The corner stone of Ida Noyes Hall will be laid early in February. Mr. Heckman will see that the box is delivered to you, so that Mr. Dickerson may insert the documents decided upon.

After you have sealed the box, will you deliver it to the proper authority at the building in time for the exercises on the day to be set?

Dear Mr. Dickerson:

The corner stone of Ida Noyes Hall will be laid early in February. Will you make up a list of documents, such as ought to be filed in the box? I have asked Mr. Heckman to discover the size of the receptacle.

I have also instructed the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds to secure the box so that you may put the objects in, and then seal the box and deliver it to the proper authority at the building on the day of the exercises.

Will you be good enough to inform the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, Mr. J. Spencer Dickerson, of the size of the box to be placed in the corner stone of Ida Noyes Hall? Mr. Dickerson will then make up a list of the items which should be placed within the stone.

The box may be delivered to the Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, who will see that Mr. Dickerson fills the box and who will, after sealing the receptacle, deliver it to the proper authority at the building.

Mr. Lyman R. Flook:
Superintendent

My dear Mr. Flook:

I think that your suggestion about the care of the silver trowel which has been kept here in Ida Noyes Hall is excellent. The plan of having to call for it here every time it is needed makes for confusion and it should be in the office of the Secretary of the Board of Trustees where it can be secured easily.

In the first years the trowel, as well as the pen, used by Mr. Noyes, a gold pen mounted on a standard with a brass plate stating that it was the pen with which Mr. Noyes gave Ida Noyes, has been in a conspicuous place in the small cabinet in the library here. It was never "lost sight of" by those of us who were here at the time of the opening of Ida Noyes Hall, we were asked to keep it in a place where the women could see it.

Thank you for giving this matter your personal attention.

Miss M. Ethel Freeman,

My dear Miss Freeman:

Your letter of August twenty-eighth has been received. I am sorry that I am compelled to write to you that it has been decided not to arrange for women in the proposed club house. It is believed that, on the whole, better results will be gained by having a separate club house for women, which, perhaps, shall be connected with a gymnasium. How long, of course, we must wait until such a club house can be built, will be determined by the generosity of our friends. But meanwhile, it seems best not to make arrangements for the Y. W. C. A. in the club house.

If the Y. M. C. A. has quarters in the club house, it is possible that its present rooms could be occupied by the women. But as yet nothing definite has been arranged, and the whole question is open.

Very truly yours,

W. R. Harper

Dear Miss Freeman,

I am pleased to hear from you. I was sorry that I am somewhat late in writing to you, but I have been very busy with other matters.

You say that you are interested in the women in the hospital and you would like to work with them. I have heard that there is a separate group for women, who are connected with a women's association.

I think it would be better if you could get in touch with the women's association and see if they are interested in working with the women in the hospital.

I am not sure if I can be of much help, but I will do my best to assist you.

The hospital is quite large, and the women's association is quite active.

I hope you will be successful in your endeavor.

My dear Dr. Harper,-

I have just received a letter from Miss Florence Parker, President of the Young Women's Christian Association of the University, saying that she has named me to you as the representative of our Association, in a conference that is to be held to with you about the matter in my stead, knowing her wisdom and wide experience in Association work and her specially deep interest in the Association of the University. But I do not know certainly that she is in Chicago at present; and in case she should be unable to see you, I will try to give you my idea of what the Association is very desirous of having as its own in the new building.

We need in connection with the Young Men’s Christian Association an assembly hall large enough to hold at least three hundred people, which could also be used for receptions; connected with this large room two smaller rooms for the Young Women’s Consider the needs of the two Associations in the way of rooms in the new Club House at the University. Miss Parker thought that I was still in Chicago and so could easily consult with you. your interest in the Association and know that you will aid us in every way you can.
I feel very strongly and am sure that you agree with me, that there is great need in our University of an Association which is strong and effective and a power in the University life. One of our greatest drawbacks and hindrances in the work has been not merely the lack of an Association building, but the lack of rooms in any way adequate or even suitable for our needs; in this our University is not only far behind the large universities and colleges of the east and west, but behind many institutions much smaller than the University of Chicago.
as it is so obvious a need. These rooms should all be connected, so that the smaller ones could be used as dressing rooms when a reception was being held in the assembly hall.

