The Johns Hopkins University.

The celebration will consist chiefly of two public meetings and a reception. At the first meeting there will be a commemorative address by Daniel Coit Gilman, President Emeritus, and at the second, the inaugural address of President Ira Remsen.

The public meetings will be held in Music Hall at three o'clock P. M., Friday, February the twenty-first, and at eleven o'clock A. M., Saturday, February the twenty-second. The reception will be held in McCoy Hall, at nine o'clock Friday evening (entrance on Druid Hill Avenue, exit on Monument Street).

You are requested to notify the Registrar of the Johns Hopkins University, before February tenth, which of the exercises you wish to attend. Cards of admission will be required for the public meetings. These will be sent to invited guests who make written request for them.

A subscription banquet will be given by the alumni, on Saturday evening, at eight o'clock, in Music Hall.
YOU ARE INVITED TO MEET WITH THE TRUSTEES, FACULTY AND INVITED GUESTS IN THE SMALL ASSEMBLY ROOM OF MUSIC HALL AT QUARTER AFTER TWO O'CLOCK P. M. ON FRIDAY, FEBRUARY THE TWENTY-FIRST, AND AT QUARTER AFTER TEN O'CLOCK A. M. ON SATURDAY, FEBRUARY THE TWENTY-SECOND, TO TAKE PART IN THE PROCESSION. KINDLY STATE IN YOUR REPLY WHETHER THIS INVITATION IS ACCEPTED.
The Johns Hopkins University requests the honor of the presence of President Harper at the Celebration of the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Founding of the University and at the Inauguration of Ira Remsen, LL.D. as President of the University, Friday and Saturday the twenty-first and twenty-second of February, nineteen hundred and two.

An answer is requested.
Jan. 30th, 1902.

Johns Hopkins University,
Baltimore, Md.

Gentlemen:—

It gives me great pleasure to accept the honor of the invitation to be present at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the University, and the inauguration of President Remsen.

Will you be good enough to send me tickets for the exercises which are to be held Friday afternoon, February twenty-first, and Saturday morning February twenty-second, as well as for the reception Friday evening.

Yours very truly,
To the Honorable University
Professor, M.H.

Gentlemen:

It gives me great pleasure to accept the honor of the invitation to be present at the celebration of the Twenty-Fifth anniversary of the founding of the University, under the installation of President Ravenel.

Will you be kind enough to send me tickets for the reception which are at half past eight o'clock, Friday night, twenty-first, and Saturday morning Twenty-fifth February, to attend the reception which will be at the reception Friday

Yours very truly,
Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.

February 1st, 1902.

January 28, 1902.

My dear President Harper:

President Ira Remsen,

In Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland.

I wish to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of January twenty-first, and to express my very great appreciation of the honor which you have in mind to bestow upon me. Personally, I hope nothing may interfere with your plans.

I can say most sincerely that this honor, coming from the Johns Hopkins University, an institution which has stood more than all others have stood for university education in this country, is one which I shall appreciate far beyond any expression which I have the ability to make might indicate. I shall be present and shall enjoy all the festivities of the occasion. I am confident that this will be an occasion on which you, at all events, will be an optimist.

President Harper

I remain, with great pleasure,

Yours most sincerely,
Johns Hopkins University,
Baltimore, Md.

January 28, 1902.

My dear President Harper:

On the twenty-first of February this University is to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its foundation; and on the twenty-second the new President is to be inaugurated. A few honorary degrees are to be conferred. We want to include you among those who receive the degree of Doctor of Laws. Will this be agreeable to you, and can you be present? Personally, I hope nothing may interfere with your coming.

Yours very sincerely,

[Signature]

President.

President Harper.
You are invited to be present at a meeting in commemoration of Daniel Coit Gilman to be held in M.C. Loy Hall, The Johns Hopkins University Sunday afternoon, November the eighth, nineteen hundred and eight, at four o'clock.

Ira Remsen
President
November 3, 1908

My dear President Remsen:

I regret very much that the University cannot be represented next Sunday afternoon on the occasion of the service in commemoration of the late President Gilman. The University of Chicago feels acutely the great work which President Gilman did in the founding of Johns Hopkins University. American universities to-day owe a large part of their advanced ideas and of their achievements in the line of real university work to the foundation and example of Johns Hopkins. President Gilman's memory will be enshrined in the history of American universities for all time.

Very truly yours,

President Ira Remsen,
Johns Hopkins University,
Baltimore, Maryland.
November 5, 1928

Mr. President:

I regret very much that the University

cannot be represented next Sunday afternoon at the dedication of the University in commemoration of the late President Calvin. The University of Chicago feels mentally the great work which President Calvin did in the founding of Johns Hopkins University and this to-day one of its president's offices bears his name and in the face of the University in the person of its president, President Calvin, a name that I have never felt more strongly in the preservation of America's universities for all time.

Very truly yours,

President, Johns Hopkins University

[Handwritten signature]

[Handwritten notes on the bottom of the page]