Abstract Robert L. McCaul, Jr. was Professor of Education at the University of Chicago, and a scholar of John Dewey and of the history of public education in Illinois. The collection contains correspondence, research materials, material regarding the 1969 student sit-in at the University of Chicago, and drafts of several books. Material dates from 1900 to 1994, with the bulk dating between 1963 and 1991.

Information on Use

Access

Material in Series VII, boxes 29-37 is restricted until 2025. Material in box 38 is restricted for 80 years from the date of creation.

Citation

When quoting material from this collection, the preferred citation is: McCaul, Robert L., Jr. Papers, [Box #, Folder #], Special Collections Research Center, University of Chicago Library.

Biographical Note

Robert L. McCaul, Jr. was born May 29, 1913 in Waltham, Massachusetts. He studied Classics at Boston College from 1929 to 1932 and then went on to Harvard College where he received his Bachelor's degree in English Language and Literature in 1935. McCaul completed a Master of Education degree at Harvard in 1937 and worked for several years in the Waltham public schools and then at the Laboratory School at the University of Chicago.

In 1940 McCaul married Isabel Ruth Sheehan. The couple had two sons, Robert L. III, Edward, and a daughter Margaret who died in 1974.

From 1946 to 1954 McCaul was Assistant Professor of English at the University of Chicago, and during that time also completed a PhD in History of Education at the University. In 1954 he received an appointment as Assistant Professor in the Department of Education, where he taught until retiring in 1978.

In addition to teaching, McCaul served on the Board of Editors of the School Review from 1962 to 1967 and as Vice-President and President of the History of Education Society from 1965 to 1967.

McCaul's research interests include the early history of American education, the life and work of John Dewey, minorities in American history and American education, power in American society, and the usefulness of newspapers for historical research. Notable publications include The Black Struggle for Public Schooling in Nineteenth Century Illinois, published in 1987, "Annotated List of Chicago Tribune Editorials on Elementary and Secondary Education in the U. S., 1852-1900," Annotated List of Chicago Tribune Editorials on Elementary and Secondary Education in the U. S., 1852-1971 (both with Peter DeBoer), and several articles on John Dewey and on education in Colonial Georgia.

McCaul died July 23, 1994 in Chicago.

Scope Note

The collection contains a detailed personal journal, correspondence, research materials, and drafts of several books. It is divided into 7 Series.

Series I, Personal, contains personal items, biographical information and curriculum vitae, arranged alphabetically.

Series II, Correspondence, contains general correspondence, arranged alphabetically by correspondent, and a collection of greeting cards arranged chronologically.

Series III, University of Chicago, contains material from McCaul's time as a professor at the University. It is divided into two subseries. Subseries 1, Administrative, contains memoranda relating to a dean search and other Education Department and general University business. In addition, the series contains collected flyers, newsletters, memoranda, and other material reflecting and discussing the political climate on the U of C campus in the late 1960s. Much of the material has to do with the 1969 student sit-in in the University Administration building, the University's Kalven Report, and subsequent disciplinary actions taken against students. Subseries 2, Teaching, contains course materials – largely reading lists, article photocopies, and bibliographic notes.

Series IV, Research, contains notes, photocopies and transcriptions of source material (mostly correspondence of and concerning John Dewey), and other research materials not housed with particular book or article drafts. It also includes articles by others which clearly related to McCaul's research interests, and the typescripts of two autobiographical works by Margaret A. Haley.

Series V, Writings and Speeches, contains book and article manuscripts, texts of speeches and talks, notes, correspondence relating to specific works, and some research material. Material is arranged alphabetically by the title of the work, and material for each work is arranged chronologically. One of McCaul's large-scale works, The Black Struggle for Public Schooling in Nineteenth Century Illinois, had several working titles. Material relating to this book is labelled and alphabetized according to the working title on the manuscript, typescript, correspondence, or original folder. The final title is also indicated in the folder headings. In many cases, McCaul's files and correspondence merely referred to the work as [The] Struggle for Schooling; material so labelled retains that labelling here.

Series VI, Microfilm, contains a microfilm roll of what appears to be correspondence and portrait photographs of McCaul.

Series VII, Restricted, contains evaluative material pertaining to McCaul's students, restricted for 80 years from date of creation. It also contains McCaul's personal journal: roughly 9 boxes' worth of loose-leaf typed pages and carbon copies detailing his activities and preoccupations as a professor in the mid-1960s. Among the journal pages McCaul placed clippings, booklets, memos, and other materials. The journal is restricted until 2025.
