Dear Sirs:

Referring to your recent letter regarding the publication concerning Dr. H. B. Richards, we ask your attention to the enclosed letter to Dr. W. W. Daniel, president of Columbia College, and his reply. You will observe that the error was not "merely" an error on the part of a reporter. It seems that reporters are sometimes more careful than college presidents, as Dr. Daniel gave us this information as it was published.

The error was mine. I was under the impression that Prof. Richards was connected with University of Chicago. Don't know how I got the impression, unless it was from the fact that he was called 'Professor' and was from 'Chicago'. He makes a very creditable talk, any way. I did not mean to utter to you unkindness about Prof. Richards on the Chicago account. I don't know yet where he hails from.

My dear Miss Hindoe:

Your favor of the 29th inst. with clipping enclosed is at hand. I beg to say in reply 1) the newspaper statement to which you refer has no foundation in fact; 2) the "recent disclosures" as to the vivisection methods of Dr. Carlson are unqualified fabrications. I may add that it is my experience that such sensational newspaper statements should always be investigated before being believed.

U. OF C. PLANS TO IMPORT MONKEYS FOR EXPERIMENTS.

Professors in Physiology Department Will Use Simians in Place of Dogs in Their Work.

University of Chicago professors are going to study monkeys.

As soon as possible a large number of representative simians will be imported from Africa and shipped to the physiology building of the university, where quarters have been prepared for them. It is said that as many as 100 will be brought from the groves of the central parts of the dark continent.

Members of the faculty of the medical department of the university are interested keenly in the study of the development of the animals. It is the plan of the members of the physiology department to experiment upon them, using them to a certain extent in place of dogs, the animals now most used in research experiments.

Members of the physiology department are said to have been considering for some time the advisability of importing monkeys, but were able to come to no satisfactory decision regarding the enterprise until the results of the venture at Johns Hopkins proved successful. Johns Hopkins is said to be the only university in the world where monkeys are now used for experimental purposes.

A year ago members of the physiology department secured a monkey for experimental purposes. He was nourished and prepared for the first experiment, but on the way to the operating table the monkey became frightened, and before they could begin the tests the animal became afflicted with heart disease and died.

It is stated officially that the monkeys will not be used for experimenting purposes in the classroom or in the laboratory. They will be used only in research work.

Dear Sir:

I enclose herewith an article taken from the Chicago Daily Journal of the 2nd inst., relating to practices in the physiological department of your University. I am very much interested in this subject, and desire to know the facts of this case before commenting upon it publicly.

Will you do me the favor of informing me whether the statements contained in this article are true, and if not, in what respect they are faulty; also to what extent anaesthetics are used in experiments of this nature, and whether the University authorities exercise any supervision or restraint over the demonstrators in physiology?

Yours very truly,

Dear Sirs:

I am writing to express my surprise and concern over the recent events that have taken place at the university. I have been a member of the faculty for many years and have always prided myself on the high standards and ethical conduct that we hold ourselves to.

I was shocked to hear of the allegations of misconduct and unethical behavior that have been brought to light. As a member of the faculty, I believe it is imperative that we maintain the highest level of integrity and professionalism in all our dealings.

I understand that an investigation is currently underway and I urge all parties involved to cooperate fully and transparently. It is crucial that we ensure a fair and just process that upholds the values upon which our institution is founded.

I am also concerned about the impact this situation may have on our students and staff. It is important that we support each other during these difficult times and work together to restore confidence in our university.

I look forward to hearing the results of the investigation and remain committed to doing my part in ensuring that we uphold the highest standards of conduct at our university.

Sincerely,

Students Charge Cruelty to the Professor Who Operates in Vivisection Classes Without Use of Anaesthetics

COEDS WATCH AND SHudder

Dog's Brain Is Bare d and Probed; Scalds Animal's Feet to Watch Effect on Nervous System

Charges that unnecessary cruelty is shown in vivisection experiments conducted by Assistant Professor A. J. Carlson of the physiology department of the University of Chicago are made by students who attend his classes. Three young women are among those who have complained.

The instructor is accused of failing to use anaesthetics when the lack of these causes the subjects of experiment torture, which could be avoided at the cost of the few minutes of reaction time needed to apply the drugs. He is not credited with intentional cruelty, but accused of thoughtlessness. The young women of his classes are the loudest in complaints.

