THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.

STATEMENT FOR 1916-1917.

Throughout the past Academic Year the War has interfered increasingly with the operation of the Scholarship System.

At the close of 1916 the American Section of the Scholarships was still barely affected; but on the entry of the United States into the War the difference between American and Colonial Rhodes Scholars naturally ceased to exist.

Largely as a consequence of the new situation thus created, the Trustees have decided to postpone for the present all further election to Scholarships. This will not, however, interfere with the holding of the Annual Qualifying Examination in the United States, or in Colonies where qualification is not obtained through affiliation of local Universities with the University of Oxford.

The Trust has continued its policy of giving Scholars leave of absence for the duration of the War, with the right to resume or commence their Scholarships when the War is over, or earlier should circumstances make that possible.

For the year 1916 fifty-seven Scholars were elected, twenty-five Colonials and thirty-two Americans. Of these there came into residence in October, 1916, three Colonials (of whom one enlisted in the course of his first term) and twenty-seven Americans.

Altogether, there were in residence at Oxford for some part of the year eighty-five Rhodes Scholars, of whom seventy-one were American and fourteen Colonial. Of the seventy-one Americans, the great majority are now serving in the United States Army.

For the year 1917-1918, there are at present eight Rhodes Scholars in residence—six Colonial and two American. Of the six Colonials, five are medical students; and of these five, two have already seen service. Of the two Americans, one has returned from a year's ambulance work on the French front, and is temporarily engaged in Government work in the University Chemical Laboratory; while the other has been rejected, on medical grounds, for military service.

In addition to the above, one ex-Scholar has returned after three years' military service in France, to complete his medical course.
The Scholarships set free under the Act of Parliament cancelling the German Rhodes Scholarships have been allotted as follows:

One to the Transvaal.
One to the Orange Free State.
One to Alberta and Saskatchewan (which have hitherto had only one between them).
One to Kimberley and Port Elizabeth alternately (Kimberley to select in the first year).

The following Scholars and ex-Scholars have given their lives in the service of the Empire since the issue of the last Statement:

B. E. Atkins, British Columbia, 1914 (Hertford).
A. P. Boor, Western Australia, 1913 (Brazenose).

The Qualifying Examination of Candidates for the American Scholarships of 1918 was held throughout the Union on October 2nd and 3rd, 1917. Thirty-two Candidates offered themselves for examination, of whom nine passed the whole examination, eight passed in Latin and Mathematics, thus becoming eligible for election, subject to passing in Greek before entering the University, and fifteen failed to satisfy the Examiners.

The Qualifying Examination for Candidates from the United States, etc., will be held on October 1st and 2nd, 1918.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.

STATEMENT FOR THE YEAR 1919.

With the close of hostilities the revival of the University began. In this revival the Scholarship system shared. Only a proportion, however, of the Scholars were able to come into residence before the end of the academic year.

Elections to the Scholarships for the years 1918 and 1919, suspended during the war, were held in October, 1919. The Scholars so elected are to come into residence in January, 1920, and October, 1920, respectively. In consequence, the numbers for the coming year will be above the normal maximum.

The number of Scholars actually in residence for either the whole or some part of the academic year 1918–1919 was eighty-seven—viz., sixty-six Colonials and twenty-one Americans. Of these, thirty-one came into residence for the first time.

There were also in residence nine ex-Scholars, of whom five were Colonials and four Americans.

Nineteen Scholars went out of residence at the end of the academic year, although they had not in all cases completed the term of their Scholarship.

In the United States, the elections this year have been held under new conditions. In the first place, there has been no Qualifying Examination. The competition has been open, limited only by the fact that, in any given State, no one institution could be represented in the competition by more than a small number of candidates, proportioned to the total enrolment of Students in the Institution. In the second place, Selection Committees have been composed of old Rhodes Scholars, acting under a Chairman not himself a Rhodes Scholar.

It is hoped by degrees to extend this principle elsewhere, to the extent at least of securing representation of Rhodes Scholars on all electing committees.

In the course of the year 1920, Scholars will be elected to represent the years 1920 and 1921, the former coming into residence in January, 1921, the latter in October, 1921. The dates for these elections will be issued shortly.

Candidates for Rhodes Scholarships should realise that owing to the increase in the cost of living, the Scholarship of £300 is no longer sufficient to cover the expenses of a full year, including terms and vacations. The holder of a Scholarship must therefore be prepared to supplement it to the extent of about £50 per annum. The Trustees have made a grant of a small war bonus to existing Scholars, but this is temporary, and does not apply to any Scholar elected as for any year later than 1919.

Revised circulars giving information in reference to the award of the Scholarships in each of the communities to which they are assigned will be issued shortly. Any further information may be obtained on application to the offices of the Trust. In the United States application may be made to Professor Frank Aydelotte, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge 39, Mass.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.

MEMORANDUM

The United States of America.

1920.

A Scholarship is of the value of £300 a year, and is tenable for three years, subject to the continued approval of the College at Oxford of which the Scholar is a member.