I hope that you will be able to consult with Mrs. Kresser as she knows as much more than I do about matters of this kind.

But I feel assured
The Ida Noyes Hall was erected from a gift by Mr. La Verne Noyes, of Chicago, as a memorial to his wife, Mrs. Ida S. Noyes. The gift which was announced at the June Convocation of 1913, was $300,000. It was first contemplated to erect the building on the southwest corner of Woodlawn Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street. Subsequent studies of the situation made it clear that the Midway site where the completed building now stands was in every way preferable, and in order to meet the many needs of the University women the original plan was greatly expanded and improved. The result was that the building itself in the end cost $490,000, including the landscape gardening which will add so much to the beauty of the entire block. Mr. Noyes was in no way whatever under obligation to provide the additional funds. Nevertheless, heartily approving the change in site and the change in plans, and desiring that the building should be in every respect his own gift to the University for the memorial purposes above noted, Mr. Noyes on his own initiative has now given the University the additional sum of $190,000. His complete gift, therefore, little less than half a million dollars, represents the largest single gift for a complete building which the University has ever received from any one donor. It represents a building than which in many ways none in the quadrangles is more beautiful or better adapted to its purpose, a building which will stand "for decades and for centuries" for the continued use of succeeding generations of University women, as a perpetual memorial of the name of Ida Noyes, and of the generosity and loyal devotion of the donor.
The工作效率 was expected from a Gift of PL

Houses of Office, as a memorial to the late Mr. E. H. House.

The Gift, which was announced at the June Convention of 1918, was $200,000. It was noted的重要性 to meet the publishing needs of the Southwest corner of Woodrow Avenue and Fifty-Eighth Street. Expansion 及 the attention made it clear that the Metropolitan wing of the completed building now remains open in every way practical and in order to meet the many needs of the University women the original plan was greatly expanded and important. The reason was that the publishing aspect in the new cost $50,000, including the Landmarks Committee which will add so much to the beauty of the entire plan. The Houses on the main memorial banquet scope noted. The Houses on the main initiative were now given the University the appropriation and at $20,000.

The complete Gift therefore, little less than half a million dollars, represents the largest single Gift for a complete building among the Universities and even receiving from any one

University, a building which the Unversity never would have raised without the added "for general and for the continuing use of accessible accommodation of University women, as a beneficial memorial at the name of the Houses, and at the Exemplar and Joint Generation of the House."

Attention has been called in previous Reports to the fact that while the University is carrying on research in many departments, and while there is in certain ways a large amount of publication, nevertheless there is no endowment devoted specifically to these matters. It would be extremely helpful if there could be specific gifts to the endowment funds of the University, the income of which could be used only in these particular lines. Otherwise pressing necessities of instruction or of other things tend of necessity to divert from research funds which are greatly needed. It is certainly much to be hoped that the University may obtain gifts in the shape of endowments for research and for the publication of the results of research.
Attention has been called to the need for meetings to discuss the factors that make the university a unique institution in many departments and where there is a concern over the scale of appropriation, never more so in an environment of specifically to these matters.

It may be extremely pertinent in these cases to be specific in the scale of the impacts of the university, where it is possible to meet only time of the university, the income of which can be made only in these particular times.

Otherwise, there is a necessity to instruct or direct as many to necessary to grant from research funds which are already

It is certainly must to do so that the university may accept all in the scope of achievements of research and for the propagation of the needs of research.

The development of the University has come to the point at which further buildings are definitely needed. One hesitates to give expression to this need because each new building brings an added cost chargeable to the endowment funds. It is therefore highly desirable from the point of view of the University that the donor of the building should accompany his gift by an additional sum for permanent endowment, the income of which can be devoted to the upkeep of the building. The buildings most needed are:

1. That for the modern languages. This building will lie in the Harper Memorial Library group, between the Harper Library and the Classics Building.