Cuts Spine with Chisel

An unusually painful operation was described by a medical student as having been performed on a cat. Dr. Carlson cut his spinal reflexes as nerves, severed the spinal cord at the neck, using a bone chisel for the operation. According to a member of the class no anaesthetics were used.

The spinal cord having been severed the cat was left to suffer throughout the hour of the reaction. In order that Dr. Carlson might demonstrate whether reflex action of the nerves can be obtained while the spinal cord is severed. While the animal lay in pain Dr. Carlson continued his lecture, though there was little attention from the medical students.

Co-Eds Watch Suffering Cat

The three young women pupils were compelled to watch the operation on the cat, in order that they might not miss any of the technical points of the effect on the cat's nervous system, as the knowledge is required for a degree. Throughout the hour the women sat abhorring. Concerning the experiment, a medical student said: "I am not opposed to vivisected work when done with the use of anesthesia. There is no use making the operation brutal, however. A few minutes' work with ether would have removed the cat from pain. They have been overeager. I do not believe that Dr. Carlson has intentionally brutalized; it is simply his enthusiasm for his subject that carries him away. He is one of the greatest physiologists in the country and his whole life seems to be wrapped up in his work."

Scalds Subject's Feet

On another occasion Dr. Carlson scalded the feet of a cat to see what effect the scalds would have on the nerves of the animal. All the pupils were studied and found with a dog, in which the skull of the canis was removed, in the use of a bone chisel. The brain being laid bare, the professor probed the brain to see the effects of stimuli on the nervous system.

Medical students declare the experiments named are a few examples only of the work being done in the laboratories. Other operations equally as brutal are carried on daily by other members of the physiology department.

Carlson A Rising Genius

Dr. Carlson has been connected with the university for two years during which time he has won a place among the foremost physiologists of the world, rising from the position of instructor to that of assistant professor. Last year he was offered the position of head of the physiology department of the University of Wisconsin and was retained at the University of Chicago with difficulty.
City with Ax Clears Walks — Obstructions in Wholesale District Are Battered Down or Ripped Up Till Mayor Halts Crusade

An arm of wreckers, wielding axes, pikes and torches, and under the guise of a detail of city policemen, made the first attack in the city's vandal crusade early today when they swept down on the wholesale district. Great excitement was caused by the smashing and ripping of the timbers in the bulkheads as they were wrenched off the sidewalks, piled into wagons, and impounded by the city officials in charge.

Inanimate authoritatives, who poured from Illinois Central tracks at Randolph street at the time the wrecking gang began riving out the split supports belonging to Syrags, Warner & Co., congregated by the hordes of wreckers, was only quelled by the police corner agitator of Syrags, Warner & Co. rushed from the building when the crashing and banging of timbers, the shouts of the onlookers, and the boisterous orders from the foremen of the wreckers were heard, and scores of them attempted to interfere with the city's crusade by forcibly pushing the workmen from their tasks. The police were again called into action and kept the clerks and employees back in the building.

Begin Work Early

The wreckers began their work just before 6 o'clock. The suburban trains were discharging their heaviest loads at the time, at the Randolph street Illinois Central station. The sight that greeted the early morning workers, as they came down the sidewalk, caused them to hurry to the scene of an apparent conflict. Within fifteen minutes of the time of the attack the bulkheads had been removed from the Syrags, Warner & Co. street; and the wrecking gang had moved to the northwest.

Just as the excitement was at its height and the Syrags bulkheads were being hauled away, the chief of police appeared on the scene; while others began the attack at the Hoy building, a message dashed up to the superintendent of the work, who hurriedly changed the written words, raised his hand, and dropped them as he shouted, "Halt! It was an order from Mayor Dunne staying the work until the owners could have a hearing before the commissioner of public works.

The action of the city followed the city council order of late last fall giving formal notice to the owners of bulkheads on Michigan avenue sidewalks, between Jackson and Congress and the river, to have them removed.

The first place attacked has been considered the worst offender of the district, and none of the owners of these bulkheads has been reported as having torn away the split supports.

Supt. Michael English, acting upon the orders of Mayor Daly of the city streets, who received his instructions from the commissioner of the bureau of public works, had charge of the work. He was assisted by a large force of guards from the city hall with swag of the laborers.

The laborers were armed with crowbars, pikes and axes, mainwheels, chainhammers and pike poles. They formed an imposing looking marching party, and they marched with military precision to the spot where work began.