Two Scholarships are assigned to each State. Since the Scholarship is tenable for three years, there will be one year out of every three in which there will be no election. In each of the other two years one Scholarship will be filled up if a suitable candidate offers.

A candidate to be eligible must—

(a) Be a citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried.

(b) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday. (Candidates are eligible as for 1920 who were born after October 1, 1895, and before October 1, 1901; as for 1921 if born after October 1, 1896, and before October 1, 1902.)

(c) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected (i.e., 1920 or 1921, as the case may be) have completed at least his Sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States of America.

Candidates may apply either for the State in which they have their ordinary private domicile, home, or residence, or for any State in which they may have received at least two years of their college education before applying.

For each State there will be a Committee of Selection, in whose hands, subject to ratification by the Trustees, the nominations will rest.

Candidates must in the first instance be selected by their own college or university. The method of doing this is left to each institution. Institutions with a total enrolment of less than 1,000 students may be represented in the competition for any one State by not more than two candidates; those with from 1,000 to 2,000 students by not more than three candidates; those with more than 2,000 students by not more than four candidates. In States where elections are to be made this year both for 1920 and for 1921, institutions may be represented by twice the number of candidates that would be allowed were only one appointment to be made. Institutions should select their representatives on the basis of the qualities which will be considered by the State Committee in making the final selection. These are:

(1) Qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership.
(2) Literacy and scholastic ability and attainments.
(3) Physical vigour, as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Institutions should hold their preliminary selection in time to make it possible for their representatives to file applications with the Secretary of the State Committee of Selection not later than August 14. The final selections will be made on September 25, except in a few States where they will be held on September 21 or 23.

Each candidate for a Scholarship is required to make application to the Secretary of the Committee of Selection of the State in which he wishes to compete not later than August 14, using the application form printed in this Memorandum, and furnishing the material there specified.

Committees of Selection will summon to a personal interview such of the candidates as they find it desirable to see and, save under exceptional circumstances, no Scholar will be elected without such interview. Where such an interview is dispensed with, a written statement of the reasons will be submitted to the Trustees. Where candidates find it impossible to be in the State at the time the selection is made, Committees may, at their discretion, arrange for a personal interview in advance.
The qualifying examination formerly required of all candidates for the Rhodes Scholarships has been abandoned. The abandonment of this examination does not grant to Rhodes Scholars exemption from examinations required by Oxford University for any of its degrees. Under recent regulations, however, holders of an "approved" degree from an "approved" University, with three years' residence at the University in question, can obtain "Senior Standing" and exemption from all examinations [including any examination in Greek] prior to the Final Honour Schools. No list of approved Universities is published. Applicants are required to submit their records with a view to the determination of their Standing.

No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes Scholar's choice of studies. He may read for the Oxford B.A. in any of the final Honour Schools, may enter for one of the so-called Diploma Courses in special subjects, or, if qualified by previous training, may be admitted to read for advanced degrees such as the B.Sc., B.Litt. B.C.L. or Ph.D.

On account of the expansion of universities during the war, the usual number of Scholars will be elected in 1920. After the elections held in 1920 normal conditions will be restored and 32 Scholars will be elected each year. The apportionment of Scholarships for the elections to be held in September, 1920, is as follows:

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.

MEMORANDUM

The United States of America.

1920.

A Scholarship is of the value of £300 a year, and is tenable for three years, subject to the continued approval of the College at Oxford of which the Scholar is a member.

Two Scholarships are assigned to each State. Since the Scholarship is tenable for three years, there will be one year out of every three in which there will be no election. In each of the other two years one Scholarship will be filled up if a suitable candidate offers.

A candidate to be eligible must—

(a) Be a citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried.

(b) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected, have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday. (Candidates for the year 1920 who were born after October 1, 1895, and before October 1, 1901, as for 1921 if born after October 1, 1896, and before October 1, 1902.)

(c) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected (i.e., 1920 or 1921, as the case may be) have completed at least his Sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States of America.

Candidates may apply either for the State in which they have their ordinary private domicile, home, or residence, or for any State in which they may have received at least two years of their college education before applying.

For each State there will be a Committee of Selection, in whose hands, subject to ratification by the Trustees, the nominations will rest.

Candidates must be selected by their own college or university. The method of doing this is left to each institution. Institutions with a total enrolment of less than 1,000 students may be represented in the competition for any one State by not more than two candidates; those with from 1,000 to 2,000 students by not more than three candidates; those with more than 2,000 students by not more than four candidates. In States where elections are to be made this year both for 1920 and for 1921, institutions may be represented by twice the number of candidates that would be allowed were only one appointment to be made. Institutions should select their representatives on the basis of the qualities which will be considered by the State Committee in making the final selection. These are:

1. Qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership.
2. Literary and scholastic ability and attainments.
3. Physical vigour, as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

Institutions should hold their preliminary selection in time to make it possible for their representatives to file applications with the Secretary of the State Committee of Selection not later than August 14. The final selections will be made on September 25, except in a few States where they will be held on September 21 or 23.

Each candidate for a Scholarship is required to make application to the Secretary of the Committee of Selection of the State in which he wishes to compete not later than August 14, using the application form printed in this Memorandum, and furnishing the material there specified.

