CROSS REFERENCE SHEET

Name or Subject: Biblical Greek

Regarding

File No.

Date

SEE

Name or Subject

E. D. Burton

File No.

File cross reference form under name or subject at top of the sheet and by the latest date of papers. Describe matter for identification purposes. The papers, themselves should be filed under name or subject after "SEE."
My dear President Harper,

I regret that my distance from Chicago prevents my having the personal interview which your letter of Nov. 12 kindly offers. I shall be compelled to put in writing what I have to say. I was on the point of writing you when your letter was received.

1. A reduction of our force below the number now actively at work, Votaw, Mathews, and myself, is of course out of the question, as I have no doubt you will agree. But I think you will remember that when Arnolt was transferred out of the department it was understood and agreed that the place did not thereby cease to exist, but was only left vacant temporarily. To appoint some one to fill that vacancy would not therefore constitute an increase of the force. You know well how very desirous I am to establish what shall in time become a strong department of Patristics, a department which shall do a work not only for our school, but a great work and a greatly needed work for the scholarship of America. You know too that I do not think it practicable to do this with our present force. No one of us is specially trained for it; no one of us can do it without leaving undone other important work. Since coming east I have heard of two men that I think are qualified for the position. I saw at Cambridge the other day Mr. Platten who has recently gone there from Union Seminary. I recognized him as a man I had known in Berlin. He is a scholar, a teacher, a gentleman. Whether he could be moved I do not know.
But I should like to make the effort. If he is inaccessible, I of Hiawatha Kansas should like to look up Ambrose W. Vernon, a graduate of Union who has had two years abroad, and is highly recommended by McGiffert and Francis Brown. His studies have been in just the line which would fit him to do the work we want done. I do not know enough about him to be sure that he is the man we want, but it looks promising. The question therefore arises whether we can proceed at once to fill this vacancy, and if so how much salary we can offer.

And this reminds me to speak of Gregory. In a letter received from Mathews this morning he says that Chancellor MacLean of Nebraska told him the other day that he thought we could get Gregory beyond a possible doubt; that Luthardt’s successor had been appointed, Gregory being passed by. I do not bring this up to urge it; but it seems a great pity not to get him if it is in any way possible. I believe it is understood in any case that we ask him to come again next summer.
Does that come into the present estimates? I suppose not, but that it goes over to the special summer session account.

You interdict any remarks about increase in salaries; but I assume that refers to proposals of increase. Promises of increase already made do not come under that head. What you promised Mr. Votaw you doubtless remember better than I do; and what was agreed between us respecting me as well as I do.

With respect to the other three matters mentioned in your letter, Books, Apparatus, Printing and Publishing, a reduction of appropriations would be impossible, I suppose, those for the past year being in the case of the books merely a percentage of the fees, and in the other cases very small indeed. The department will not ask for any increase.

I am sorry not to be able to suggest large reductions of expense on the part of our department.

I heard the other day that you were to be in Newark soon. If this is true I hope I may have the pleasure of seeing you again.

I am sorry that I cannot have the privilege of being included in the contributors to the first number of the great new Journal. I have written Mathews a full account of the reasons which forbid my publishing my politarch article without some further information to be obtained only by writing to Thessalonica. I am glad to hear that you have plenty of material and on the whole I judge of high grade.

Always sincerely yours,

Ernest D. Burton
Dear Mr. [Name],

I am writing to inform you that I have accepted an opportunity at [Company Name]. This is due to the current economic climate, and I believe it is in the best interest of all parties involved to pursue this opportunity at this time.

I have worked hard to develop my skills and experience in the field of [Field], and I am confident that my background and experience will make me an asset to [Company Name].

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]
My dear Mr. President,

The more I think of the more I am inclined to favor your suggestion about Edgar Goodspeed. I am persuaded that there is no man in sight who would be anything like as competent to do the work we want done as he would be after two years of study abroad. Such study ought of course to be planned with reference to the doing of the work in Palestine that we are aiming to have done. If an understanding could be reached between Goodspeed and the University,pledging him on the one side to do the necessary study abroad, and the University on the other hand to give him the work to do when he comes back, this arrangement would be more satisfactory to the New Testament department than anything else that I can think of.

