Historical Note

Native American Educational Service (NAES) was established in 1974 as a post-secondary education program for American Indian students through a bi-lateral agreement with Antioch College. NAES aimed to cultivate leaders for Native American communities to ensure that tribal knowledge, traditions, and values were present in the higher education of Native students.

NAES became a candidate for accreditation in 1978 and was fully accredited in 1984 under authorization of the State of Illinois Board of Higher Education, the Minnesota Higher Education Coordinating Board, the Fort Peck Assiniboine and Sioux Tribes, and the Menominee Nation. The school offered coursework leading to the Bachelor of Arts in Community Studies, which focused on Native American tribal and community knowledge, community development, and community leadership. The main NAES campus was located in Chicago, IL and there were permanent study sites in Minneapolis, MN, on the Menominee Reservation (WI), and on the Northern Cheyenne Reservation and Fort Peck Reservation (MT).

NAES' Chicago campus ceased operation in 2007. The collection contains papers found in the NAES library archives, including papers from other American Indian organizations.

Scope Note

This collection is organized into five series.

Series I contains papers related to the Native American Educational Service and its various campuses. The series is divided into six subseries.

Series II contains papers related to the American Indian Center of Chicago. The series is divided into five subseries.

Series III contains papers from the NAES archives related to other American Indian organizations. These organizations include the American Indian Business Association, the American Indian Council of Illinois, the American Indian Economic Development Association, American Indian Health Service, the Anawim Center, the California Indian Manpower Consortium, Inc., Chicago's Native American Urban Indian Retreat, the Indian Council Fire, the Indian Treaty Rights Committee, the Native American Committee, Inc., and additional organizations. This series is divided into 11 subseries.

Series IV contains oversize material such as NAES event posters and artwork.

Series V contains three restricted folders with evaluative, medical, and financial information.

INVENTORY

Series I: Native American Educational Service

Series I is divided into six subseries.

Subseries 1 contains administrative material pertaining to NAES. This material includes reports, minutes, notes, self-studies, organizational charts, histories, handbooks, and directories.

Subseries 2 contains material pertaining to classes and education, events, and conferences. The subseries contains papers related to the NAES Chicago campus, Twin Cities campus, and Ft. Peck campus. This material contains college catalogs, course listings, course syllabi, event calendars, conference materials, and speeches. The subseries also includes material concerning an NAES partnership with Korean American Educational Service (KAES). This collection contains papers related to the operation of the Chicago Campus of NAES College. These include the campus bookstore's financial reports and staff records as well as Chicago Campus course materials and class schedules.

Subseries 3 contains correspondence. The correspondence in this subseries spans from the years 1983-2000.

Subseries 4 contains financial documents. The material in this subseries includes budgets, grant announcements, tax papers, and other fiscal statements.

Subseries 5 contains NAES-related articles and promotional material. The subseries contains photos, brochures, flyers, news clippings, and an NAES t-shirt.

Subseries 6 contains a collection of publications by an assortment of American Indian organizations. The collection includes informational newsletters, pamphlets, and more formal periodicals.

Series II: American Indian Center

Series II contains papers from the American Indian Center of Chicago (AIC). The AIC was founded in 1953 and remains the oldest urban-based Native membership community center in the United States. The AIC was formed to serve the needs of Chicago's urban American Indian community following the relocation of reservation communities to the city under the Indian Relocation program of the 1950s. The series contains material related to the founding of the AIC and its development, struggles, and success as a cultural and community resource for Chicago's American Indian community. The series is divided into five subseries.

Subseries 1 contains administrative material pertaining to the AIC. The subseries includes reports and minutes from the AIC Board of Directors and various AIC committees. The subseries also contains histories of the center and its by-laws.

Subseries 2 contains papers and records pertaining to AIC events. The subseries contains calendars and records of events and activities that the AIC hosted during the 1950s as well as more recent records. Much of this material relates to the planning and promotion of an annual AIC powwow.

Subseries 3 contains correspondence. The correspondence in this subseries spans from years preceding the AIC's founding through 1993.

Subseries 4 contains financial documents. The material in this subseries includes budgets, grant proposals, extensive audit reports, and other fiscal records.

Subseries 5 contains AIC-related articles and promotional material. The subseries contains an AIC coloring book, clip art, photos, posters, flyers, and many news clippings.

Series III: Related Organizations

Series III contains material from the NAES library archives that originated with other American Indian organizations. The series is divided into 11 subseries.