Committees of Selection will summon to a personal interview such of the candidates as they find it desirable to see and, save under exceptional circumstances, no Scholar will be elected without such interview. Where such an interview is dispensed with, a written statement of the reasons will be submitted to the Trustees. Where candidates find it impossible to be in the State at the time the selection is made, Committees may, at their discretion, arrange for a personal interview in advance.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

MEMORANDUM

1921

The stipend of a Rhodes Scholarship is normally £300 a year, but until further notice Scholars will receive a bonus of £50 in addition, making a total of £350 per annum. It must not be assumed that even this sum is sufficient to meet the increase in prices, and candidates are warned that they will in all probability need some small addition to it.

A Scholarship is tenable for three years, subject to the continued approval of the College at Oxford of which the Scholar is a member.

Two Scholarships are assigned to each State. Since the Scholarship is tenable for three years, there will be one year out of every three in which there will be no election. In each of the other two years one Scholarship will be filled up if a suitable candidate offers.

A candidate to be eligible must—

(a) Be a citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried.

(b) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday. (In 1921 Scholars will be elected to enter Oxford in 1922. Candidates are eligible who were born on or after October 1, 1897, and before October 1, 1903.)

(c) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected (i.e., 1922) have completed at least his Sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States of America.

Candidates may apply either for the State in which they have their ordinary private domicile, home, or residence, or for any State in which they may have received at least two years of their college education before applying.

For each State there will be a Committee of Selection, in whose hands, subject to ratification by the Trustees, the nominations will rest.

Candidates must in the first instance be selected by their own college or university. The method of doing this is left to each institution. The number of candidates who may represent an institution in the competition for any one State has been increased this year in accordance with the following Schedule:

Institutions with less than 500 students: Not more than 2 candidates.

Institutions with 500 to 1000 students: Not more than 3 candidates.

Institutions with from 1000 to 2000 students: Not more than 4 candidates.

Institutions with more than 2000 students: Not more than 5 candidates.

Institutions should select their representatives on the basis of the qualities which will be considered by the State Committee in making the final selection. These are:

(1) Qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership.

(2) Literary and scholastic ability and attainments.

(3) Physical vigour, as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

The ideal Rhodes Scholar should excel in all three of the qualities indicated, but in the absence of such an ideal combination, Committees will prefer a man who shows distinction either of character and personality, or of intellect, over one who shows a lower degree of excellence in both. Participation and interest in open-air and athletic pursuits form an essential qualification for a Rhodes Scholar, but exceptional athletic distinction is not to be treated as of equal importance with the other requirements.

Institutions should hold their preliminary selection in time to make it possible for their representatives to file applications with the Secretary of the State Committee of Selection not later than October 29. The final selections will be made on December 3.

Each candidate for a Scholarship is required to make application to the Secretary of the Committee of Selection of the State in which he wishes to compete not later than October 29, using the application form printed in this Memorandum, and furnishing the material there specified.

Committees of Selection will summon to a personal interview such of the candidates as they find it desirable to see and, save under exceptional circumstances, no Scholar will be elected without such interview. Where such an interview is dispensed with, a written statement of the reasons will be submitted to the Trustees. Where candidates find it impossible to be in the State at the time the selection is made, Committees may, at their discretion, arrange for a personal interview in advance.

In the absence of candidates qualified to take full advantage of the Scholarship, Committees will make no appointment. Vacancies so created may, as authorized from time to time by the Trustees, be filled by the appointment of Scholars at-large as was done in 1910 and 1920. Scholars at-large are chosen from among the particularly strong candidates who have failed to secure a regular appointment.

The appointment of Scholars at-large is not subject to the approval of the President of the University, and the President may appoint such Scholars at-large as he may deem advisable.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

Swarthmore College,
Swarthmore, Pa.

November 6, 1922.

To Committees of Selection:

I am directed by the Rhodes Trustees to issue the following instructions for the conduct of elections this year:

1. ARRANGEMENTS FOR MEETING: Committees should meet in all states, except those listed below, on Saturday, December 2nd, at such place and hour as may be fixed by the Chairman. In any case where the number of candidates makes it necessary to have one or more preliminary meetings, these should be held prior to December 2nd and the final choice made on that day.

In the following states meetings of Committees will be held on the dates indicated so that peripatetic members of the Committees may serve in more than one state:

Montana, November 30th
New Mexico, Nov. 30th

North Carolina, Nov. 29th
South Dakota, Nov. 30th

2. QUORUM: For the purpose of electing a Rhodes Scholar a Chairman and two members of a Committee shall constitute a quorum. In the event of its being impossible in any state to obtain a quorum, the Chairman or Secretary should communicate at once with the American Secretary by telegraph, or by long distance telephone at Swarthmore 200.

3. REPORT ON SCHOLARS IN RESIDENCE: Committees are requested to begin their meeting by a consideration of the report on the Scholars from their state for the years since 1918, which will be in the hands of the Secretary of the Committee. It is earnestly hoped that Committees will use the experience of the last three years as shown in this record to make sure that their standard is high enough so that only those men will be appointed who will be a credit to the State and that if no such candidate offers, no appointment will be made.

