. As soon as that information is obtained, either the President or Vice President Tufts will write to you.

Very truly yours,

Secretary to the President.

My dear Mr. Fairweather:

I am enclosing certain letters sent to the President by President Kinley of the University of Illinois. Can you tell me if the military property in the care of the University is protected by an agreement similar to the one that President Kinley mentions? Further, will you tell me if the University of Chicago has at any time been involved in a situation similar to the present one at the University of Illinois?

Very truly yours,

Mr. George O. Fairweather.

Colonel R. J. Shand, Adjutant General
P&O of the US for the NG of Illinois
Springfield, Illinois

Dear Colonel Shand:

Our Colonel Merry, Commandant of our R.O.T.C. has sent me your letter of October 15 requesting that he turn over to the Supply Officer, 303nd Coast Artillery, A-A, I.N.G., 5375 Broadway, Chicago, one Dodge Touring Car, and one Dodge Light Delivery Truck now in the possession of the University of Illinois for its use in connection with its Military Department. I have instructed Colonel Merry to decline to comply with the order, and have so informed Adjutant General Smith, Sixth Corps Area in a letter, a copy of which is here-with enclosed.

My reason for this action is that the University of Illinois has given bond to the War Department for all the property in its care. Therefore, we do not recognize the right of the War Department to change this property without our consent. Otherwise the value of our bond would be constantly subject to impairment by the War Department.

If the War Department wishes to entrust the University with its property without bond then it could order said property here or away from here as it pleases. Under the existing circumstances, however, I do not believe that it has the right to do so.

Please do not interpret this letter as indicating in any way our unwillingness to have this transfer made. I will facilitate the matter to the best of my ability, and hope that in a few days we shall be able to send the articles in question, but it can only be after I have submitted the matter to the Board of Trustees, which will meet on Saturday. I hope to be able at that time to make the adjustment.

Trusting this explanation will make clear to you the reason for my position, and also my readiness to do what I can to meet the situation, I am

Dear Colonel:

I am writing to express my concern regarding the matter of the proposed expansion of the University of Illinois. I have been notified by the appropriate authorities that the plan is currently under consideration, and I am hopeful that it will proceed as quickly as possible.

The expansion of the University of Illinois is a matter of utmost importance to me. I believe that it is imperative for the institution to continue to grow and develop in order to meet the needs of the community.

I am hopeful that the matter will receive the attention it deserves and that the expansion will proceed as planned.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

General Charles C. Smith
Headquarters Sixth Corps Area
1819 Pershing Road
Chicago

Dear General Smith:

Colonel W. T. Merry has sent me, at my request, your letter of April 23 addressed to the P.M.S. & T., University of Illinois, accompanied with certain endorsements giving instructions for a change in the distribution of motor equipment, and directing that certain motor trucks, property of the War Department, now in the care of the University of Illinois, be transferred to the care of the National Guard.

The University of Illinois now, as always, desires to meet the wishes of the War Department and its representatives fully and promptly. However, it is under heavy bond for the care of the War Department property entrusted to it. That bond has been approved by the Board of Trustees of the University on the understanding that the property committed to its care, against which the bond is issued, is under its charge until and unless the bond is changed. As the agent of the Board of Trustees, acting for them in the interim of their meetings, I am not at liberty to permit the withdrawal of any property committed to our care under this bond. It does not seem to me the War Department has the legal right or power to change the condition of the bond at its pleasure without the consent of the other party in question. Therefore, I have directed our Commandant not to ship this property until he has received authority from the University.

In this connection may I without offence point out that there seems to be some misunderstanding either on the part of the War Department or the University as to the relations of the P.M.S.& T. to the University. As I wrote General Hale under date of February 16, 1924, from our point of view, when an army officer is assigned here and made a member of our faculty he is under the authority of the University, and not subject to direct orders of the War Department or any of its officers. In his relations to me as President of the University the P.M.S.&T. is like any other department head, and has full authority over the work of his department, subject to general University regulations. I do not interfere with him. However, if the War Department can issue orders directly to him affecting either the property or instruction of our Military Department, his relationship ceases to be direct with the University.

Please understand that in expressing these views and taking this stand I do not want to be understood as being in the slightest degree unwilling to acquiesce in and facilitate the performance of any wish or request of the War Department or any of its representatives in any matter in which the University has a voice. I will see to it that the request for the transfer of this property is facilitated as promptly as possible. My objection is to the procedure and the involved assumption that the University having given a bond can be held responsible under that bond and yet have nothing to say about the transfer of property committed to its care.

Our Board of Trustees meets on Saturday, and if there is time under press of business, I will secure their formal consent to the transfer of this property.

May I call your attention to the fact that I have already directed the attention of the Commander of the Sixth Corps Area to the principle discussed above in my letter of April 15, 1924.
