Abstract Jean Bethke Elshtain (1941-2013) was a political theorist, ethicist, author, and public intellectual. She was the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Professor of Social and Political Ethics with joint appointments at the Divinity School, the Department of Political Science, and the Committee on International Relations at the University of Chicago. The collection includes personal ephemera; correspondence; subject files; materials related to her writings and speaking engagements; university administrative and teaching materials; records documenting Elshtain's activities in professional, nonprofit, and governmental organizations; awards; photographs; audio and video recordings; and posters. Materials date between 1935 and 2017, with the bulk of the material dating between 1950 and 2013. The papers primarily document Elshtain's career in academia as a political theorist, and her activities as a public intellectual called upon to address issues related to feminism, war, and political ethics.

Biographical Note

Jean Bethke Elshtain was born on January 6, 1941 to Paul and Helen Bethke in Windsor, Colorado. She grew up in Tinmath, Colorado, a small farming community north of Denver. She was the eldest of five children, and was active in the local 4-H Club and Future Homemakers of America. At the age of 10, Jean contracted polio and was moved to Denver for treatment. Her mother obtained a job at the hospital in order to be near to her daughter, and eventually Jean was brought home to recuperate and learn to walk again. She graduated from Cache La Poudre High School in 1959.

Jean went on to earn an A.B. in history at Colorado State University in 1963, and an M.A. in history at the University of Wisconsin, Madison in 1964. She was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow from 1963 to 1964, and earned a second M.A. in history at the University of Colorado in 1965.

She married Errol L. Elshtain on September 5, 1965. They raised five children: Sheri, Heidi, Jenny, Eric, and Bobby (three from an earlier marriage, and one a grandchild).

In 1973, Elshtain received her Ph.D. in Political Science at Brandeis University. Elshtain taught as an instructor in history at Colorado State University (1965-1966), and was a lecturer in political science at Northeastern University, Boston while working on her dissertation (1972-1973), "Women and Politics: A Theoretical Analysis."

Elshtain joined the faculty of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in 1973 as an instructor, and worked her way up to assistant professor (1973-1976), associate professor (1976-1982), and then professor of political science (1982-1988). She left the University of Massachusetts in 1988 to become the first woman to hold an endowed professorship at Vanderbilt University. She joined Vanderbilt University as Centennial Professor of Political Science and was appointed as professor of philosophy in 1989. While there, she directed the Center for Social and Political Thought from 1991 to 1994, and led seminars at the Robert Penn Warren Center for the Humanities.

After a visiting professorship at Harvard University in 1994, Elshtain was appointed in 1995 as the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Professor of Social and Political Ethics in the Divinity School at the University of Chicago. She later held joint appointments in the Department of Political Science and the Committee on International Relations. Elshtain remained on the faculty at the University of Chicago until her death in 2013.

Throughout her career, Elshtain was a visiting professor at numerous institutions, including Smith College, Yale University, Oberlin College, Harvard University, Baylor University, and Georgetown University.

In addition to her active teaching career, Elshtain was a prolific writer and public speaker. She published more than 500 scholarly articles, occasional and opinion pieces, and reviews in a wide range of periodicals and books. Elshtain authored more than a dozen books, including Public Man, Private Woman: Women in Social and Political Thought (1981); Women and War (1987); Democracy on Trial (1993); Augustine and the Limits of Politics (1996); Who Are We? Critical Reflections and Hopeful Possibilities. Politics and Ethical Discourse (2000); Jane Addams and the Dream of American Democracy (2002); Just War against Terror: The Burden of American Power in a Violent World (2003); and Sovereignty: God, State, Self (2008). She maintained a rigorous public speaking schedule and was invited to lecture or comment upon topics related to feminism, bioethics, political ethics, the place of religion in modern society and in democracy, and war. A devout Christian, Elshtain was unafraid to incorporate theology and the history of religion into her discussions of contemporary events and politics.

Following the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks on the United States, her writings on St. Augustine and the Just War doctrine prompted the George W. Bush administration to include her among a group of scholars and religious figures invited to the White House to meet with the President. The Just War doctrine was later used to support the U.S. invasion of Iraq, and Elshtain was a public supporter of the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. Additionally, Elshtain was appointed to the Council of the National Endowment for the Humanities (2006-2013) and to the President's Council on Bioethics (2008). She also served on the board of the National Humanities Center (1996-2013), the board of the National Endowment for Democracy (2003-2011), and the Scholars Council of the Library of Congress (2001-2013).

