Abstract Zena Bailey Sutherland (1915-2002) (AB 1937, AM 1958 University of Chicago) was associated with the University of Chicago Graduate Library School throughout her career as faculty and as editor and reviewer for the Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books from 1958 to 1985. Over the course of her career, she reviewed more than 30,000 children's books, for the Bulletin and as children's book editor for the Saturday Review and the Chicago Tribune. She authored six editions of the classic text Children and Books. The Sutherland Papers consist of materials from work in the Graduate Library School, papers regarding her service on the Newbery, Caldecott, and other children's literature award committees, speeches and writings, biographical materials, and correspondence related to her professional work at the University and as editor and author for children's literature.

Acknowledgments

The Zena Bailey Sutherland Papers were processed with the support of a generous gift from Zena B. Sutherland.

Biographical Note

Zena Sutherland was born in Winthrop, Massachusetts in 1915 and raised in Chicago. She graduated from the University of Chicago in 1937 and in 1958 earned a master's degree in library science from the University, intending to pursue a career as a medical librarian. Her experience as a mother of three children inspired her to take several courses in children's literature.

Sutherland was among the world's most influential and prolific scholars of young people's literature. She was associated with the University of Chicago Graduate Library School throughout her career, and served as a faculty member there from 1972 to 1986. She wrote 19 books and reviewed more than 30,000 children's books during more than 40 years as a critic of children's literature. From 1958 until her retirement in 1985, she served as reviewer and editor of the Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books, a comprehensive guide to all the latest literature published for children. She wrote monthly columns as children's books reviewer for the Saturday Review from 1966 to 1972 and also served as children's book editor for the Chicago Tribune. In 1972, she succeeded May Hill Arbuthnot as author of Children and Books, a classic textbook in the field of library science and children's literature for which she produced the fourth through ninth editions.

She served on numerous book award juries including the National Book Award, the Hans Christian Andersen Award, the Jane Addams Book Award, the Laura Ingalls Wilder Award, the Caldecott Award, and the Scott O'Dell Award for Historical Fiction of which she was the permanent chair. As a member of the American Library Association, she was a jurist and member of the Newberry and Caldecott award committees. Sutherland also served on the United States Board of Books for Young People, acting as a children's literary ambassador in South Africa, China, and other countries.

In 1983, two former students used the royalties from a Festschrift in her honor to establish the Zena Sutherland Lecture Series, and the Lab Schools at the University of Chicago also recently established the Zena Sutherland Prize in Children's Literature, which is awarded by children of the School. In 1998 she was awarded the Norman MacLean Faculty Award, and named professor emeritus Zena Sutherland.

Sutherland married Roland Bailey in 1937. They had three children before divorcing in 1961. In 1964, she was remarried to Alec Sutherland, director of broadcasting and head of the Center for Continuing Education at the University of Chicago. Zena B. Sutherland died in Chicago on June 12, 2002.

Scope Note

The Zena Sutherland Papers contain correspondence, manuscripts, teaching materials, research notes, clippings, photographs and audio and video recordings. The Papers are divided into eight series.

Series I: Biographical Materials primarily contains articles and interviews with Sutherland from the 1970s through the 1990s. The series also includes materials related to Celebrating Children's Books, a festschrift published in her honor in 1981, and a small amount of personal correspondence.

Series II: Graduate Library School, primarily contains lecture notes and other materials related to courses taught by Sutherland. A small amount of correspondence and other items related to the GLS are also included.

Series III: General Files, contains files related to organizations with which Sutherland worked and boards on which she served, including the American Library Association, the Children's Reading Round Table, the International Board on Books for Young People and the Scott O'Dell Award Committee. Also in Series III are files on the Zena Sutherland Lecture Series.

Series IV: Correspondence documents Sutherland's career as an educator, author, reviewer and associate of many in the fields of both librarianship and children's book publishing. Among her main correspondents were author Lloyd Alexander, educator Susan Cooper, and editor Ursula Nordstrom. A large number of notable children's book authors are among her correspondents.

Series V: Writings, Speeches and Publications, documents Sutherland's work as author, editor and reviewer. It includes correspondence, manuscripts, clippings, reprints and promotional material for books, articles and speeches. Sutherland's correspondence with publishers is generally included with the files for the publications discussed, but more generally exchanges are in Subseries 4 of Series V.

Series VI: contains clippings and photocopies of articles related to the subjects of Sutherland's teaching and research, organized by subject. Also included are several files of "author profiles," comprising mostly publishers' promotional material and articles about children's literature authors.

Series VII: includes a small number of photographs and recordings of radio or other public appearance by Sutherland.

Series VIII: contains student related material to which access is restricted.