4. BASIS OF SELECTION: Committees are requested to follow carefully the regulations for the selection of Rhodes Scholars as printed in the 1922 Memorandum for the United States of America. In studying the academic record of the candidate Committees should remember that conspicuous ability in one subject is a surer guarantee of success at Oxford than a mere high average of marks all round, such as may result not from real ability but only from industrious mediocrity.

5. SCHOLARS-AT-LARGE: In any state where no candidate likely to do credit to the Scholarship offers, no appointment should be made. Vacancies so created may, as authorized from time to time by the Trustees, be filled by the allotment of Scholarships-at-large, as was done in 1919 and 1920. In view of this possibility, Committees should send to the American Secretary the credentials of any particularly strong candidate who has failed to secure a Scholarship, together with a statement by members of the Committee concerning his qualifications. In no case should a Committee recommend more than one such candidate, and it is requested that Committees make no recommendation at all unless they have a man whose qualifications are distinctly exceptional.

Committees should not appoint alternates. The Trustees do not accept the principle that State Committees have the right to fill vacancies, whether caused by resignation or in any other way, even though the Scholar originally elected has not begun residence at Oxford.

6. ANNOUNCEMENT OF RESULTS: The Secretary of each Committee is asked to report by telegraph collect to the American Secretary at Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, on the afternoon or evening of December 2nd the name of the scholar chosen and to forward his credentials (carefully checked over to make sure that they are complete) to the American Secretary on the same day. Special self addressed envelopes have been forwarded to Secretaries for this purpose. The candidates may be told at once of the result, but the information must be carefully withheld from the press until the afternoon of December 3rd. When convenient Secretaries of State Committees should furnish local papers on Sunday afternoon, December 3rd, with some account of the career of their Scholar-elect to be printed on Monday morning with the Associated Press despatch announcing the results for the entire country.

7. ADVICE TO SCHOLARS-ELECT: At the time that the successful candidate is told of his election, members of the Committee should give him at once advice concerning his choice of a College. Any member of any Committee should feel free to write directly to his own College urging the admission of the candidate, provided, of course, the Scholar-elect has placed this College first on his list.

It is hoped that Committees will urge upon the newly elected Scholar the importance of complying at once with the instructions to Scholars-elect. Any delay in doing this will seriously prejudice the Scholar's chance of being admitted to any of the Colleges of his choice.

8. Copies of these instructions are being sent to all members of Committees of Selection in all states.

FRANK AYDELotte,
American Secretary.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS

MEMORANDUM

1922

1. GENERAL REGULATIONS: The stipend of a Rhodes Scholarship is normally £300 a year, but until further notice Scholars will receive a bonus of £50 in addition, making a total of £350 per annum. Even this sum, however, is not sufficient to meet the increase in prices, and candidates are warned that they will need to supplement their scholarship to the extent, on the average, of about £50 per annum. A Rhodes Scholarship is tenable only at Oxford; it may be held for three years, subject to the continued approval of the College at Oxford of which the Scholar is a member. Two Scholarships are assigned to each State. Since the Scholarship is tenable for three years, there will be one year out of every three in which there will be no election. In each of the other two years one Scholarship will be filled up if a suitable candidate offers.

A candidate to be eligible must —

(a) Be a male citizen of the United States, with at least five years' domicile, and unmarried.
(b) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday. (In 1922 Scholars will be elected to enter Oxford in 1923. Candidates are eligible who were born on or after October 1, 1898, and before October 1, 1904.)
(c) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected (i.e., 1923) have completed at least his Sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States of America.

Candidates may apply either for the State in which they have their ordinary private domicile, home, or residence, or for any State in which they may have received at least two years of their college education before applying.

For each State there will be a Committee of Selection, in whose hands, subject to ratification by the Trustees, the nominations will rest.

2. INSTITUTIONAL SELECTION: Candidates must in the first instance be selected by their own college or university. The method of doing this is left to each institution. The number of candidates who may represent an institution in the competition for any one State is indicated in the following Schedule: —

| Institutions with less than 500 students: | Not more than 2 candidates. |
| Institutions with from 500 to 1000 students: | Not more than 3 candidates. |
| Institutions with from 1000 to 2000 students: | Not more than 4 candidates. |
| Institutions with more than 2000 students: | Not more than 5 candidates. |

Institutions should hold their preliminary selection between October 7 and October 14 in order to make it possible for their representatives to file applications with the Secretary of the State Committee of Selection not later than October 21. The final selections will be made on December 2.

3. BASIS OF SELECTION: Institutions should select their representatives on the basis of the qualities which will be considered by the State Committee in making the final selection. These are:

(1) Qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership.
(2) Literary and scholastic ability and attainments.
(3) Physical vigour, as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

The ideal Rhodes Scholar should excel in all three of the qualities indicated, but in the absence of such an ideal combination, Committees will prefer a man who shows distinction either of character and personality, or of intellect, over one who shows a lower degree of excellence in both. Participation and interest in open-air and athletic pursuits form an essential qualification for a Rhodes Scholar, but exceptional athletic distinction is not to be treated as of equal importance with the other requirements.