2. The building for the social sciences, history, political economy, political science, and sociology. This building will lie in the group immediately east of the Harper Memorial Library.

3. A recitation building for the University High School.

4. A gymnasium for the University High School.

5. An administration building. The administration offices are scattered now in different buildings, none of which are especially adapted to the purposes in question. A single commodious building would be a very great relief to the administration of the University, and at the same time would release space in other buildings which is greatly needed for other purposes.
The development of the University has come to the point of which further policies are essential, and one feature to give expression to this need becomes each year potentially prime in making cost-effective to the enlargement of the University. It is clear that high productivity from the point of view of the University that the scope of the printing press eco-mancy prides itself on its efficiency, and for the moment, the income of which can be generated to the upkeep of the printing press. The printing press needs new instruments. The modern instrument. The printing will lie in the manner economical press, between the number Libraries and the classical printing.

2. The printing for the social sciences.

The political economy, political science, and sociology.

The printing will lie in the press immediately east of the Market Memorial Library.

8. A center for education for the University High School.

A resource center for the University High School.

8. An administration press.

The administration places are scattered now in different presses, none of which is especially suitable to the purposes of education. A single commonplace printing would be a very great benefit to the administration of the University, and at the same time would serve as a source in other publications with it especially needing for open harbors.
Another need is for what are usually called dormitories. The University now houses not more than about ten per cent of its students. It is becoming each year increasingly difficult to secure suitable accommodations for those who live outside of the quadrangles. It is therefore highly desirable that a beginning should be made in the erection of residences for students. Of course these bring back a certain amount of income, unlike the laboratories and recitation buildings. It is the intent of the Board of Trustees that the square of land between Ellis and Ingleside, and fronting on Fifty-ninth Street, should be devoted to a quadrangle and dormitories for men, while the north half of the block on which Ida Noyes Hall is situated will be devoted to dormitories for women. Gifts for these purposes would be extremely welcome.
Another need is for work on the newly called committee.

At the University you may not have more than some part of the University work, but it is becoming even more important that the student. It is therefore highly desirable that a special committee on the curriculum be made to the action of the students for which purpose print may be printed on it. A similar committee might be formed on the curriculum and selection procedure.

In the interest of the Board of Trustees that the course of study between English and Mathematics may continue as High-Middle Street, while sports be devoted to a gymnastics and gymnastics for men, while the sports hall of the floor on which the Home Hall is situated will be devoted to gymnastics for women. Girls for these

"Alma Mater"

The City White hath fled the earth,
But where the azure waters lie,
A nobler city hath its birth,
The City Gray that ne'er shall die.
For decades and for centuries,
Its battlemented tow'r shall rise,
Beneath the hope-filled western skies,
"Tis our dear Alma Mater.

THE MASQUE

Ida Noyes Hall was dedicated on the fifth of June, nineteen hundred sixteen. On this occasion the women of the University of Chicago under the direction of Lucine French presented at half-past five in the Women's Quadrangle a masque of which this was the allegory:

In comes Youth, joyous in unawakened power. To her the past is but a voice long stilled, the present her possession, and the future a place whither her dreams may fly. Guided by her angels she comes to Alma Mater seated on her Gothic throne, surrounded by the perfection of nature—the Lake, the pageant of the Sky with the health-giving Sun, the pale beauty of the Moon, the Clouds and the reviving Rain—the low-lying Fields with their wholesome workers. Youth throws herself at Alma Mater's feet, eager for a test of her young strength. And so Alma Mater summons her ideals, as a challenge to Youth's spirit. In answer come, in their turn, the Olympic Games, for the perfection of her body's growth, and that she may learn to take victory simply and defeat with courage; the Romance of Literature, that her imagination may be stirred and her dreams take form; the Spirit of Worship, that this earth-loving child may lift her eyes to the enduring sky. Then Knowledge places her lamp in Youth's hands. And now indeed is Youth rich with gifts. Then comes the City seeking aid from Alma Mater, and the wise mother, knowing that her child must spend her strength for others before it shall be truly hers, bestows on Youth the Gift of Service.