Subseries 1 contains material from the American Indian Business Association (AIBA). The AIBA was organized as a consortium of ten Illinois American Indian organizations with a purpose of providing integrated training and employment for American Indians in Illinois and Indiana. This subseries contains training material, financial reports, administrative material, and also material related to Department of Labor audits and sanctions.

Subseries 2 contains material from the American Indian Council of Illinois (AICI). The AICI was founded in 1995 as a representative council of American Indian communities for the purpose of promoting the political and social well-being of American Indian communities in Illinois through advocacy for inclusion, representation, and non-discrimination. Subseries 3 contains various administrative and promotional material.

Subseries 3 contains material from the American Indian Economic Development Association (AIEDA). AIEDA was incorporated in 1985 in order to increase the self-sufficiency of the Chicago American Indian community through job creation, improvement of job programs, increased access to credit, and the establishment of a system of economic development compatible and consistent with the American Indian culture and community. The subseries contains correspondence, financial material, articles, and flyers.

Subseries 4 contains material from the American Indian Health Service (AIHS). AIHS was a nonprofit community health center organized in 1974. It was designed to meet the health care needs of Native Americans in Chicago by providing health services with an emphasis on family oriented care for patients of all ages. The subseries contains correspondence, administrative material, promotional materials, handbooks, and manuals.

Subseries 5 contains material from the Anawim Center. Founded in the early 1980s, the Anawim Center was a spiritual center that combined Native American and Catholic spirituality. The Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago began sponsoring the organization in 1987. The subseries contains correspondence, event calendars and flyers, articles, and newsletters.

Subseries 6 contains material from the California Indian Manpower Consortium, Inc. (CIMC). The CIMC was created in 1978 as a nonprofit corporation with an aim to promote the educational and economic advancement of American Indians. The primary purpose of the consortium is to offer training, employment, and other activities designed to meet the employment and training needs of its client population and to build economically self-sufficient American Indian communities in rural, reservation, and urban areas. The subseries contains administrative material, training handbooks, and promotional flyers.

Subseries 7 contains material from Chicago's Native American Urban Indian Retreat (CNAUIR). CNAUIR was founded as a spiritually-based, nonprofit organization in August, 1994 with a mission to empower Urban Indians in Chicago to maintain their spiritual and cultural identities, inter-tribal diversity, and communal lifestyle through education, spiritual and community gatherings, and cultural events. This subseries contains material pertaining to classes on positive Indian parenting and storytelling, A.A. meetings, GED tutoring, talking circles, and monthly potluck dinners. The founders of CNAUIR include members of Chicago's inter-tribal community. CNAUIR did not maintain a membership and raised money through government grants, church assistance, private assistance, corporate foundation grants, and community fundraising events. The subseries contains reports, newsletters, and various promotional materials.

Subseries 8 contains material from the Indian Council Fire (ICF). Since 1933 the ICF has presented the prestigious annual Indian Achievement Award to American Indian luminaries such as Charles Eastman (1933), Henry Roe Cloud (1935), Ella C. Deloria (1945), Evelyn Yellowrobe Finkbeiner (1947), Vine Deloria Sr. (1954), Ben Reifel (1960), Vine Deloria, Jr. (1972), Juan de Jesus Romero (1974), Alfonso Ortiz (1982), Ada Deer (1984), John Echohawk (1987), and Wilma Mankiller (1988). The subseries contains biographical information of awardees and nominees, speeches and programs from award dinners, papers pertaining to the voting and judging process, correspondence, publications, and administrative material.

Subseries 9 contains material from the Indian Treaty Rights Committee (ITRC). The ITRC worked to inform law and policy makers, organize within the Chicago Indian community, act as a liaison between the American Indian community and church and government bodies, and to educate the general public, including religious communities, regarding legal, social, and historical issues of American Indians. The ITRC was organized in 1987 by the Midwest Regional Racial Justice Working Group of the ecumenical National Council of Churches. The subseries contains correspondence, administrative and promotional material, and documents concerning American Indian advocacy in the states of Arizona, Illinois, Washington, and Wisconsin.

Subseries 10 contains material from the Native American Committee, Inc. (NAC). NAC was incorporated in 1970 as a support group for American Indian rights actions throughout the nation. As a community-based and community-controlled not-for-profit, NAC supported programs that promoted the economic, social, cultural, and educational growth of American Indian people. The subseries contains correspondence, administrative and promotional material, financial documents, and conference papers.

Subseries 11 contains material from an assortment of other organizations with limited presence in the collection.