4. METHOD OF SELECTION: Each candidate for a Scholarship is required to make application to the Secretary of the Committee of Selection of the State in which he wishes to compete not later than October 21, using the application form printed in this Memorandum, and furnishing the material there specified.

In any State where the number of applicants is large a preliminary elimination will be made on the basis of credentials. Committees of Selection will then summon to a personal interview such of the candidates as they find it desirable to see, and, save under exceptional circumstances, no Scholar will be elected without such interview. Where such an interview is dispensed with, a written statement of the reasons will be submitted to the Trustees. Where candidates find it impossible to be in the State at the time the selection is made, Committees may, at their discretion, arrange for a personal interview in advance.
5. SCHOLARSHIPS-AT-LARGE: In the absence of candidates of exceptional merit, as indicated in paragraph 3 above, Committees will make no appointment. Vacancies so created may, as authorized from time to time by the Trustee, be filled by the appointment of Scholars-at-large, chosen from among the particularly strong candidates who have failed to secure a regular appointment.

6. STANDING AT OXFORD: Under recent regulations holders of an “approved” degree from an “approved” University who have pursued a course of study at that University for three years at least can obtain “Senior Standing” at Oxford, which carries with it exemption from all examinations prior to the Final Honour Schools leading to the B.A. degree. Oxford University publishes no list of approved Universities. It is understood, however, that American Students who hold a degree in Arts or Pure Science from a College or University on the list of Institutions accepted by the Association of American Universities do usually get Senior Standing.

Holders of technical degrees, or graduates of institutions not on the list approved by the Association of American Universities, or undergraduates who have not yet taken their degrees, must expect to receive Junior Standing, which gives one year’s standing, and carries with it exemption from Examinations, but not from the Intermediate examination. No applicant, however, can obtain Junior Standing whose course has not included the study of two languages other than English, of which Latin or Greek must be one.

A candidate who does not satisfy the above conditions is not the less eligible for appointment. He will, however, be obliged to pass Examinations, which includes a simple examination in either Latin or Greek, before taking up his Scholarship, unless specially exempted therefrom on the ground of being qualified to read for an Advanced Degree.

No candidate for an Oxford degree is required to show a knowledge of the Greek language.

These regulations as to Senior and Junior Standing have reference to the B.A. degree and the Honour Schools leading to that degree, not to Advanced Degrees.

7. COURSES OPEN TO RHODES SCHOLARS: No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes Scholar’s choice of studies. He may read for the Oxford B.A. in any of the Final Honour Schools, may enter for one of the so-called Diploma Courses in special subjects, or, if qualified by previous training, may be admitted to read for advanced degrees such as the B.Sc., B.Lit., B.C.L., or Ph.D.

8. APPOINTMENT OF SCHOLARSHIPS: The appointment of Scholarships for the elections to be held in December, 1922, is as follows—

<thead>
<tr>

<th>16 States have no election 1923</th>
<th>8 States elected for 1923</th>

Scholars elected for 1923 will come into residence in October of that year. In 1923 groups A and B will elect Scholars to enter Oxford in 1924; in 1924 groups A and B will elect Scholars to enter Oxford in 1926, and so on in rotation.

THE RHODES SCHOLARSHIPS.

REGULATIONS FOR THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, 1923.

1. General regulations.—The stipend of a Rhodes scholarship is normally £300 a year, but until further notice scholars will receive a bonus of £50 in addition, making a total of £350 per annum. Even this sum, however, is not sufficient to meet the increase in prices, and candidates are warned that they will need to supplement their scholarship to the extent, on the average, of about £50 per annum. A Rhodes scholarship is tenable only at Oxford; it may be held for three years, subject to the continued approval of the college at Oxford of which the scholar is a member. Two scholarships are assigned to each State. Since the scholarship is tenable for three years, there will be one year out of every three in which there will be no election. In each of the other two years one scholarship will be filled up if a suitable candidate offers.

A candidate to be eligible must—
(a) Be a male citizen of the United States, with at least five years’ domicile, and unmarried.
(b) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected have passed his nineteenth and not have passed his twenty-fifth birthday. (In 1923 scholars will be elected to enter Oxford in 1924. Candidates are eligible who were born on or after October 1, 1899, and before October 1, 1905.)
(c) By the 1st of October of the year for which he is elected (i.e., 1924) have completed at least his sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States of America.

Candidates may apply either for the State in which they have their ordinary private domicile, home, or residence, or for any State in which they may have received at least two years of their college education before applying.

For each State there will be a committee of selection, in whose hands, subject to ratification by the trustees, the nominations will rest.

2. Institutional selection.—Candidates must in the first instance be selected by their own college or university. The method of doing this is left to each institution. The number of candidates who may represent an institution in the competition for any one State is indicated in the following schedule:

   Institutions with less than 500 students: Not more than 2 candidates.
   Institutions with from 500 to 1,000 students: Not more than 3 candidates.
   Institutions with from 1,000 to 2,000 students: Not more than 4 candidates.
   Institutions with more than 2,000 students: Not more than 5 candidates.