There once lived in Persia a young king who, dwelling in power and splendor, should have been the happiest of men. He was deeply beloved by his people, whom he served loyally and well, but among whom he walked apart, held remote by the unconscious sorrowing of his heart for a woman's love. On a festal occasion his people try to bring to him, sad in the midst of the flashing gaiety of his court, the joy that his youth and state should know. His boy pages and his gallant swordsmen dance for him, hoping by their vigor and warlike prowess to move him to delight. At last the beauteous slave-maidens of the court are brought before him. Careless, he chooses one to dance. It so happens, as in tales it may, that the one he chooses is a princess whose kingdom has been conquered by the young king. Since the first day of her coming to his court her tender heart has loved him. So when she is chosen to dance for him, all the innocent love that she has kept silent within her leaps out and awakens the wondering love of the young king, and it is like the awakening of spring in the dark forest. But alas! he is summoned to war, and the princess bids him go, sinking sadly among her maidens. While the maidens are mourning his departure, a messenger brings tidings that the king is slain. But, as in tales it may happen, the tidings are false, and swift on the heels of them the young king, glad with victory, rushes to his love. He finds her desolate, mourning for his death. With deep tenderness he lifts her, and when she sees that it is her beloved her happiness is indeed great. He takes her to the palace, where their marriage is solemnized with great pomp and ceremony and where they live happy ever after.

THE PAINTINGS

THE EAST WALL

Above the proscenium is the Coat of Arms of the University of Chicago with palm leaves and branches of laurel.

To the left are symbols of some of the studies pursued in the University: Archaeology (a Pompeian lamp, an Egyptian papyrus, and an Ionic capital), Drama (tragic and comic masks), Chemistry (a retort and balance), Art (three white shields in a blue field), Medicine (the staff of Eschylus, herbs, and a medicine jar), Literature (two books and a lighted lamp), Pharmacology (a mortar and a pestle).

To the right are other symbols of the curricula: Mathematics (a compass, a triangle, and a ruler), Geography (a globe, a map, and a ruler), Architecture (five Ionic columns, a blueprint, and a compass), Economics, Commerce, and Industry (a beehive), Poetry (Pegasus), Household Arts (a hearth and a spinning wheel), Law (an open book and the scales of Justice). On this side too are three heralds summoning the masquers.

THE SOUTH WALL

Against a background of trees and of the buildings of the University and above a foreground of mille fleurs, which like the drawing and color of the figures adds to the impression that the artist has transformed the masque as an Elizabethan would have changed it for its Tudor setting, are the characters of the masque: The Spirit of Gothic Architecture, the tall figure of a gray-bearded man in a gray robe. A maroon-garbed page bearing the Coat of Arms of Alma Mater. Alma Mater in white garments, against the Law Building, which was the background of the acted masque. Against the background of Ida Noyes Hall the figure of Youth with a crown of spring flowers. The little blue waves and the Lake, in a shimmery dress of blue that merges upward into green and then into a white crest, pass beneath Ida Noyes Hall and the Mitchell Tower. A mist-veiled figure carrying an orb is the Moon. Then, before the Harper Memorial Library, is the golden Sun Chariot. Bringing the fruits of the earth are the Treaders of grapes and the Harvesters. The Contestants of the Olympic Games are next—lithe athletes bearing Greek bowls and laurel crowns, who pass, with their two judges, beneath the towers of Bartlett Gymnasium. The Dancers of the Persian Romance appear by tall cypress and the windows of Leon Mandel Assembly Hall: pages, the Prince, the enslaved Princess, swordsmen, and a falconer. Then, with the sacred book comes the blue-robed Spirit of Worship, and Knowledge with her lighted lamp. Behind two helmeted pages the City follows with her gray-coated pages waving the blue banner of the Lake. The final section on this wall represents the Endless Cycle of Youth.