Elshtain received many prestigious appointments, fellowships, and awards throughout her lifetime, including nine honorary degrees. She co-directed the PEW Forum on Religious and Public Life (2001-2004), and was on the boards of the Institute for Advanced Study (1994-1996) and the Institute for American Values (1994-2008). She was a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences (1996), and a Guggenheim Fellow (1991-1992). She held the Cary and Ann Maguire Chair in Ethics and American History at the Library of Congress (2003), and was a Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar (1997-1998). In 2002 Elshtain was given the Frank J. Goodnow Award by the American Political Science Association, the highest honor bestowed by that organization. She delivered the esteemed Gifford Lectures at the University of Edinburgh in 2005-2006, which led to her final major work, Sovereignty: God, State, and Self.

Jean Bethke Elshtain died in Nashville, Tennessee on August 11, 2013.

Scope Note

The Jean Bethke Elshtain Papers are organized into eleven series:

Series I: Personal

Subseries 1: General Personal Ephemera

Subseries 2: Education

Subseries 3: Curriculum Vitae, Calendars, and Itineraries

Series II: Correspondence

Series III: Subject Files

Series IV: Writings by Others

Series V: Writings

Subseries 1: Articles and Essays

Subseries 2: Speaking Engagements

Subseries 3: Books

Series VI: Teaching

Series VII: Professional Organizations

Series VIII: Honors and Awards

Series IX: Audiovisual

Series X: Oversize

Series XI: Restricted

The collection includes personal ephemera; material documenting Elshtain's education; calendars and itineraries; correspondence; subject files; writings by others given to or collected by Elshtain; writings about Elshtain; writings quoting or citing Elshtain; materials related to the creation and publication of her articles and books; materials related to her extensive speaking engagements; administrative and teaching materials from Colorado State University, the University of Massachusetts Amherst, Vanderbilt University, and the University of Chicago; records documenting Elshstain's activities in professional, nonprofit, and governmental organizations; awards; photographs; audio and video recordings; and posters. Materials date between 1935 and 2017, with the bulk of the material dating between 1950 and 2013. The papers primarily document Elshstain's career in academia as a political theorist, and her activities as a public intellectual called upon to address issues related to feminism, war, and political ethics.

Series I, Personal, is divided into three subseries:

Subseries 1, General Personal Ephemera, includes a small amount of material related to family members, scrapbooks and clippings about Elshstain's childhood activities in the 4-H Club and the Future Homemakers of America, notes and notebooks, travel ephemera, biographical information, phone messages, photographs, and mementoes. This material is arranged chronologically, with undated material gathered alphabetically at the end of the subseries.

Subseries 2, Education, contains Elshstain's schoolwork from 1957 through university. This includes material for her dissertation, "Women and Politics: A Theoretical Analysis," at Brandeis University, as well as diplomas and commencement programs. Materials are arranged chronologically.

Subseries 3, Curriculum Vitae, Calendars, and Itineraries, contains iterations of Elshstain's curriculum vitae from 1974 through 2012, and calendars and itineraries documenting Elshstain's writing, speaking, and teaching activities predominately during the 1990s and 2000s. Materials are arranged by type, then chronologically.

Series II, Correspondence, contains Elshstain's personal and professional correspondence from 1951 to 2013. The bulk of the correspondence is arranged chronologically. Correspondence that Elshstain had maintained topically or by name of correspondent is gathered alphabetically at the end of the series. Correspondence may also be found throughout the collection, especially in Series V (Writings), VI (Teaching), and VII (Professional Organizations). Researchers interested in correspondence related to Elshstain's publications, speaking engagements, and professional activities should also consult these series.

Series III, Subject Files, consists of reference and research materials gathered by Elshstain, presumably for her teaching, writing, and lecturing. Some personal subjects - such as Post-Polio - are included. This includes clippings, publications, notes, photographs, and correspondence. Materials are arranged alphabetically by subject.