Institutions should hold their preliminary selection between October 1 and October 7 in order to make it possible for their representatives to file applications with the secretary of the State committee of selection not later than October 27. The final selections will be made on December 8.

3. Basis of selection.—Institutions should select their representatives on the basis of the qualities which will be considered by the State committee in making the final selection. These are:

   (1) Qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership.
   (2) Literary and scholastic ability and attainments.
   (3) Physical vigor, as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways.

The ideal Rhodes scholar should excel in all three of the qualities indicated, but in the absence of such an ideal combination, committees will prefer a man who shows distinction either of character and personality, or of intellect, over one who shows a lesser degree of excellence in both. Participation and interest in open-air and athletic pursuits form an essential qualification for a Rhodes scholar, but exceptional athletic distinction is not to be treated as of equal importance with the other requirements.
4. Method of selection.—Each candidate for a scholarship is required to make application to the secretary of the committee of selection of the State in which he wishes to compete not later than October 7, using the regular application form printed in the 1925 memorandum and furnishing the following material:
(a) A photograph of himself.
(b) A birth certificate.
(c) A written statement from the president of his college or university to the effect that he has been selected to represent that institution in the State in which he shall be examined.
(d) A certificate of the registrar or other responsible official of the course of study which he has pursued, together with his grades.
(e) A connected statement (which should be more than a list) of his general activities and intellectual interests at college, and of his proposed line of study at Oxford.
(f) References to not less than five nor more than eight persons from whom further information may be obtained concerning his qualifications. (At least three of these must be persons under whom the candidate has studied.)

In any State where the number of applicants is large a preliminary elimination will be made on the basis of credentials. Committees of selection will then summon to a personal interview such of the candidates as they find desirable to see, and, save under exceptional circumstances, no scholar will be elected unless he has been the subject of such interviews. When such an interview is dispensed with, a written statement of the reasons will be submitted to the trustees. Where candidates find it impossible to be in the State at the time of the regular interview, arrangements may, at their discretion, be made, for a personal interview in advance.

3. Scholarships at large.—In the absence of candidates of exceptional merit, as indicated in paragraph 4 above, committees will make no appointment. Vacancies so created may, as authorized from time to time by the trustees, be filled by the appointment of scholars at large, chosen from among the particularly strong candidates who have failed to secure a regular appointment.

6. Standing at Oxford.—Under recent regulations holders of an "approved" degree from an "approved" university who have pursued a course of study at that university for three years at least can obtain "senior standing" at Oxford, which carries with it exemption from all examinations prior to the final honors schools leading to the B. A. degree. Oxford University publishes no list of approved universities. It is understood, however, that American students who hold a degree in arts or pure science from a college or university on the list of institutions accepted by the Association of American Universities do usually get senior standing.

Holders of technical degrees, or graduates of institutions not on the list approved by the Association of American Universities, or undergraduates who have not yet taken their degrees, must expect to receive junior standing, which gives one year’s standing, and carries with it exemption from examinations, but not from the immediate examination. No applicant, however, can obtain junior standing whose college course has not included the study of two languages other than English, of which Latin or Greek must be one.

A candidate who does not satisfy the above conditions is not the less eligible for appointment. He will, however, be obliged to pass examinations, which include a simple examination in either Latin or Greek; shall be holding up his scholarship, unless specially exempted from them on the ground of his being qualified to read for an advanced degree.

No candidate for an Oxford degree is required to show a knowledge of the Greek language. These regulations as to senior and junior standing have reference to the B. A. degree and the honors schools leading to that degree, not to advanced degrees.

7. The Rhodes to Rhodes scholars. — No restriction is placed upon a Rhodes scholar’s choice of studies. He may read for the Oxford B. A. in any of the final honors schools, or may enter for one of the co-ordinating courses in special subjects, or, if qualified by previous training, may be admitted to read for advanced degrees such as the B. Sc., B. Litt., B. C. L., or Ph. D.

8. Apportionment of scholarships.—The apportionment of scholarships for the elections to be held in December, 1923, is as follows:

A. SIXTEEN STATES HAVE NO ELECTION.
B. SIXTEEN STATES ELECT IN 1924.
C. SIXTEEN STATES ELECT IN 1925.

Scholars elected for 1924 will come into residence in October of that year.

In 1925 groups A and B will elect scholars to enter Oxford in 1925; in 1926 groups A and C will elect scholars to enter Oxford in 1926, and in 1926 groups B and C will elect scholars to enter Oxford in 1927, and so on in regular rotation.

9. Information about Oxford.—Information about Oxford and the scholarships is to be found in the following publications of the University of Oxford, which may be obtained from the Oxford University Press; American Branch, 35 West Thirty-third Street, New York City: (1) The Examination Statistics; (2) General Information concerning admission, residence, entrance, etc.; (3) Facilities for advanced study and research.

Aside from these, the American branch of the Oxford University Press will soon publish a volume entitled Oxford of Today, edited by T. A. Crosby, and intended for the use of prospective Rhodes scholars. Further information may be found in the current numbers of the American Amazon, a quarterly magazine published by the ex-Rhodes scholars, which may be obtained from W. W. Thayer, business manager, Concord, N. H.