Could he not be appointed immediately after receiving his degree, perhaps teach three months with salary pro rata, and then go abroad on two years' leave of absence? He would then have had eight years of graduate work, and would be prepared, I believe, to do excellent work.
work. Inasmuch as he will have received little or no salary for two years, and in view of his long period of preparation to be entitled in 1900 to a salary of more than $600, I imagine. But this is a question of detail. The main point is to effect an arrangement satisfactory to him and the University by which he shall come back in 1900 prepared to take up the work we want him to do.

If anything is to come of this, I do not care to go any further in this Bishop case.

Sincerely yours,

[Signature]

[Note: The last line is partially legible, possibly signing off with a name or initials.]
The Committee on New Testament Language and Literature beg leave to report:

That the Committee has had a conference with the New Testament department, and correspondence and discussion as to the needs of the department, and is prepared to submit the following as the result of their deliberation:

1. The committee would respectfully suggest that the department take into consideration the advisability of plainly and decisively presenting to the incoming students the meaning of the courses about to be entered upon; their mutual relation and their fundamental necessity to the work to be pursued in the New Testament department and also in the other departments of the institution, as well as their relation to the work of the ministry.

2. That the evident aim of the department to fit the student to be an interpreter for himself, to prepare him so that he can work out for himself the problems that are to be presented to him in his ministry, is vital to the best work of the department, and essential to the usefulness of the student in the ministry.

3. That the required courses in the department are the essential ones for the preparation of the student for the ministry.

4. The Committee is decidedly of the opinion that the required studies in this department should be increased. The Committee believes that every well prepared student for the ministry should have at least one course in New Testament Exegesis; It seems incredible to The Committee on New Testament Language and Literature

per issue to report:

That the Committee has had a conference with the New Testament Department and correspondence with Presbyterian and other denominational committees as to the need of the department and the manner in which the following may be helped to map out the following year of the department, and that the report of the following may be read:

1. The committee would especially recommend that the department:
   - Take into committee the responsibility of identifying and helping to prepare for the forthcoming study of the meaning of the book of the prophets, a project which would need much intellectual leadership and guidance, and
   - To the work of the New Testament department necessary to do a study of the works best known in the New Testament department and the titles of the department, and
   - To the work of the ministry in the department.

2. That the statement in the department of the department of the work of the department:
   - To be an instrument for the committee to provide work in the department.

3. That the committee believe in the importance of the ministry for the department.

4. That the committee is grateful for the cooperation of the department for the ministry.

5. That the committee is grateful for the cooperation of the department for the ministry.

The committee with co-operation of the department for the department and correspondence with Presbyterian and other denominational committees as to the need of the department and the manner in which the following year of the department, and that the report of the following may be read:

this Committee that any man can feel satisfied to enter into the ministry without such a knowledge of the method of interpretation of truth such a course in the exegesis of a given New Testament book would provide. If a minister of the gospel should come into the ministry without such preparation, he would feel the loss and would be handicapped in right interpretation of the truth in the New Testament.

The Committee therefore would respectfully suggest to the New Testament department and the faculty, the advisability of requiring either a fourth major, consisting of a book in exegesis, or of selections from certain books for exegesis; or a minor, consisting of a book in exegesis and a minor in biblical theology, or selections for the same.

Specifically, while the Committee believes the required courses in New Testament viz.,

1. New Testament Greek,
10. General History of New Testament Times in Palestine,
15. General Survey of the New Testament Literature, are fundamental, and should be required and cannot be improved upon for required studies; it believes that a fourth major should be required, which (a) should consist of the exegesis of a given book, say Matthew, Romans, John, Galatians, or the student should be permitted to elect from a number of books. or

b) In place of the required fourth major, there should be required two minors, one minor to be the exegesis of a New Testament book, and the other minor the theology of a corresponding section of the New Testament, or choice in such, viz., a minor in the
The Committee feels that you can feel satisfied to enter into the committee without any knowledge of the meaning of Interpretation of the text and a course in the exegetical study of a given New Testament book of your choice. If a member of the Committee should come into the field without adequate preparation, he would feel the need and study to become adequately informed. Interpretation is right interpretation

The Committee feels that much responsibility rests upon the New Testament department and the Faculty, the specialists in the interplay of theory and practice, of a book in exegesis, or of a text. Selection from certain books for exegesis of a minor, exegesis of a book of exegesis and a minor in philology, or philosophy of the same.

