Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Dr. Judson:

By this mail I am sending you with peculiar pleasure a copy of the Scandinavian Element in the United States which I took the liberty of dedicating to four men whose interest and helpfulness made the work possible—"and the name of Abou ben Adhem led all the rest". It is almost twenty-five years to a day since I turned to the study of Scandinavian immigration at your suggestion during my fellowship year at the University of Minnesota. The large circular or questionary on the subject of "Scandinavian Settlements in the Northwest" bears the date of April 25, 1890. Whatever merits or demerits this child of my earlier years may have, you will have to share some measure of the responsibility as a godfather! The dedication may look very formal, but all around it in the vacant space in the copy which I send you are unseen characters which spell renewal of the appreciation of your friendship and inspiration.

Most sincerely yours,

Thank you for your note of the 19th.

I have read my sick leave of your draft. I am much interested in the letter, and am especially pleased that my name appears more than a name. It is George.

Yours since we more working together in Illinois.
