Biographical Note

Sol Tax was born in Chicago on October 30, 1907 to Morris Paul Tax and Kate (Hanwit) Tax. His family moved to Milwaukee, where Tax received his elementary and secondary education. As a teenager, he participated actively in The Newsboys' Republic, a Milwaukee labor organization for youth; he served as editor of the organization's newspaper, The Newsboys' World, and campaigned vigorously for the offices of President and Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the Newsboy's' Republic, running on The Peoples' Party ticket.

Sol Tax began his undergraduate career at the University of Chicago, entering as a freshman in the spring of 1926; he later transferred to the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and in his junior year at Wisconsin changed his major from economics to anthropology. At Madison, Tax studied closely with the anthropologist Ralph Linton, and in 1931 graduated with a Ph. B. degree in anthropology.

While still an undergraduate, Tax joined an archaeological expedition sponsored by the Logan Museum, spending the spring of 1930 at a dig in Algeria, and the summer and fall touring prehistoric sites in Europe; his first publication, "An Algerian Passover," (The American Hebrew, April 1931), comes from this period. In the summer of 1931 Tax participated in a group fieldwork project at the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation (New Mexico), under the sponsorship of the Southwestern Laboratory of Anthropology. The project was directed by Ruth Benedict, with linguistic studies supervised by Harry Hoijer.

Tax began graduate work at the University of Chicago in the fall of 1931; his M.A. thesis, "The Social Organization of the Fox Indians," was completed in 1932, and in 1935 Tax received the Ph.D. Tax's M.A. and PhD research were directed by A. R. Radcliffe-Brown, the dominant figure in Social Anthropology at the time. While at Chicago, Tax also participated in Beardsley Ruml's "Dean's Seminar" with Mortimer Adler and Robert Redfield. It was with Redfield that Tax established a lasting professional association. Redfield guided Tax's ethnological work in Guatemala, starting in 1934, and the two soon became colleagues both in Middle American ethnology and in the Department of Anthropology at the University of Chicago. Tax served as ethnologist for the Carnegie Institution of Washington from 1934 to 1948, during the period of his intensive fieldwork in the Lake Atitlan region of Highland Guatemala. Over the years from 1934 to 1958, the year of Redfield's death, Sol Tax and Robert Redfield produced a voluminous correspondence, documenting a long and fruitful intellectual dialogue between the two men.

In 1940, while still affiliated with the Carnegie Institution, Tax was appointed Research Associate at the University of Chicago. He became Associate Professor in 1944 and Professor in 1948, becoming Professor Emeritus of Anthropology in 1977. Tax held a number of administrative posts, including Associate Dean of the Social Sciences Division under Ralph W. Tyler (1948-1953), Chairman of the Committee on Education, Training and Research in Race Relations (1952-1955), Chairman of the Department of Anthropology (1955-1958), Member of the Board of University Publications (1949-1953), section leader of the Social Sciences Collegiate Division (1962-1963), Dean of University Extension (1963-1968), and Co-chairman of the concentration in Cultural Dimensions of Social Change in the Divisional Program in the Social Sciences (1975-1979).

As chairman of the Committee to Reorganize Curriculum in Anthropology from 1945-1947, Tax played a major role in the development of Chicago's nationally prominent anthropology curriculum. Tax also chaired a course in the Scope, Methods, and Interrelations of the Social Sciences (1946-1948), and was Director of the Ford Foundation Self-Study of the University's Behavioral Sciences (1953-1954).

At the University of Chicago, Tax's teaching duties included Anthropology and Social Sciences core courses, North American and Middle American Indian Studies, and his consistently popular Workshop in Action Anthropology. He also served as visiting professor at the Escuela Nacional de Antropología in Mexico City (1942-1943), where he trained Mexican students in Social Anthropology field methods and at the University of California at Berkeley (summer 1950).

Sol Tax conducted his first extended ethnological field work among the Algonquian-speaking Fox (or Mesquakie) Indians at Tama County, Iowa, in the 1930s. His intensive study of Fox kinship and social organization formed the basis for his M.A. and PhD theses, in which a variant of the Omaha-type kinship system is exhaustively described using groundbreaking methods of analysis.