Specially, while the Committee wishes the reading contains in New Testament

"New Testament Greek"

"General Survey of the New Testament Literature"

"General History of the New Testament Literature"

Without the assistance of the Evangelical interpretation, we should not be able to understand literature, and we should not be able to understand the importance of a given text or minor, and in place of the reading "2nd century" there should be reading two minute one minute of the book and the 2nd minute of the section or a correspondingly section of the New Testament, or one minute of each.

exegesis of Galatians and one corresponding minor on the Theology of Paul.

5. The Committee will undertake to consider and investigate some of the matters referred to in the President's report, and report on the same at the next meeting of the Advisory Committee.

E. P. Tuller, Chairman,
J. A. Johnson.
exercise of Galatians and one to report findings minor on the of Pent.

The Committee will investigate the matter and investigate some of the statements relevant to the construction of the report on the issue at the next meeting of the Advisory Committee.

E. W. Kammer Chairman

A. Johnson
April 5, 1915.

My dear Mr. President:

The members of the New Testament Department beg leave to submit for your consideration a proposal for the development under their direction of what may be called "a laboratory of New Testament study".

With two research assistants and an annual fund for publication we believe that we could greatly increase the investigative output of the department and make a notable contribution to the understanding of the origin of the Christian religion. It is our conviction that with a relatively small addition to the departmental budget we might notably increase the scientific efficiency of the department. The value of such an adjunct to the work of the department is well illustrated in the departments of natural science. The University of Chicago has the largest New Testament faculty of any University in the world, and the coming of Professor Robinson of the Chicago Theological Seminary, one of our own Doctors and an able man, and that of Dr. Sprengling, who though coming to the Semitic Department is an expert in the New Testament field, will still further strengthen our staff.

We have several pieces of scientific work ready for publication. Other tasks, on which we are well advanced, will soon be ready, or can soon be made ready with the aid of a research assistant. We have
The University of Chicago

The Department of the

Dear Mr. Thompson,

The purpose of this letter is to inform you of the development of a new proposal for the treatment of cancer. Our team has been working on this project for several years, and we believe it has the potential to revolutionize the field.

The proposal involves the use of a novel therapeutic approach that combines traditional chemotherapy with targeted molecular therapies. Our research has shown promising results in preclinical studies, and we are confident that this approach will lead to significant improvements in patient outcomes.

We are currently seeking funding to further develop and test this proposal in clinical trials. If you are interested in supporting this project, please contact us at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
in mind still other definite pieces of work which need to be done and which we believe we could carry through within a reasonable period if we had assistants in research and definite prospect of publication.

By way of preamble we should like to point out that the department has already done work which in quantity and quality seems to us to give assurance of our capacities for still larger work. Up to this date we have published the following books:

Burton: Records and Letters of the Apostolic Age, 1895.
Burton: A Short Introduction to the Gospels, 1904.
Burton: Principles of Literary Criticism and their Application to the Synoptic Problem, 1904.
Votaw: The Use of the Infinitive in Biblical Greek, 1896.
Votaw: The Sermon on the Mount, 1904.
Goodspeed: Greek Papyri from the Cairo Museum, 1902.
Goodspeed: Index Patristicus, Leipzig, 1907.
Goodspeed, Grenfell and Hunt: Tebtunis Papyri, Part II., 1907.
Goodspeed: Chicago Literary Papyri, 1908.
Goodspeed: The Epistle to the Hebrews, 1908.
Goodspeed: Index Apologeticus, Leipzig, 1912.
Goodspeed and Sprengling: Catalogue of Manuscripts in the Libraries of the University, 1912.
Case: The Historicity of Jesus, Chicago, 1912.

To this list might be added a considerable number of others of less significance and a somewhat long list of essays, some of which are of importance.

We have also had experience in editorial work. The Constructive Studies now contain some twenty volumes. In the Historical and Linguistic Studies in Literature Relating to the New Testament one volume of six hundred pages has appeared and two other volumes are practically ready. Jointly with
To the left, I have a paper titled "A Description of a Computer and Its Operation," which contains some important details.

We have also had a computer analysis of the data, which was quite informative.