Although not a graduate of the University of Chicago, I feel a deep interest in the matter as a college man who has long been familiar with the fine influence exercised by Mr. Stagg upon the hundreds of young men with whom he has come in contact here. In my opinion his influence for the spontaneous characters of the many young men with whom he is associated in his present position is so marked and decisive that it would be a serious departure to the University if he were allowed to leave it. Fancy, however, that it is merely the usual newspaper rumor and newspaper rumors are not an adequate basis for an impertinent rumor. I am,

CITIZENS ASSOCIATION

OCTOBER

Dear Mr. Hart, President, University of Chicago,

Having much information to the members of the Chicago Association for the University Calendar, I feel compelled to write you regarding my concern about the efficiency and effectiveness of the organization. I have been involved in the development of the university calendar and feel that there is a gap in the current schedule that needs to be addressed.

I am writing to express my interest in the matter. Additionally, I urge you to consider the importance of the organization's role in the community. I believe that the university calendar plays a crucial role in the community's well-being.

I am familiar with the current schedule and feel that it is not in the best interest of the community. I believe that the schedule should be reviewed and revised to better serve the needs of the community.

If you agree with my perspective, I would be happy to discuss the matter further. I look forward to hearing your thoughts on this important issue.

Dear Mr. H. L. Meier,

Mr. van Stralen

I am writing to inform you of an error in my previous letter. In my letter dated July 12, 1939, regarding the recent decision of the University of Chicago Press to publish the five lectures I gave, I inadvertently misstated the dates. The lectures were actually presented on May 10, 1939, and were originally published in the University of Chicago Press' series of lectures. I apologize for the confusion and any misunderstanding it may have caused. I assure you that the press will take the necessary steps to correct this error.

I would be most grateful if you could let me know when you expect to receive the corrected version of the lecture notes. I understand your concern about the long等待 for word, and I assure you that I will make every effort to resolve this issue as quickly as possible.

Thank you very much.

Res, J. P. Wells
Burley, Idaho
CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—That women of fast habits make “commonly good wives”; that most American women are merely “house cats” leading abnormal lives, reduced to a condition of parasitism, and that they have been driven to “trickery and hypocrisy”; are some of the startling statements made by Professor Wm. I. Thomas of Chicago University, socialist, which appear in an article on “The adventitious character of women.” The article is in the American Journal of Sociology, issued today from the university press.

Prof. Thomas makes a vicious attack upon the social system of America, defends institutions not recognized by the moral code, and gives a psychological defense of the “social evil.”

The startling declaration of the professor has caused a sensation second to none that have been aired of late at the university. The writer declares that marriage conditions are degenerating because of the absolute economic dependence of woman upon man.

Sir:

In a recent paper published at my home, White Hall, Ill., appeared an article which was decidedly uncomplimentary to my Alma Mater, the University of Chicago. Loyal son that I am of the U. of C. I do not propose to let the statement contained in this paper go unchallenged, so am writing to you for some data concerning the University. One of the quarters preceding my graduation in September 1903, President Harper delivered a lecture to the graduates-elect telling considerable of the business management and affairs of the University. It is some of these facts that I want.

1. What is the total endowment of the University?
2. Of this amount how much has been given by John D. Rockefeller?
3. From what sources did the remainder come?
4. How many buildings are on the campus now?
5. Of these how many were erected by Mr. Rockefeller.
6. How much did the buildings cost that have been erected by Mr. Rockefeller?
7. How much did the other buildings cost?
8. How best can charges be answered which say that every

Dear Mr. Hutchinson:

The inquiry you made as to Emma Goldman I have followed up. Of course, she is not going to speak at the University of Chicago. My Secretary tells me that there was some headline in the Journal relating to her in connection with the University. We never pay any attention to anything we see in the Chicago Journal. So far as this particular thing is concerned, there is nothing in it.

I have followed up. Of course, she is not going to nothing in it.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 4th inst. is received.

The newspaper item which you read about the Albany collection is about as accurate as such items are apt to be. The collection of material purchased at Albany did not cost anything like the sum named. Moreover, it is extremely valuable for the immediate uses of the Department of Geology. However, that is a minor point.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of the 4th inst. is received.

The newspaper item which you enclosed the A.T.P.
collection is apt to be repeated asこそも、as such names are apt to be. The collection of material furnished at Aiken did not cost eighteen like the sum named.
Moreover, it is extremely applicable for the same instance as the Department of Geology. However, that is a minor point.