THE WEST WALL

Above the main doorway are decorative figures supporting a golden scroll with these words: "In the Year of Our Lord 1916 was done the Masque of Youth in dedication of Ida Noyes Hall."

THE NORTH WALL

The panels between the doors of the north wall illustrate episodes in the masque. As the architectural motif was used on the south wall, the waters of Lake Michigan are used on the north wall. From left to right these are the subjects: A decorative panel of trees and shrubbery; the Appeal of Youth to Alma Mater; the Olympic Games; the Harvester and Workers in the ripened Fields; on Youth at the behest of the City Alma Mater bestows the Gift of Service; Alma Mater and the Cycle of Youth.

THE PAINTER

Mrs. Jessie Arms Botke is a native of Chicago, a graduate of the Chicago Public Schools, who studied mainly at the Art Institute of Chicago. She worked also with John Johansen, Charles Woodbury, and for four years with Albert Herter. She has traveled in England, France, and Spain. Her husband, Mr. Cornelius Botke, who assisted her in the work, was born in Holland and received most of his training in Haarlem. Their studio is at 1542 East Fifty-seventh Street in the South Side Art Colony.
Preliminary suggestions from Miss Talbot for the social arrangements in IDA NOYES HALL:

The end in view is to have every woman connected with the University share in the social life in such a way as to give expression to her individual qualities, to serve as hostess not only to other women but to men, and to give her training in forms of social expression which will make her academic training more effective as she minglest among people.

The building as a whole should be so planned as to include a court of about half the size of Harper Court, to be used for outdoor social gatherings, physical culture exercise, and games.

The first floor of the social section should contain:

A lunchroom occupying between 4,000 and 5,000 square feet;

Two private diningrooms for fifteen to twenty people;

Serving-room and kitchen, unless the latter, with storerooms, etc., may be placed in the basement.

The first floor should also have a reception-room and office, and cloak-rooms for women and for men, unless the latter also may be provided in a better way in the basement.

The second floor should have:

Two rooms, approximately 20 x 40 in size, connecting with each other; one furnished as a reading or browsing room, and the other as a social room, in which the walls and floors shall be sufficiently deadened so that a piano can be used.

A business office, in which different organizations might have desk room. This room should be about 25 x 25 in area.

A suite of at least two rooms, one 20 x 20, and the other a private office 6 x 10 for the Young Women's Christian League.

Two committee rooms en suite, each about 10 x 10.

Three or four rooms approximately 20 x 20 for the graduate women, alumnae, faculty women and faculty wives, and possibly for such organizations as the Glee Club and Dramatic Club or literary societies which might have property such as instruments, books, music, etc., to be kept within their control.

A domestic room about 12 x 12 in which would be furnished at least one sewing-machine, and facilities for repairing clothing.

One or two kitchenettes in close connection with the rooms en suite, with facilities for members of the organizations to serve tea and light refreshments without the necessity of calling in outside caterers.

On the third floor, a hall adequate in size to seat three or four hundred people, with stage and dressing-rooms, a good dancing floor, and possibly a balcony; this hall to be used for concerts, lectures, social meetings, dances, dramatic performances, and similar forms of entertainment.

The building should contain a dignified and beautiful souvenir room.

It would be desirable to provide living quarters for the caretakers of the building;

Storerooms for decorations and properties of various kinds, an establishment for shoe-shining, manicuring and shampooing, and a room for drying the clothes of women caught in storms and distant from their homes, might be provided in the basement.

There should be an open-air porch overlooking the court, to be used for social purposes in the spring and summer.
The printing paper contain a gritting and punctual record here.

It might be satisfactory to propose final changes for the completeness of the printing.

and without risk, and a room is given the director of women's work in elevating the interest from spirit house to Chicago, Illinois.

January 17th, 1913.

President Harry Pratt Judson,

The University of Chicago.