The conclusions that we have come to are quite compelling and warrant further investigation.

We have also been able to see some interesting trends in the data, which we believe are significant.

In conclusion, the results of our study are quite promising and suggest that further research is warranted.
other members of the Divinity Faculty, the head of the department is editing a series of Text Books in Religious Education for College Classes, in which some six or eight volumes are in process of preparation.

We have the following books ready to publish. But because of their scientific and technical character it is not likely they can be published without subsidy.

Burton and Goodspeed: Harmony of the Synoptic Gospels in Greek.
Goodspeed: The Harvard and Haskell Gospels.
Goodspeed: Translation of the Arabic Diatessaron into Greek.
Goodspeed: The Latin Harmony of the Four (Vulgate) Gospels, from a manuscript in the University Library.

The following works are in an advanced state of preparation, on some of them years of work having already been spent. For some of them publishers have already been arranged, for others it will be easy to obtain a publisher; but others are of the character of those in the previous list and will scarcely be published without subsidy.

Burton: Commentary on the Epistle to the Galatians.
Burton and Goodspeed: Life of the Apostle Paul.
Case: Jesus Christ: A Historical Interpretation.

Finally, we have made plans more or less definite for the preparation and publication of the following list, and on some of them have begun work:

Burton: The Sources of the Synoptic Gospels.
Votaw: Jesus in Jewish History.
Votaw: The Gospels as Biographies.
Goodspeed: A volume of Papyrus texts, from papyri in Haskell and the collections of Dr. Cobern of Meadville and Dr. Goodspeed.
first page
Case: A Historical Commentary on the New Testament, in 12 volumes, to be edited by Dr. Case. Preliminary arrangements for publication are already under way.

Case: A series of volumes on "Religious Documents from the Graeco-Roman World". This probably could not be published without financial assistance.

Case: Religions of the Graeco-Roman World: (1) Paganism, (2) Judaism, (3) Christianity.

--- Concordance of Josephus.
--- Translation of Philo.
--- Concordance of Philo.
--- Concordance of Charles, Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha.

Merrifield: The Origin and Growth of Early Christianity.

Merrifield: Jesus and the Prophets (How the latter influenced Jesus; how he developed their convictions, and added to them.)

We are of the opinion that the present is a peculiarly opportune moment for American scholars to be prosecuting energetically the work of investigation and publication. Germany, France and England are unable at present to give their usual attention to matters of scholarship and when the war is over there will be lack of money for the subsidizing of such great scholarly works as we have received from these countries in recent years. This is America's opportunity to take a forward step, not to the disadvantage of other countries, but to their advantage and to that of scholarship.

Among our own advanced students there are two young men who have had training abroad as well as in this country and are well qualified to work as assistants in research. One of these is a native Greek who has a command, not only of his mother tongue but of other ancient and modern languages. The other the head of the department has already thoroughly tested, having employed him as a personal assistant on salary for over a year.
We are of the opinion that the business is essentially of an investment and profit-making nature. Germany, France, and other countries are well equipped to produce and export products. The opportunity is to invest capital and acquire control, not to buy the company.

A recent and successful acquisition was that of the company, which has shown a steady increase in earnings and a profitable income. The company's future appears to be promising due to the current market conditions and the current economic situation.

The acquisition of the company would provide a substantial increase in earnings and profits. The company's assets are valued at a total of $10 million, and the company's income is estimated to be $2 million per year.

We believe that the investment in this company is a sound financial decision and would result in a significant earning potential.

The board of directors would like to express their appreciation to the shareholders for their support and capital contributions. The company is committed to maintaining a strong and stable financial position.

Thank you for your support, and we look forward to continuing to serve you in the future.
In view of this situation, we venture to ask whether it would be possible to obtain from the University, or through its agency, financial assistance in the carrying out of our plans. We should like:

1. For research assistants, $2000 a year for five years;
2. For subsidizing our publications, $1000 a year for five years.

Should it be possible to obtain such assistance either from the general funds of the University or from special sources, the Department would pledge itself to organize the work in an efficient way and to justify the expenditure by the results. The plan of procedure we have in mind includes:

1. A room devoted to investigative work.
2. The appointment of two research assistants.
3. A departmental committee of oversight.
4. Regular office hours for the research assistants and definitely assigned tasks.
5. Employment of the fellows of the Department to assist in the work.
6. Quarterly and annual reports of work done.

