Biographical Note

Dr. Robert Sonnenschein (1879-1939) was a physician and professor of laryngology and otology at Rush Medical College from 1924-1939. His research focused on the history of medicine and methods of hearing detection. Sonnenschein was also an avid collector and scholar of medical history.

Scope Note

The collection contains Dr. Robert Sonnenschein's collections of bookplates, portraits and other documents of medical history. Also include is research in medicine and medical history, as well as correspondence related to Sonnenschein's book collection and other medical history collections.

Series I: Personal Papers, contains typescripts and reprints of research in medicine and medical history. Also included is correspondence documenting the development of Sonnenschein's medical history collections, such as invoices and catalogues from book dealers. This series spans 1920-1952, but includes many undated items.

Series II: Bookplates, contains Sonnenschein's bookplate collection, as well as related notes, index cards and labels. Included are personal bookplates of physicians, and bookplates of institutions such as medical schools and libraries. Most bookplates are undated, but generally date from the nineteenth century and early twentieth century. Some of the bookplates are matted or mounted on paper and organized alphabetically, while others are unsorted. Many of the bookplates are graphically striking. Some represent humorous or sexualized caricatures of physicians, and others make use of the memento mori tradition in representing the physician's relationship to life and death.

Series III: Portraits, contains Sonnenschein's collection of portraits of physicians and scientists. Also included is a partial index of the collection. Portraits are arranged alphabetically. Most are undated, spanning the sixteenth century through the early twentieth century. Portraits are in a variety of formats, including photographs, lithographs, engravings and woodcuts. Some appear to be frontispieces or other illustrations removed from books.

Series IV: General, contains a variety of medical history documents from the nineteenth century-195s, including photographs of physicians, a B. Heroux design for a bookplate for Dr. Max Frank, a watercolor and calligraphy artwork given by Michael Reese Hospital interns as a New Year greeting, and an 1802 letter from the eccentric dentist Martin van Butchell.