My dear President Judson:

Eleven resident members of the large committee on a name for the new Women's Gymnasium met on January 11th and 16th. The committee desires to thank you for your letter of January 3rd and for your appreciation of its desires and loyalty. It is agreed that there may be serious embarrassment to the Trustees in their efforts to secure money for the new building, if the proposed petition is made public at this time. However, it also feels that, if the petition is registered after the money is obtained, the Trustees and the committee may again find themselves in a delicate situation, if provision for a name accompanies a gift, even if such name is not publicly announced when the gift is.

In order to make it evident that the petition was designed before the University was bound to a name, and that there would be no enmity on the part of the women toward any other request, in short, to prevent any possible complication through lack of tact, we ask for your consent to send out the letters to alumnae now, with the very definite addition that at your request - an addition which we feel will most certainly bind them to silence - the petition be kept entirely secret until after any possible gifts to the University are announced.

If, after having presented this plan to the Trustees, you and they still feel the compromise inadequate, we should be very glad to have you find out from them just when they would be least likely to be embarrassed by our plan.

In expectation of your reply,

Marie Ortmayer

The University of Chicago

My dear President Jackson:

As chairman of the sub-committee who wrote to Mr. Roosevelt about an Alumnae Movement to express a wish as the choice of the name for the New Woman gymnasium, I am now writing you in regard to the message you sent us through Miss Wayman. We hope that you really understand the attitude of this gymnasmum committee of twenty and more. There are in this committee some of the strongest tive women, who are thoughtful.

fully appreciated.

The absence of the University of Chicago is strong in numbers and in spirit, as of course the University would have them be, and we feel it is their desire to give to the new building the name we suggest if they wish to express this desire, we, in a sub-committee, have the right to recommend to them a course which would force them into silence. On the other hand, nothing could be farther from our own desire than to push this movement at a time or in a manner detrimental to University Women or our Alma Mater. This was made clear to you that the name will not be decided upon until after all the money is collected. If, after this more complete statement of our position, it still seems best to all concerned to postpone the reading out of the petition, we, the sub-committee, will be glad to suggest such a course to the gymnasiwm committee, provided we can offer to them from you an assurance that they will have a fair opportunity of expressing their wish in the matter of a name, before any name is officially decided upon.

May we ask if there is any hope of the money for the building being secured in the near future, and for your further opinion on our plan, within a few days? The committee is anxious to be active.

Yours very sincerely,

The Committee

judicious, and desirous of doing only the right thing in Alumnae affairs. They believe that Miss Hurlbut, aside from offering a high quality of work along the lines of physical education and aside from maintaining among Alumnae women a high standard of health, which must be apparent in her annual report, has, through her broad educational point of view, given Alumnae women an ideal for womanly efficiency, which is no where else in the University demonstrated with such practical results, and which has a value far beyond mere book learning. Alumnae from everywhere testify to the value of this training and believe that the University of Chicago owes a debt to Miss Hurlbut, which cannot be over estimated, or even be

THE PROJECTED WOMEN'S BUILDING FOR THE UNIVERSITY

What is desired in the building for the women of the University is a structure which shall afford room for all the social activities and physical training of the women, including of course suitable quarters for swimming as well as for the regular gymnastic and athletic work. There will be rooms for the meetings of the various committees and clubs. There will be general rooms for receptions and large gatherings of various kinds. There should be also rest rooms, which could be used by those who do not live near the University and who desire quiet and rest between times. There will be also provision for a luncheon room and for the service of refreshments on occasion of evening gatherings of various kinds. The building in short should be the center of the life of the women of the University in every way. It will be a large structure, somewhat in a general way comparing with the Bartlett Gymnasium. It will perform for the women the function which is performed for the men by the Bartlett Gymnasium, the Reynolds Club, and in part the Hutchinson Commons. It should be of course a dignified structure, and all the interior equipment and furnishing should be becoming to its use.