It would be our further intention to begin the work of the proposed laboratory by assigning to our research assistants certain very definite and concrete tasks adapted to their particular type of ability and gradually to lay upon them heavier responsibilities, involving a larger measure of self-direction. We have in mind that within the first year they might work mainly upon the Concordances of Philo and Josephus and upon the translation of the religious documents of the Graeco-Roman world. Should funds not be immediately available for the publication of the results of this work, the deposit of typewritten copies of the concordances and of the translations in the Library would of itself greatly facilitate work of investigation and in our judgment justify the expense involved. Furthermore, in preparing the typewritten copies duplicates might be made which could be sold to other libraries.

Begging pardon for the length of this communication, but venturing to request for it your careful consideration, we are Very truly,

The members of the New Testament Department

by

[Signature]

President H. P. Judson,

The University of Chicago.

EDB-N
The members of the New Testament Department

[Signature]

President H. H. Lyman

The University of Chicago
My dear Mr. President:

I heartily concur in the general scheme which Dr. Burton proposes, particularly in view of the fact that independently he has worked out in detail a general plan which I have for the development of the Divinity School.

I have recently referred to this once or twice in speaking with you, and I trust that I may have the opportunity to discuss at length with you in the near future the organization of a post-graduate school of religion and ethics. I believe the time has come for development of the work we shall do for graduates of the Divinity School. Such a school should develop investigative work in the field of religion in a way which is not possible for the ordinary school. With our affiliated Theological Faculty, and with the co-operation of certain members of the Graduate Faculty of Arts, we can do this as can no other institution in the country.

I trust that it will be possible to take a step, even though experimental, into this new and unworked field.

This plan of Dr. Burton's, I trust therefore, may be given consideration from this larger conception of the opportunity that is ours, as well as on its own merits.

Very truly yours,

S.M.
A.A.

President Harry Pratt Judson, University of Chicago.
Dear Mr. President,

I am writing to inform you of the recent development which has occurred at the University of Chicago. The new administration is in the process of forming a committee to address the issue of student protest activities.

I understand that you have been grappling with the complexities of this situation, and I am confident that your experience and wisdom will guide us towards a constructive resolution. The committee, I believe, will play a pivotal role in facilitating open dialogue and finding solutions that are in the best interest of our university.

I look forward to hearing your thoughts on this matter and am available to discuss further at your convenience.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Dean of the Graduate School,

Administrator of the University of Chicago
Chicago, June 4, 1915

Dear Mr. Burton:—

With regard to the proposed Laboratory of New Testament Study which was submitted under date of April 5th, I beg to say that at present the funds will hardly allow the appropriation. The matter will be held in reserve in the hope that at some later date we may be able to take it up again.

Very truly yours,

H.P.J. - L.

Director E. D. Burton,
The University of Chicago.
Office, June 4, 1925

Dear Mr. Peterson:

With regard to the property situation at the new testament study which was approved under date of April 15th, I have so far as present the funds will be held firmly. Should the appropriation be held in reserve in the hope that at some later date we may proceed to take it up again.

Very truly yours,

[Signature]

H.T.J. - F.

Director, D. Parish
The University of Chicago
September 20, 1923.

Before Mr. Judson retired I had arranged with him to appoint an additional Instructor in the New Testament Department. Mr. Merrifield's courses will this term be offered in the next three years. The new plan for the use of the key-nodes in the teaching of the Gospels of John, Mark, and Luke has proved so successful that I am inclined to think it may serve as a model for other courses in the major studies. The result is that the registrations in your elective courses have been very small. The number of students electing the course or taking it by requirement is generally small. This is especially true of courses for College students, in which we ought to be doing a larger amount of work. I think you are probably not aware of the extent of the field in which we ought to be doing a larger amount of work.