My dear sir:

Your note of the 1st instant has just been received; it suggests to me the idea that I should tell you why I opened this correspondence recently with you over my life studies of the fur seal kind of Alaska.

Last summer, a local paper carried a despatch which announced the purchase of the Albany collection of fossils made by James Hall, for the University of Chicago; Mr. Rockefeller paid more than $100,000 for it, etc.

That caused me to think of offering my collection, as I have, but then, Dr. Harper's successor had not been named, and no one seemed to know who he would be: therefore, I let my desire in the matter rest until your selection was announced.

I am sure — very sure that if you see my water color life studies of this men mighty hand on the Triebel Is. lands, you will not give the Hall palaeontological collection a higher credit worth.

Very sincerely yours,

Henry H. Elliott.

My dear President Judson:

The Tribune of May 17 contained what purported to be an announcement of the Academy minstrel show and the Tribune and Record Herald of May 18 contained what purported to be a statement of the occurrences at the show. There was no foundation, in fact, for any statement in any one of these reports. The song said to have been sung about Mr. Rockefeller was not sung; the joke quoted as having been given was not given; and no one of the epithets said to have been applied to Mr. Rockefeller was so applied. In fact, there was nothing whatever connected with the evening's entertainment that was discreditable. One of the hardest things I have had to contend with is the evident feeling of the public that resentment over the closing of the Academy should cause our students to commit acts of excessive disorder. In view of the announcement of the Tribune the day before the minstrel show, it seems to me remarkable that the boys did not do something which we should regret. The fact is that the conduct of the boys this Spring has been better than usual. This is remarkable considering the unusual conditions under which the year is closing. We shall endeavor to secure this good conduct until the very close of the school.

Yours very truly,

Franklin W. Johnson,
Dear President James, President of The University of Chicago

I am writing to convey my disappointment with the recent action taken by the Board of Trustees in regard to the proposed budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1948. As a member of the faculty, I have watched with concern the financial problems facing the University, and I believe that the budget proposed by the Board is not adequate to meet the needs of the institution.

The budget as presented does not seem to provide sufficient funds for the maintenance and operation of the University. I understand that the Board has been advised by the financial experts, but I believe that the Board has not adequately considered the long-term implications of its actions.

I urge you to reconsider the proposed budget and to take steps to ensure that the financial health of the University is protected. I am convinced that the University can continue to provide a quality education to its students, but only if the necessary resources are available.

Sincerely yours,

My dear President Jordan:

Your favor of the 1st inst. is received. I am not at all surprised at what you say about the report of your address. It is after the manner of modern journalism. Several papers called me up on the telephone asking me to express an opinion on the subject, but I inevitably declined. It is one of my rules never to express an opinion on things which people are alleged to have said.

My dear Dr. Judd;

I have just seen the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Sciences, and I have read with interest and pleasure the article you have written on football at the University of Chicago. Your account of the history of football at the University of Chicago is a fine piece of scholarship, and I am sure that your work will be of great interest to students of the history of the game.

I have been a student and an enthusiast of football for many years, and I have been impressed by the way in which the game has evolved over the years. I believe that football is a game that can bring people together and help to build communities, and I am pleased to see that the University of Chicago has played a significant role in the development of football.

I look forward to reading more of your work on the history of the game, and I wish you all the best in your future endeavors.

With best wishes for a happy New Year!

Very cordially yours,

David S. Jordan.

To the President and Faculty of University of Chicago:

ESTEEMED FRIEND:

For eighteen years we have been writing to editors throughout the United States asking them to eliminate the sensational and harmful from their columns, by so doing giving a higher tone to the papers of our Country. It is conceded by the thinking men and women of the age that there is no power equal to the press for influencing public thought. As people grow to realize this fact every individual should endeavor to direct this power towards high and noble purposes. The pen is limitless in the great moral and effective influence it exerts and through it the press becomes a force which rules the minds and hearts of thousands of our young citizens. This being true it is imperative that the press discard all which is not conducive to brain and character building. Being convinced that editors have to cater to public sentiment in order to earn a livelihood through their papers, we desire that the people be taught their responsibility, and we are now appealing to you who have the care of the young, advising that you teach those over whose lives you have assumed guardianship to shun papers that are sent out with immoral items and improper advertisements.

Feeling assured of your cooperation we enclose our report of our work of last year with the request that we may hear from you.