There are in residence at any one time about 1200 women students. Very few of these come from wealthy families, and many of them have to earn their own way in whole or in part. During the last University year there are reported to me 287 young women who received employment in various ways through the assistance of the University, and many others have employment from other sources. A large proportion of these students are fitting themselves for some particular avocation in future life, very many becoming teachers. A small number, a little over a hundred, are embodied in various

There are in existence at any one time about 1500 women students. A very few of these come from scattered families, and many of them have to earn their own way. During the last University year in which I am at the University, there was a reduction of 25% among women who were employed in various ways through the assistance of the University, and many others have employment from other sources. clubs, largely of a social nature. The social education and needs of the remaining eleven hundred, so far as the University is concerned, are met in other ways, and we desire to meet them through the agency of the new building. The Young Women's Christian League contains a membership of 350. Young women not living in the dormitories, but in the neighborhood, are organized in neighborhood clubs. There are various other clubs which have literary, dramatic, musical or religious purposes. What we wish to provide for the benefit of all these young women, many of whom have not had large advantages, is such social organization and education as will afford very general benefit, with at the same time a large democracy prevailing among them. This is what we are trying to do now, but we are largely handicapped owing to the lack of suitable material facilities.

A building of this kind, and used for these purposes, should continue for many generations to be an active force in the development of the young women students. It should be a centre of their life in many beneficial ways. Such buildings in the old
The Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union is a membership of 80,000 young women not living in the vicinity of its headquarters, but in the neighborhoods, the communities, throughout the United States, where they have interest, where they have influence, where they have power. What we aim to prove is that the penitent at the cross finds more effective help in the service of the Lord than the penitent in the service of man.

The Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union is an American organization, a woman's organization, with a connection as with all others with General temperance, whose name is the same time a easier beginning, a longer struggle, to the race of mankind to the fear of mortality.

universities of England have existed and been useful for centuries, and in the newer life of the universities of this country buildings are now used which were erected one or two centuries ago.

The square of land bounded by Woodlawn and Kimbark avenues on the west and east, by Fifty-eighth street on the north and Fifty-ninth street on the south is reserved for a women's quadrangle, which will in time be covered by buildings in which a great number of the women students will reside. It seems, therefore, desirable that the women's building should be placed between this quadrangle and the quadrangle containing the various laboratories, libraries, and recitation buildings, so as to be of the largest possible use. Also the School of Education quadrangle east of Kimbark avenue is very largely intended for the use of women who are studying the teaching profession. The land on which the building would be erected will represent a cost to the University of about $75,000, which of course the University provides. Further, of course, the University undertakes the permanent care and maintenance of any building which may be given.
The Irish Catholic University of Leinster has pronounced its own creed. Its aims and objects are as follows:

1. To promote the study of the sacred sciences and the liberal arts.
2. To prepare students for the priesthood and for professional careers.
3. To provide a comprehensive education for all students.
4. To foster a spirit of charity and service among the community.
5. To promote intellectual and cultural development.
6. To maintain a high standard of academic excellence.

The University is located in Dublin, Ireland, and offers undergraduate and graduate programs in a variety of fields. It is committed to providing a holistic education that prepares students for successful careers and service to society.

Students lunch in the Sun Parlor five days a week.
Chicago, March 24, 1915

Dear Mr. Angell:

Do I understand aright that the laying of the corner stone of the Ida Noyes Hall will take place Saturday morning, April 17th? Is this, by the way, the Saturday which falls in our High School Conference? The President asked me to notify you that I had been added to your committee, so that the office might be in touch with the necessary steps to be taken in preparation.

The President suggested that, after the laying of the corner stone, there might be a luncheon in Lexington Hall — for the sake of the contrast. The President's idea was to have a luncheon at which there would be only a few guests and for which it would be possible for any girl in the University to buy a ticket. Miss Colburn might serve the luncheon in the gymnasium or in the dining-room. Has this luncheon matter been taken up by the committee?
For distribution at the cornerstone exercises the Ida Noyes pamphlets desired by Miss Talbot could be made ready. These will include the floor plans of the Hall and a description of the building, as well a picture of Mrs. Noyes.

Very truly yours,

Secretary to the President.