Mr. Merrifield has been greatly interested in this type of work, and has developed a clientele of very respectable numbers. He has but touched the hem of what I think we ought to do, and especially has he largely affected only minds of a certain type. I feel that we ought to be reaching a far larger number, and students of a greater variety of point of view, and ...until the previous question has been fully explained. I feel that before Mr. Judson retired I had arranged with him to appoint an additional instructor in the New Testament Department to supplement Mr. Merrill’s courses well. But this leaves the Old Testament field still open to own development in intramural undergraduate work. I believe it is a great opportunity, but my heart is set on a marked improvement in the work of the Colleges in the next three years. The task has various aspects. The new plan for the use of the Reynolds Clubhouse, the doubling of the number of Deans, are all single items of a far-reaching plan. Into this plan such a development of courses as you are thoroughly prepared for could make yourself ready to give would fit perfectly, and supply a real need. I do not think that you need confine these courses too strictly to the Old Testament. I think you can deal with the question of religion and the relations between religion and civilization in the ancient Eastern world generally, and with the relation between the ancient and modern worlds. The courses ought to be thoroughly scholarly, but also attractive to the relatively immature mind of the undergraduate, and they ought to have a practical and religious value, not too obvious or intrusive, but real and vital. Such courses would not be easy to prepare for, but in but I am sure that if you felt willing to throw your energy into them you could give them excellently and effectively, and...
I have not been present on a weaving improvement in the work of the collectors in the past two years. I am aware of the fact that the collector was not present at any of the meetings of the committee for the improvement in the weaving process. The information that I have received indicates that a development of a new process is taking place, and I am sure that this new process will lead to a great increase in the efficiency of the weaving process. I am sure that you have seen the reports of the committee, and I think you will agree that the committee has been successful in its efforts to improve the weaving process.

From a technical and practical standpoint, the new process is an improvement over the old process. The new process is more efficient and is capable of producing higher quality fabrics. In addition, the new process is more economical, and it is expected to lower the cost of production. I think that the future of the weaving industry is bright, and I am confident that the new process will play a significant role in the development of the industry.

I am sure that you are aware of the importance of the weaving process to the economy of the country. The weaving industry is a major employer, and it contributes significantly to the gross domestic product. I am confident that the new process will contribute to the continued growth of the weaving industry.

I am happy to report that the committee has been successful in its efforts to improve the weaving process. I am confident that the future of the weaving industry is bright, and I am looking forward to seeing the results of the new process.

I urge you to support the efforts of the committee to improve the weaving process. I believe that the new process is a significant improvement over the old process, and I am confident that it will contribute to the continued growth of the weaving industry.
I feel that the giving of them offers a great opportunity, and the outcome has become pretty clear.

I can understand, Dr. Willett, that this programme may not appeal to you. You have done so many things so well in the past, and in a world so much larger, that you may not be drawn to this kind of intra-mural undergraduate work. I believe it is a great opportunity. I do not know whether it is your largest one. You only can say whether it appeals to you. If it does, and if you feel like undertaking it, planning new courses or revising old ones, promoting registrations in all legitimate ways, I will gladly cooperate with you, and will try to secure the cooperation of others.

May I then frankly raise the question, Dr. Willett, whether you ought not to decide now whether for the remainder of your University residence you want to make your work here, and especially this undergraduate work, your major interest. I gravely doubt whether it is worth your while to do this as an incident of a life largely devoted to outside matters. I do not know that you ought to concentrate on this work, but I believe that only thus will you accomplish what I have in mind, and what I feel must be accomplished in some way. I believe there is a future for you in the University if it interests you enough so that you care to make it your chief concern, and in that case I should be glad to cooperate with you in all possible ways. I do not see my way to do what you asked until the previous question has been pretty thoroughly considered, and the outcome has become pretty clear.

I shall be glad to discuss the matter, personally if you desire. I shall be out of town from Tuesday the 25th to October 1st.

The question which you raised with me once in my office a few days ago. I have had a great deal of the conversations in your courses for a period of years, and have analyzed the record from the point of view of the Dr. H. L. Willett, The University of Chicago.

The result is I am sorry to say, to show that the restrictions in your elective courses have been very small in number sometimes, often, rarely more than four or five. This is especially true of courses for college students, a field in which we ought to be doing a large and influential work.

I have been greatly disturbed for years over the meager work which we are doing in the field of instruction in religion for college students. Mr. Harrifield has been greatly interested in this type of work, and has developed a clientele of very respectable numbers. But he has but touched the edge of what I think we ought to do, and especially we are very largely affected only minds of a certain type. I feel that we ought to be reaching a far larger number, and students of a greater variety of point of view.