Copies of this memorandum may be obtained from the offices of the trust, or from President Frank A. Adams of Swarthmore College, American secretary to the Rhodes trustees, Swarthmore, Pa.

Dear President Harper:—

I was in Chicago for an hour three days ago in my eastward flight across the Continent and I was greatly tempted to call you up on the telephone. But it was your dinner hour and I concluded that it would be an unfriendly act to disturb such a busy man as you are at that time. I stopped over at Ann Arbor as I came along to see President Angell and I had a very interesting and useful talk with him. He had not very clearly understood the arrangements we made at Chicago and I was very glad to get in touch with him personally.

I have always wished to write and tell you once more what a great pleasure and satisfaction the Chicago meeting was to me in many ways. I feel that its success was largely due to your energy and I cannot thank you too heartily for all that you did.

There was one point about which I have been anxious to make some inquiries and have only been prevented from doing so by the constant rush of travel. You remember that when we left the conference room the reporters were all there and it was understood that there was to be a full report in the next day’s papers of the conclusions to which we had come, and of the committees which had been appointed for the various States. For two or three days after the conference I watched the book stalls carefully, but I could never find anything but the very slightest reports. Besides that, I thought that the understanding at the meeting was that the secretary was to forward to me a full list of the different committees. I have never heard from him in any way and I did not even get any report which gave me his name and address, so that I could write to him. It may be that for some reason the information was kept back from the press for a time and it may have appeared after I got out of reach. But I make use of a press cutting agency and it is a singular fact that the Chicago conference which was by far the most important that we have held anywhere appears to have been the one which was almost entirely neglected by the press. My press cutting people appear to pick up everything as far out as the Pacific Coast, but they failed with you if anything really did appear. Would you be so good as to give the name and address of the secretary so that I can at least get from him a full list of the committees of selection appointed for the different States?

If a letter can get to New York by Thursday the best plan will be to address it to Columbia University, care of the President, but for two days later my best address will be the Parker House, Boston, from which place I am sailing for Europe on Saturday.

My trip around America has taken me a good deal longer time than I expected and now I have to hurry away in order to get off towards the end of April for my travels in the Southern Hemisphere. I am very anxious to get my material together and in such form that I can get my trustees to confirm most of the main conclusions about the management of the Trust here in America. In any case, I hope to prepare for distribution on this Continent a memorandum which will place college officials and intending candidates in possession of all the facts which are necessary for their guidance. This I hope to do before I go away from England for my long trip to Australia.

I hope I have not imposed on your good nature too much by this long letter, but I have been very curious to know what broke down the arrangements for giving publicity to the results of our conference.

With kindest regards and with my most sincere thanks for all your goodness, believe me,

Yours most sincerely, Geo. K. Parkin

Mr. George R. Parkin,

My dear Mr. Parkin:—

You have already received my letter indicating the result of the election. We were not able to get our committee together until the second week of July. This accounts for the delay. I have placed the memorandum which you were good enough to enclose in the hands of Mr. Henry, the person elected. I am sure that Mr. Henry will be found to be a most acceptable man.

Hoping that everything will proceed satisfactorily, I remain

My dear Mr. Parker:

You have already received my letter of today.

I presume the occasion to have been a committee meeting until the second week of July. This accounts for the delay.

I have placed the memorandum which you wrote enclosed to the papers of Mr. Henry, the person selected. I am sure that Mr. Henry will do honor to do a most acceptable work.

My dear Sir,

I have just been in consultation with Mr Wylie, our Representative at Oxford, and he informs me that he has, as yet, had no communication from your State in regard to the Scholar who has been selected to come to Oxford. A circular was sent to all the Chairman of Committees, and also to the members of Committees in each State, giving directions as to what should be done as soon as a Scholar was selected. I now enclose again a copy of this circular. It will be seen that in this circular, and also in that sent to the Committees of selection, very explicit directions were given for further steps to be taken. The delay which has taken place is somewhat disadvantageous to the student, as it limits his choice in the selection of a College. Several of the Colleges have already filled up the list of Rhodes Scholars, which they had agreed to accept. If nothing has yet been done I trust that you will act as promptly as possible in forwarding the credentials and directing the Scholar himself to make immediate application to Mr Wylie.

Believe me,

Yours very sincerely,

There seems to have been some misunderstanding about the above, but you can I am sure set it right.

16th May, 1909.

I have just been in communication with Mr. Proctor, and have received a note to the effect that he has been elected to the Committee of University College, Oxford, to which the Secretary was requested to communicate your kind invitation to me to join him on the Committee of University College, and to be pleased to accept it. As the present is a most important one, I am unable to accept a copy of the invitation. I am, however, willing to accept an offer to join the Committee of University College, and to be pleased to accept it. The copy of the letter is enclosed.

Yours very faithfully,

Memorandum for Committees of Selection making appointments to Scholarships throughout the UNITED STATES in 1904.

