Biographical Note

Harry Hansen was born in Davenport, Iowa, December 26, 1884. After graduating from high school, he became telegraph editor for the Davenport Republican. While his Papers contain few documents from this period, letters from numerous Davenport correspondents, Hansen's return for speeches, and occasional writing for the Iowa State Historical Society bulletin show his continuing interest in the city of his birth.

Hansen came to Chicago to study English at the University of Chicago and was awarded his Ph. B. in 1909. He remained at the University until 1911 as alumni secretary and editor of the University Magazine.

In 1911, Hansen became a reporter for the Chicago Daily News, and in 1914 he was sent to Germany to cover World War I. His attendance at the Paris Peace Conference in 1919 led to the first of more than fifteen books, The Adventures of the Fourteen Points.

Returning to Chicago, Hansen became literary editor for the Daily News, a position he held until 1926. He then moved to New York where he was literary critic for the New York World and New York World-Telegram until 1949, and a reviewer for Harper's Magazine from 1923 to 1939 and for Redbook from 1940 to 1950. He edited the annual O. Henry Prize collection of short stories from 1933 to 1940. From 1949 to 1965 he edited The World Almanac published by the World-Telegram. He became vice-president of the publishing firm Hastings House in 1965. He died January 2, 1977.

Scope Note

The Harry Hansen Papers consist of letters to Hansen, manuscripts by him, reviews and production notes of his books, and an extensive collection of clippings of his book review column, "The First Reader," and other short writings.

Series I contains materials from his foreign correspondence for the Chicago Daily News during World War I, including clippings, correspondence, photographs, and notes.

Series II contains manuscripts and materials relating to his book-length works, including notes, reviews, and some correspondence. This series also includes collected clippings of Hansen's book review columns for both the Chicago Daily News and Harper's.

Series III contains additional clippings of book reviews and other articles by Hansen published in a variety of newspapers and periodicals. It also includes writings by others, research and notes on a variety of subjects, and other materials relating to Hansen's work as editor, reviewer, and author.

Series IV contains memorabilia from Hansen's years at the University of Chicago; of particular interest are the photographs and printed ephemera stemming from his active participation in the Blackfriars.

Series V contains the bulk of correspondence in the collection as well as biographical materials, including photos, Hansen's own autobiographical notes, and various publications about Hansen. The correspondence in this series and in Series II includes letters from authors whose work Hansen reviewed, editors, publishers, and other literary colleagues, as well as from readers and fans of Hansen's journalism and books. Also included with the correspondence in Series V are personal cards and letters and a few invitations, programs, and conference schedules. Photocopies of short letters from Ernest Hemingway, F. Scott Fitzgerald, and Harry Truman are contained in Box 22 of Series V.

Series VI contains oversize material from Series I through V. This includes maps and additional clippings from Hansen's World War I reporting, numerous book reviews (both regular columns and single reviews), newspaper and magazine articles by Hansen and others, research and clippings on various subjects, promotional materials for Hansen's work, additional biographical materials, and additional memorabilia from the University of Chicago, including Blackfriars scores.