In the late fall of 1934, Tax began field work with the Maya Indians of Highland Guatemala and adjacent Mexico: in the Panajachel-Lake Atitlan region (1934-1944), in Chiapas, Mexico (1942-1943), and in northern Guatemala (1942-1944). His exhaustive study of Indian-Ladino economic organization in Panajachel resulted in the 1953 work Penny Capitalism: A Guatemalan Indian Economy; related field research provided material for numerous articles on cultural patterning, Indian world view, acculturation, and social and ethnic relations in the Maya area.

It was not until the late 1940s that Tax developed "action anthropology," the major theoretical approach for which he became known. Returning to the Fox Indians of Tama, Iowa in 1948 with a group of University of Chicago students, Tax and his students discovered that it would be impossible for them to remain detached, aloof observers of the culture under investigation. "Action anthropology" thus emerged, in the first instance, out of the particularities of the Fox situation in the late 1940s; soon, however, Tax, working with his students, developed "action anthropology" into a unique formulation of anthropological theory and (field-centered) methodology.

Tax defined "action anthropology" as "an activity in which an anthropologist has two coordinate goals, to neither of which he will delegate an inferior position. He wants to help a group of people solve a problem, and he wants to learn something in the process" [Tax 1952:103]. "Action anthropology" sought to assist a group in pursuing a self-identified course of action based upon a thorough understanding of different options and their implications. The decision makers in this process are always the members of the group themselves, in contrast to applied anthropology, which is characterized by intervention on behalf of a group.

" Action anthropology" perhaps found its clearest expression in the Fox Project (1948-1962), and in contemporaneous work at the Fort Berthold Reservation in North Dakota. Graduate students who received their first exposure to fieldwork and to " action anthropology" in the Fox Project and at Fort Berthold include Frederick Gearing, Lisa Peattie, Robert Reitz, Steven Polgar, and Robert Merrill, among many others. (The majority of Tax's papers on the Fox Project and the Fort Berthold Project have been deposited at the Smithsonian Institution, along with most of the materials generated by the 1961 American Indian Chicago Conference.)

Tax continued to direct action research in the Carnegie Cross Cultural Education Project among the Cherokee Indians at Tahlequah, Oklahoma (1962-1968). A new group of students worked under Tax's guidance at Tahlequah, notably Robert K. Thomas, Albert Wahrhaftig, and John K. White.

In 1959, Sol Tax founded Current Anthropology. He established the journal as a forum for cooperation and communication between scholars in the human sciences world-wide, and as an experiment in community-building, a " participatory democracy." Sponsored by the Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research, Current Anthropology's unique editorial process involved the publication of a given article together with the written comments of as many as 40 scholars in the field, and concluding with a response to those comments by the author of the original article. As founder of Current Anthropology and its editor from 1959 to 1974, Tax played a central role in reshaping relationships among professional anthropologists around the world. The editorial records of Current Anthropology constitute a separate body of material within the Archives.

The same spirit that informed " action anthropology" and encouraged wide-scale, frequent professional communication through Current Anthropology is visible in Tax's many efforts to draw scholars of widely diverse backgrounds together in conferences, seminars, and congresses. Tax's action philosophy clearly was a motivating force behind the 1961 American Indian Chicago Conference; one outcome of this unprecedented gathering of over 450 Indians (representing 90 tribes) was a document, the Declaration of Indian Purpose, which was presented to President Kennedy at the White House on 15 August 1962.

Other conferences in which Tax played a key role include the Viking Fund Seminar on Middle American Ethnology and Social Anthropology (1949), which drew together Middle American specialists and resulted in the publication of The Heritage of Conquest (1952), edited by Tax. Other major conferences organized by Tax that resulted in publications edited by him include the Darwin Centennial Celebration in 1959-1960 (Evolution After Darwin, 3 Volumes, 1960); The Community Service Workshop in 1966-1967 (The People Versus the System, 1968); the Conference on the Draft 1966 (The Draft, 1967); and the IXth International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences (World Anthropology, 100 Volumes, 1975).