Series IV, Writings by Others, contains published works, drafts, proofs, and offprints written by others, but not arranged topically by Elshtain like the material in Series III, Subject Files. Books annotated by Elshtain are found in this series. Also included in this series are clippings and publications about Elshtain and her work, or works that quote or cite Elshtain. Writings by others are organized alphabetically by author (or title if the author is unidentified) at the beginning of the series. This is followed by articles about Elshtain arranged chronologically, then articles quoting or citing Elshtain arranged chronologically.

Series V, Writings, is divided into three subseries:

Subseries 1, Articles and Essays, contains notes, outlines, drafts, proofs, relevant correspondence, contracts, offprints, and published copies of articles, essays, reviews, and book chapters written by Elshtain. Materials are arranged chronologically, with the exception of Elshtain's two-year column for The New Republic, "Hard Questions." All materials for "Hard Questions," dating 1996-1998, are grouped together starting in 1996 when the column began. Undated articles are arranged alphabetically at the end of the subseries, as well as a grouping of photocopied articles collected by Elshtain that have been left in their original order.

Subseries 2, Speaking Engagements, contains notes, outlines, drafts, transcriptions, proofs, offprints, contracts, correspondence, publicity, programs, and records of travel arrangements pertaining to Elshtain's speeches, talks, and other lectures beyond her university teaching responsibilities. Materials in this subseries are arranged by year, then alphabetically by the name of the entity who invited Elshtain to speak or the occasion. Undated lectures are grouped alphabetically at the end.

Subseries 3, Books, contains proposals, research materials, notes, drafts, contracts, correspondence, proofs, annotated copies, publicity, and reviews of book-length works written by Elshtain. Materials are arranged alphabetically by title, then chronologically.

Series VI, Teaching, documents Elshtain's teaching career at Northeastern University Boston, Colorado State University, University of Massachusetts Amherst, Vanderbilt University, and the University of Chicago. Some records of visiting professorships at Harvard University, Baylor University, Iliff School of Theology, Universidad Internacional Menendez Pelayo, and Georgetown University are also found in this series. The series includes syllabi, course notes, readings, exam questions, rosters, and other course materials. It also contains administrative material such as reports, correspondence, and documents gathered to support Elshtain's annual report of her professional activities. Materials pertaining to the University of Chicago's "A New Science of Virtues" project, begun in 2010, for which Elshtain was a co-principal investigator are found here. Records of the University of Chicago's four-part interdisciplinary conference series, "Jean Bethke Elshtain: The Engaged Mind," which honored Elshtain's scholarly career, are also included in this series. Materials are arranged chronologically, with some teaching materials at the end that could not be definitively tied to a specific teaching position.

Series VII, Professional Organizations, contains records documenting Elshstain's activities in professional associations, think tanks, academic institutions beyond her employment, foundations, and governmental organizations, and on editorial boards of scholarly journals. The records reflect Elshstain's roles in these organizations as advisor, board member or trustee, committee or council member. Note that published articles or invited lectures for these organizations are found in Series V, Writings. Materials are arranged alphabetically by name of organization, then chronologically.

Series VIII, Honors and Awards, is arranged chronologically and includes correspondence, programs, drafts of remarks, photographs, travel itineraries, publicity, and other records pertinent to honorary degrees and awards given to Elshstain.

Series IX, Audiovisual, contains photographs, audiocassette tapes, videotapes, CDs, and DVDs. Materials are arranged by type, then chronologically. This series does not include access copies for the audio and video recordings. Researchers will need to consult with staff before requesting these items. The audio and video recordings date primarily from 1984 to 2008 and are mostly recordings of lectures and interviews given by Elshstain. Some of the audio recordings, however, appear to be personal travelogues or notetaking for Elshstain's research into topics such as the Madres de Plaza de Mayo and Jane Addams.

Series X, Oversize, contains oversized photographs, drawings, newspapers, and posters.

Series XI, Restricted, contains confidential university administrative material, personnel records, letters of recommendation, manuscript referee reports, evaluations of fellowship and funding applications, award nominations, evaluative student material, and expert opinion reports for a civil action case. Records in Box 228 are restricted for thirty years from date of record creation. Records in Boxes 229-232 are restricted for fifty years from date of record creation. Records in Boxes 233-236 are restricted for eighty years from date of record creation. Records in Box 237 are restricted indefinitely.