1. A written examination will be held, beginning on April 13th, at a place fixed by the Committee of Selection for each State. This Committee will appoint a suitable person to supervise the examination, and will arrange for its impartial conduct. It should be clearly understood that this examination is not competitive, but simply qualifying, and is intended to give assurance that no elected scholar will be unable to pass Responsions, the first examination which the University demands of all Candidates for the B.A. degree.

2. At the request of the Trustees the University of Oxford has named for the present year three examiners to prepare examination papers and report upon the replies given. The papers will be forwarded in sealed parcels to the Chairman of the Committee of Selection. The parcels containing the examination papers shall only be opened by the supervising examiner at the time and place of examination. As the papers contain the full text of all classical passages used in examination, no text books will be required by candidates. Arrangements will be made to supply Stationery to candidates at the place of examination.

3. The replies made by candidates shall be collected at the close of each examination, and forwarded in sealed parcels to a centre to be fixed by the Trust for despatch to the examiners at Oxford.

4. The University of Oxford has agreed to accept in lieu of Responsions the certificate of its examiners that students have passed this examination, so that all scholars elected will be excused from that test when they come into residence at Oxford.

5. As soon as the report of the examiners has been received, the Chairman of the Committee of Selection will be furnished with a list of the candidates who have passed, and are therefore eligible for election.

6. The Committee of Selection will then proceed to choose the scholar for the year.

In accordance with the wish of Mr. Rhodes, the Trustees desire that "in the election of a student to a scholarship, regard shall be had to (i) his literary and scholastic attainments, (ii) his fondness for and success in manly out-door sports, such as cricket, football, and the like, (iii) his qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, sympathy for and protection of the weak, kindness, unselfishness and fellowship, and (iv) his exhibition during school-days of moral force of character, and of instincts to lead and to take an interest in his schoolmates.” Mr. Rhodes suggested that (i) and (ii) should be decided in any school or college by the votes of fellow-students, and (iv) by the Head of the school or college.

Where circumstances render it impracticable to carry out the letter of these suggestions, the Trustee hopes that every effort will be made to give effect to their spirit, but desires it to be understood that the final decision must rest with the Committee of Selection.

7. To aid in making a choice, each candidate should therefore be required to furnish to the Chairman of the Committee of Selection—

(a) A certificate of age.
(b) A certificate from his school or college that he has been selected as the candidate for that school or college who best fulfills the ideas of Mr. Rhodes’s bequest.
(c) A statement from his school or college of the grounds upon which he was chosen, including his educational qualifications, his record in athletics, and such testimonials from his masters at school and his professors at college, in reference to the qualities indicated by Mr. Rhodes, as seem best adapted to guide the judgment of the Committee of Selection.

8. Should it seem advisable, the Committee of Selection is free to apply to the candidates, or to any selected number of them, such further intellectual or other tests as they may consider necessary.

9. The Chairman of the Committee of Selection will at once notify to the Trustees or their agent the name of the elected scholar, and will forward to Mr. F. J. Wylie, The Rhodes Trust, Oxford, all the credentials and testimonials relating to scholarship and character on which the selection was made.

10. The elected scholar will then be furnished by the Chairman of the Committee of Selection with a Memorandum, prepared by the representative of the Trustees at Oxford, of the steps necessary to be taken to have his name enrolled at one of the Colleges of the University.

11. The scholarship will be paid in four quarterly installments, the first on beginning residence at Oxford, and thereafter terminally on the certificate of the College that the work and conduct of a student have been satisfactory. Without such a certificate the scholarship lapses. A scholarship which lapses either from the failure of a student to secure this College certificate, from resignation, from marriage, or from any other cause, will not be filled up till the year in which it would have otherwise expired. This provision is made in order to interfere with the rota of succeeding scholars.

proposals, of the usual latitude, needfulness and likelihood, and (II) his exhibition among trial days of some of his evidence sort of brother in arms and to take an interest in the Winchester. The ball is required that the student should be designated at any school or college by the advice of instructors and that it is as Head of the school or college.

When a candidate has a certificate to carry and the letter of these suggestions, the Committee is to have a letter not to the Dean of the College, that he may be given satisfaction there. But it must be understood that the final decision must be with the Committee on Selection.

7. To be in making a choice, such candidates should therefore be required to furnish to the Chairman of the Committee on Selection—

(a) A certificate of Character.

(b) A statement from his school or college upon which he was selected indicating the reasons for his selection and such testimonials from the masters at school and his professors at college, in reference to the candidate indicated by Mr. Whalen, as seem to be adapted to guide the judgment of the Committee on Selection.

8. Should it seem advisable, the Committee on Selection is free to apply to the candidates, or any selected persons of those so further by evidence or other tests as they may deem necessary.

9. The Chairman of the Committee on Selection will at once apply to the faculty or their agent the names of the elected number, and will forward to Mr. I. J. Wyllie, The Bishop's Trust, Oxford, the testimonials and character and a statement relating to the election and mode of election of the candidates.

10. The elected should then be informed by the Chairman of the Committee of his election, and the proper officials and secretaries, after they have been appointed, to be notified at once of the candidates of the election and mode of election.
