My dear Sir:

I am informed by the officers of the General Advisory Committee of One Hundred that a meeting has been called for December 12.

I am writing, with their approval, to announce that the following will be made of the Committee in connection with the proposed meeting:

1. That the President of the University be granted the privilege of presenting a preliminary report in which he will make announcement of facts that have transpired in connection with the work of the Seminary since the June meeting of the Committee, and in which he will also present to the General Committee certain specific and important topics that seem to demand the early and earnest consideration of the Committee through its various standing committees.

2. That the President may also be granted the privilege of presenting later in the progress of the Committee's session a special statement in reference to certain matters which bear most seriously upon the welfare of the institution.

3. That the Committee will consent to visit the class-room exercises held on Tuesday morning, it being thought that in this way, as perhaps in no other, the members of the Committee may come into close touch with the work of the Seminary.

4. That the Committee will appoint a time for the special consideration of one or all of the following topics:

   a) The general policy and character of the two journals published in connection with the Seminary— the Biblical World and the American Journal of Theology.

   b) The possibilities of work by the Seminary officers in connection with lay students as distinguished from ministerial students.

   c) The desirability and the feasibility of more definite instruction in connection with religious pedagogy and child-study.

   d) The desirability of more effective results in connection with the various forms of religious activity now existing in the student body.
5. That the Committee will accept an invitation to dine in the University Commons Monday evening at 6 o'clock in the general room of Hutchinson Commons; Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the private room of Hutchinson Commons.

6. That the Committee will accept an invitation to take luncheon together at 12:45 at the President's House, Tuesday, December 13, and to meet the students of the Seminary and the Trustees at 5 o'clock, Tuesday, in the parlor of Hitchcock Hall.

7. That the Committee accept an invitation for Tuesday at 12 o'clock to visit the new Law Building of the University.

Press.

These requests will be presented to the Committee with the understanding that the Committee will accept any or all of them according to its pleasure.

There are some of us who feel very strongly that great and good results are to come from these meetings of the Advisory Committee of One Hundred, and on behalf of the Seminary and the University I beg you if possible to be present.

Yours very truly,

William R. Harper
6. The Committee will report on its recommendation to the University Council's Honorary Secretary at its next meeting to be held in the vicinity of the President of the University.

7. The Committee will be authorized to take any action in the interest of the University, and in the event of a vote of the Committee, the decision of the majority shall be binding on the University.

Yours truly,

My dear Sir:

Letters have been received from many of the chairman of the Standing Committee of the Committee of One Hundred asking what is expected of these committees before the December meeting. I am taking the liberty (and I recognize it to be a liberty) of saying to you as the chairman of your committee, that the committee is understood to be a Standing Committee; in other words, a committee to which the General Committee will refer from time to time matters coming within its special province. It is therefore hardly to be expected that any of the committees will be in a position to make reports before the latter part of the meeting which is to be held December 12th and 13th.

I take the liberty of adding still further that in order that the committee may be able to consider profitably and advantageously matters which shall be submitted to it, a considerable amount of study of the special questions involved will be found necessary.

I should like to say on behalf of the Theological Seminary that it will give us great pleasure to place in the hands of

Sir,

I write to acknowledge receipt of the committee's recommendation in the matter of the Standing Committee. I am pleased to note that the committee has made it known that the Standing Committee will meet at a future date to consider the recommendations of the General Committee. It is therefore necessary to make reports before the latter part of the meeting.

I take the liberty of suggesting that the committee may be able to consider preliminary reports and that the committee may also be more readily to discuss and arrive at a satisfactory solution of the subject of the society's charter and by-laws. I will of course be prepared to meet you at any other time if it will be convenient for you.

I should like to say in connection to the Technology Seminar that it will be appropriate to arrange for a joint committee to meet at a future date.

Looking at it from the point of view of the University, I feel that the efficiency of the General Committee will be determined largely by the thoroughness of the work of the special standing committees, and in turn that the efficiency of the work of the Standing Committees will be determined largely by their willingness to make protracted and thorough study of the situation as it stands related to the special work assigned to them in each case.

We the members of the Committee of One Hundred now in session, with one accord assure President Harper of our tender love for him, of the sorrow and loss we feel at his absence from our Councils today, though we know he is with us in spirit, and of our trust that the comfort and succor of our Lord Jesus Christ may suffice him in his illness.

We glory in President Harper's religious faith, in his singularly intrepid devotion to work, and in his heroic fortitude against disease, making his example a priceless inspiration to all men.

We promise the President our prayers without ceasing for his sustenance and triumph. By God's blessing he shall also have our earnest and lasting cooperation in the vast enterprise of Christian Education under consideration by us this day, wherein, by the joyous consent of all, he has won a primacy which time can only rivet and emphasize.

Dec. 5, 1905.
We the members of the Committee of One Hundred now in session, with one consent, renounce President Harper as our teacher. For him of the college and those we feel are the especial aims of our college.
Farewell, friends. We know we with the spirit and our brothers' love the ground and purpose of our Lord Jesus Christ, may willing him to the influence.

We cannot do anything that is not in the service of work and in the noblest educational theories, and the only acceptable and practical principles to us are those constant and faithful cooperation to the best character, consistent, and, if possible, in the best way, with the only right and our existence.

Voted to receive the report and to place it on file.

E. B. Andrews commended the extraordinary character of the work done by the faculty in Semitics. E. B. Meredith, Dr. E. B. Hubert and Dr. E. S. Burton also discussed the report.

The chairman, A. W. Clark, of the Standing Committee on Ecclesiastical Sociology being absent, the secretary read his report.
Rogers Park Baptist Church
Chicago
Ralph W. Hobbs, Pastor
4309 North Ashland Ave.
The report showed that while some progress had been made in a number of theological schools in the matter of the study of ecclesiastical sociology, that our own Divinity school had gone beyond any other Seminary in this direction.