Dear Mr. Robertson:

Following are some of the facts with reference to the building of Ida Noyes Hall concerning which you asked over the telephone:

The letter of Mr. Noyes concerning the proposed gift was submitted to the Board of Trustees on June 4, 1913.

Shepley, Rutan & Coolidge were commissioned to draw the plans for Ida Noyes Hall on October 27, 1913.

The plans were submitted to the Committee on Buildings and Grounds on January 29, 1914, and were then approved by the Committee, and were subsequently approved by the Board of Trustees on February 4, 1914, when bids were ordered.

On February 4, 1914, the site was determined by the Board of Trustees.

The contracts were let on December 18, 1914, as follows:

Following the meeting of the Board of Trustees, it was decided to proceed with the [necessary action].

I am pleased to inform you that the [necessary action] has been approved, and I am confident that it will lead to positive outcomes.

Miss E. E. Langley,
Mrs. E. E. Flint,

Dear Madam:

You have been appointed by President Judson a committee from the faculty to confer with the Committee on Buildings and Grounds of the Board of Trustees with reference to the selection of furniture for Ida Noyes Hall. The Chairman of the latter Committee is Mr. C. L. Hutchinson.

Very truly yours,
It was moved and seconded to recommend to the Board of Trustees that authority be given to the Advisory Committee of Women to select and purchase furniture and equipment for Ida Noyes Hall at a cost not to exceed $72,000, that in connection with this purchase there shall be consultation and co-operation with the University Purchasing Agent, and that in connection with the furniture and furnishings of the Refectory there shall be consultation and co-operation with the Director of the Director of the University Commons, and, a vote having been taken, the motion was declared adopted.
The age was such as to encourage an unwavering desire to form a Union of Investors and Capitalists. The purpose was to provide a forum for the exchange of ideas and the advancement of knowledge in the field of investment. The Union was to be a place where investors could come together to share information, discuss strategies, and collaborate on projects.

In the course of the organization, it was decided to establish a fund to support educational programs and research. The fund was to be managed by a Board of Trustees, consisting of prominent investors and experts in the field of investment. The Board was responsible for overseeing the allocation of resources and ensuring that the fund was used effectively.

The first meeting of the Board was held on [date], with [name] as the Chair. The agenda included discussions on the mission statement, the selection of the initial projects, and the establishment of a framework for governance. The Board agreed to establish a committee to work on the development of a comprehensive plan for the fund.

The Board also decided to invite [name] to present a paper on the importance of education in the field of investment. The presentation was well-received, and the Board expressed a strong commitment to the support of educational initiatives.

It was felt that the Union could play a significant role in advancing the field of investment and in fostering a community of investors who are committed to the principles of responsible investment. The Board agreed to continue to work on the implementation of the fund's programs and to keep the membership informed of its progress.
June 17, 1916.

Miss Marion Talbot,
Faculty Exchange.

My Dear Miss Talbot:

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees, held June 13, 1916, it was voted, in view of the fact that most of the furniture for Ida Noyes Hall had been selected and that members of the Committee will be absent or engaged in full time teaching, that hereafter it will not be necessary to ask the Advisory Committee of women to undertake the purchase of additional furniture. From this date, therefore, the Advisory Committee of Women will serve as an Advisory Committee and not as a committee to purchase.

I am sure that the Trustees desire to have me express hearty thanks to all the women who have devoted so much energy and efficiency to this important task. The beauty of the building has been much enhanced by the character of its furnishings.

Yours very truly,

J. S. Dickerson, Secretary.

Please notify the other members of the Committee.

My Dear Miss Stirling:

At a meeting of the Board of Trusteseen selected and that members of the Committee will be present or present by full-time teaching, that next year it will not be necessary to seek the Advisory Committee of Women to undertake the purchase of additional furniture from the gate, therefore the Advisory Committee of Women will serve as an Advisory Committee and not as an Advisory Committee to purchase.

I am sure that the Trustees agree to have me express hearty thanks to all the women who have devoted so much energy and effort to the important task. The beauty of the building has been much enhanced by the character of the furnishings.
