April 16, 1917.

To Navy League Members:

The President's military policy for the conduct of the war hangs in the balance in Congress.

The size of our army and the method of raising it will be determined by what the people say to Congress now.

The President says that service to the country is a duty and not a whim; his opponents say, "Let George do it."

The principles of compulsory training are as vital to the Navy as to the Army. As Navy Leaguers, let us stand loyally with the President when the country is at war.

May we ask you to --

(1) Write or wire your congressman and senators stating your convictions in this matter.

(2) Ask ten or more friends to communicate with their senators and representatives.

(3) Get your local patriotic and commercial bodies to pass resolutions on this subject, and organize local mass meetings to take action.

(4) Remember that a noisy opposition, a mob of pacifists and probably a hired, hostile lobby are shouting at the ears of Congress, while patriotism, busy in defending the country, is almost silent. Help change this situation.

(5) Let us know what action you take and the results you get.

Very truly yours,

Executive Secretary.

To Navy League Members:

The President's military policy for the conduct of the war plantation in the defense of Congress.

The size of our army and the measure of resistance will be greater.

This year marks the people and the Congress toward the President's desire to continue to the country in a duty and not in a spirit of submission.

The principle of continuous training and an effort to gain the heart of the Army. As Navy Leaguemen, let us stand together with the President when the country is at war.

May we say you do:

1) Write or wire your Congressman and Senora for assistance in the matter.

2) Ask for some friends to communicate with their Senators and Representative.

3) Get your local authorities and communication officers to make a noticeable and effective effort in this matter.

Remember that a single opportunity, a single opportunity, and a single opportunity to turn the country to our side of Congress, will be the root of the country.

Signers: Senate.

In answer to your question of the 16th inst.

I am sorry to say that I have sent a number of letters and faxes to members of Congress and Senators and have gone up to present further I can try to help the matter alone.

Very truly yours,

Dear Member:

You may recall a letter recently sent from this office enclosing a League Post Card, and in which we indicated to you our campaign for new members. Did you receive our letter? If so, may I ask that you cooperate with us by sending out the cards and returning the index card to this office? If you did not receive our letter may we send you a duplicate set of the cards. Several hundred members have already asked for extra sets of the cards ranging from one to one hundred sets. — We are anxious to hear from you.

Very earnestly,

NAVY LEAGUE OF THE UNITED STATES,

Dear Sir:

Your postal note of the 7th inst. is received. I do not recall receiving the League postcard to which you refer. While I am warmly interested in the activities of the Navy League, I cannot undertake to join any campaign soliciting people to become members. This is a general principle which I am obliged to adopt.

Very truly yours,

H.P.J. - L.

Dear Sir:

Your note of the 4th inst. is received.

I go not recently receiving the League Bulletin to which you refer. While I am naturally interested in the activities of the Navy League, I cannot make use of these or similar solicitation appeals to become members.
This is a general principle which I am obliged to uphold.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Henry A. Thompson
Naval League of the United States

President Harry Pratt Judson, University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.

My dear President Judson:

The Navy League of the United States is planning for the coming fall and winter the most vigorous campaign it has ever carried on. In this campaign it is expected that Illinois will have a very large part. The leaders of the League realize that the public, on account of the large naval appropriation bill which has recently been passed, will feel that everything necessary for preparedness has been done, and will lose their interest in this most vital subject. As Secretary of War Garrison truly said, "The weakness of a republic lies in the fact that it is so hard to keep the minds of the people on one subject for any length of time." A few months ago every one was thinking and reading and talking "preparedness." Today we hear less of the subject. And still the battle for sane, intelligent, adequate preparedness has only just begun. The large amount of money appropriated will be of little service unless the rank and file of the citizens demand that this fund shall be scientifically expended, that we shall have a far-seeing, scientific defense policy, and that our navy shall be under the control of a trained general staff.

The Navy League of the United States did much in making possible the appropriation bill. It can do much more in making a reality the necessary policies just mentioned. We are earnestly appealing to our state committeemen to make the feeling for preparedness a permanent one by organizing their different communities. We must have thousands of new members whose interest is kept alive by the monthly visit of "Sea Power." We must arrange meetings. We must have wide circulation for our propaganda.

We ask you at this time to do two specific things: First - to show "Sea Power" to as many of your friends as possible and secure their membership in the Navy League. Second - to arrange for a Navy League meeting at one of the clubs of your city. We can furnish a speaker either for a noon meeting of a club or for a popular evening meeting. In the latter meeting the
The national defense of the United States is the business of every American. This is not a task which falls only within the responsibilities of our government. It is the duty and responsibility of every individual to contribute to the national defense in any way possible.

My dear President, you have the power and responsibility to mobilize the nation in the fight against enemy aggression. The time is now for us to act. The United States must stand united against the forces of evil.

The nation's military needs are urgent, and we must prepare ourselves accordingly. The United States must be ready to meet any challenge that may arise. The success of our efforts will depend on the support and cooperation of all citizens.

We must be vigilant in our defense of this great nation. We must be prepared to meet any threat that may come our way. The National League of the United States is committed to working towards this goal.

Yours sincerely,