Three recommendations were made by the committee:

1. That every student for the B. B. degree, be given an outlined course in the department of ecclesiastical sociology as required work in the first or second year.

2. That a special course be outlined to treat more extensively than at present, agencies for saving and training boys. One reason for this, is that the church has now about two female members to every male member.

3. In view of the present splendid results in our Divinity school, we recommend that still further enlargement be made as rapidly as possible along lines, which seem practical, to those having the department in charge.

Voted to receive and place report on file. The report was discussed by Dr. C. R. Henderson and E. P. Fuller.

Moved by E. P. Fuller that the Board of Trustees be requested to make a statement of the great work done by the faculties of the Theological Seminary and give the same to the Denominational press. The motion was seconded and unanimously carried.
The report of the Committee on New Testament was read by its chairman, E. P. Fuller.

This report showed much correspondence and investigation. Two points were considered in the report, viz.:

1. The New Testament curriculum in other Baptist Seminaries, as well as those in other denominations, with a view to suggesting any respects in which the curriculum of the New Testament Department in the Divinity School could be improved.

2. The relation between this department and the department of Homiletics, with a view to ascertaining whether the instruction offered in the department contributes directly to the efficiency of the student as a preacher.

In regard to the first subject the catalogues of thirty-three theological institutions were examined, and the following suggestions were made:

1. The question of the grouping of subjects with a view that such courses would serve as introductory to further study or as a general view of the subjects in hand for the general furnishing of the student. Also such a grouping would seem essential to a correct understanding of all the questions involved and inter-related. Examples would be - a course called General Introduction to New Testament Study, Propaedeutics,

It would embrace at least grammar, exegesis, archaeology, New Testament times, textual criticism, canon, historical interpretation. A course on the words of Jesus, including criticism and value of evidence for the same, relation of synoptics and John, relation to message of the evangelists, ethical and theological intent and their religious and expository value. A course on Judaism including the history of inter-biblical times and New Testament times, the theological, social, ethical and political views of Palestine and the contemporary Greek, Roman and Jewish thought.

2. A question as to whether there ought not to be a larger number of distinctively expository courses especially in relation to the grammatico-historical- exegetical mastery of a book or parts of the New Testament. These to be added to the present courses on analysis and reading.

3. While the curriculum of our school is particularly complete in courses which give the contemporary coloring your committee would ask the question whether attention could not be given more fully to contemporary Jewish, Greek and Roman thought with respect to their influence on the ideas and teachings of the New Testament.

4. Some further questions are raised by this investigation. Is elementary Greek offered in the University in connection with the Divinity school? Ought the Tula, Vulgate, Diatessaron, Patton to be read in connection? Ought there to be specificity in inter-biblical and New Testament times, as for example a course on the theology of Judaism from the Exile to Christianity?

In relation to Subject 2 (q.v.), the committee made three suggestions which are briefly:

1. That the people and the helping of the people should be held in mind by the instructors of the students.

2. That greater emphasis should be laid upon the exposition of the Word of God. That in some fashion this shall be brought before the students.

3. That there should be a fundamental unity of aim between heads of departments.

Voted to receive and place the report on file.

Voted to lay report on table until Tuesday afternoon.

Voted to adjourn until 9:30 Tuesday morning.

J. L. Jackson read the report of the Committee on Obituary notices. Within the year Rev. Edwin E. Hewitt, L.D.D., Normal, Ill.; Mrs. Wm. N. Page, Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Mrs. E. L. Vance, Joliet, Ill. had passed away.

Voted to accept the report and to instruct the secretary to send a copy to the families of the deceased.

J. L. Jackson presented the report of the Committee on Ministerial Supply.

(This report considered the following questions:

1. Whether or not there was a real deficiency of ministers?
2. The causes leading to the diminishing number of students preparing for the ministry?
3. Whether students are rendered inefficient by remaining too long in the Divinity school or by engaging...
4. The means by which the lack of educated ministers can be remedied.
5. The obligation in reference to these questions of the Divinity school.

Three suggestions were made:

1. To direct the attention of young men to the unlimited opportunities for usefulness afforded in the Christian ministry.
2. To clear up by discussion and help the mental obstacles which may present themselves to young men considering the Gospel ministry.
3. To labor for a deepening of religious life within the churches.

Voted to accept and place report on file. The discussion was participated in by E. B. Andrews, W. H. Chamberlin, G. Slocum, E. P. Brand, J. A. Leavitt, C. A. Garrison, Dr. Johnson, Dr. Mathews and F. W. Parsons.

The report of the Committee on English Theological Seminaries was presented by the Chairman, E. P. Brand.

(This report indicated much investigation. The following needs were shown:

1. Special training for pastors of smaller churches.
2. The smaller colleges are doing nothing to supply this need. If the Divinity school not more than six men enrolled. We have no school in this country to meet the need.

The committee suggested this plan.

That the Seminary cooperate with the smaller colleges if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

Six more professors to be supported at the University in cooperation with six colleges in six states. Each professor giving three months of instruction in one of each school during a period of two years. The expense to be borne pro rata by each school.

Voted to accept and place report on file.

The report was discussed by Dr. Hulbert, E. B. Meredith, J. L. Jackson, R. M. Vaughan, E. P. Brand.

No formal report was received from the Committee on Homiletics. A letter was read from a member of that committee, J. L. Jackson and Dr. F. L. Johnson, regarding the subject.

C. A. Hobbs reported a message of appreciation from President Harper in response to the work sent him by the Committee.
