Scope Note

This collection contains Albert Alexander Gray's (1868-1936) Atlas of Otology: Illustrating the Normal and Pathological Anatomy of the Temporal Bone (Glasgow: Maclehose, Jackson & Co., 1924-1933), in two volumes published nine years apart. The volumes were presented to the Crerar Library by the Chicago Laryngological and Otological Society circa May 1934, with the first volume signed by Joseph C. Beck (dates unknown) and the second by Robert Sonnenschein (1879-1939). Each volume contains 92 labeled figures in the form of mounted photographs, as well as descriptions of the figures on the opposing page, in print.
