Biographical Note

Edgar Johnson Goodspeed was born in Quincy, Illinois on October 23, 1871, son of Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed, one of the original incorporators of the University of Chicago. After graduation with the final preparatory class at the Old University of Chicago in 1886, he entered Denison University and received his B.A. degree in 1890. He then studied Semitics under William Rainey Harper at Yale for one year. Goodspeed returned to Chicago to teach classical languages at the Morgan Park Academy (1891-1892), and at the South Side Academy (1894-1898). Meanwhile, in 1892, he had entered the University of Chicago as a post-graduate fellow. He received his D.B. from the University in 1897, and his Ph.D. in 1898, the same year he joined the faculty as a teacher of Biblical and Patristic Greek. In 1923, after having firmly established himself as one of the leading papyrologists and experts on New Testament Greek in this country, he published his New Testament--An American Translation which caused an immediate and nationwide sensation. The same year he was appointed chairman of the New Testament Department and served until his retirement from the University in 1937.

Upon retirement, Goodspeed and his wife, the former Elfleda Bond, daughter of Joseph Bond, the noted Chicago industrialist, moved to the Bel-Air section of Los Angeles, California, where he lectured for the University of California-Los Angeles from 1938 to 1942 while continuing his writing and scholarship. He was also Richards Lecturer at the University of Virginia in 1939, and a Lecturer in Biblical Literature at Scripps College from 1941 to 1942. From 1930 to 1946 he served on the American Standard Bible Committee under the direction of Luther Weigle from Yale, which published the Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

During his lifetime he wrote 64 books, collaborated on 16 others, and published 189 major articles and countless reviews.

Edgar Goodspeed died in Los Angeles on January 13, 1962.

INVENTORY

Series I: Correspondence

Series I has been further divided into three Subseries, Subseries 1: Professional, Subseries 2: Personal and Family, and Subseries 3: Miscellaneous.

Subseries 1: Professional, is primarily made up of letters from publishers and colleagues. Among the correspondents in this section are Ellery Sedgwick, Edith Rockefeller-McCormick, Richard M. Nixon, Everett Dirksen, John W. Bricker, Frederick Kenyon, Archibald MacLeish, Robert A. Millikan, Len Small, Frank Lowden, and Robert A. Taft. This subseries is organized alphabetically.

Subseries 2: Family and Personal, is largely made up of correspondence of Goodspeed and his wife with his brother, Charles Ten Broeke Goodspeed. There is also correspondence between Edgar and his parents, as well as some early letters of Mary Ellen Ten Broeke (Goodspeed's mother) and George S. Goodspeed dating from 1853 to 1881. Other family and personal correspondence can be found in Series V, Box 47 Folders 20-21 and Box 48 Folder 1. Subseries 2 is organized chronologically.

Subseries 3: Miscellaneous, is also arranged chronologically, and consists of routine "fan" and "crank" mail, inquiries from readers, invitations to speak, and acknowledgements.