Tax's reputation and expertise often made him a natural choice as advisor to government, foundations, and institutions. He served on the National Research Council Committee on Latin American Anthropology (1946-1954), the Committee on International Relations in the Behavioral Sciences (1966-1968), the National Institutes of Mental Health Cultural Anthropology Fellowship Review Committee (1967-1971), and President Johnson's Special Task Force on American Indian Affairs (1965-1969), and acted as consultant to the U.S. Office of Education (1965-1970). He was also chosen to serve on the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO (1959-1965), holding membership in the Executive Committee in 1963-1965. Tax was a member of the Board of Directors for the Illinois State Museum (1954-1970), and worked closely with the Smithsonian Institution from 1965 through 1977, first as a Special Advisor to the Secretary of Anthropology, and later as Director for the newly created Center for the Study of Man (1969-1977). Tax was associated with the Wenner-Gren Foundation throughout his career, in his editing of the Viking Fund Publications in Anthropology and Current Anthropology, as convener of many supper conferences, and as an advisor and evaluator of grant applications.

Tax participated actively in professional organizations, serving as president of the American Anthropological Association (1958-1959), and of the International Union of Anthropological Sciences (1968-1973). He also assumed editing duties for the American Anthropologist, acting as both associate editor (1948-1952), and editor (1953-1956). Honors received by Tax from professional organizations and foundations include the Viking Fund Medal in Anthropology (1961), the Distinguished Service Award from the American Anthropological Association (1977), and the Bronislaw Malinowski Award from the Society for Applied Anthropology (1977). A fellow of the American Anthropological Association and the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Tax also attained honorary membership in the Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland (1956), the Chilean Anthropological Society (1963), and the Czechoslovakian Anthropological Society (1965). He was chosen a Fellow of the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences (1969-1970), and received honorary degrees from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee (1969), the University of the Valley of Guatemala (1974), Wilmington College (1974), and Beloit College (1975).

Sol Tax passed away in 1995.

Scope Note

The Sol Tax Papers have been divided into twelve series. Because of the interrelatedness of Tax's activities, materials on a given topic or person are not necessarily concentrated in a single location. Tax's own methods of filing were primarily chronological; here, correspondence has been arranged alphabetically, and divided into three major subject areas: general professional correspondence (Series II), Middle American Indians (Series III), and North American Indians (Series IV). Some overlapping in both the subject-matter of correspondence and in addressees was inevitable. There are letters in the General Files, for example, that relate to Middle and North American Indians; likewise, correspondence with a single individual might be found in several places, and additional material on the same individual might be found in materials on Conferences (Series VI) or Organizations (Series V). Accordingly, researchers should consult the inventory listings for each series in the collection to ensure that all possible locations of related material have been checked. Searching relevant subject headings may yield additional information.

Series I: Personal Correspondence and Papers, has been divided into four subseries. The first, Biographical Materials and Personal Papers, includes biographical information, bibliographies, personal correspondence, and publicity files. Publicity files include newspaper clippings and press releases, arranged chronologically (additional clippings may be found elsewhere in the collection, filed under the topic or event covered in the clippings). Also filed here are all materials relating to certain Television and Radio programs, including correspondence, announcement flyers, scripts, and promotional materials.

The second subseries, Community and Political Activities, consists of three different kinds of materials combined into one alphabetical file. Included are materials on Hyde Park and Chicago community organizations, general political and social activist organizations, and Jewish organizations. This material pertains to Tax's personal activities, as distinct from his professional activities. Lengthy notes written by Tax explain his connections to various groups. Especially well represented in this group is his involvement with the Hyde Park Community Council, and the South East Chicago Commission. Additional material on the SECC and another organization, the Hyde Park-Kenwood Community Conference, is available in records of these organizations housed in Special Collections.

The third subseries, Student Papers, begins with one folder of information documenting Tax's involvement in the Milwaukee youth organization, the Newsboys' Republic, and an additional folder of material containing some English papers from high school and other early student writings. The balance of material comes from Tax's course work as an undergraduate at Milwaukee State Teachers' College and the University of Wisconsin, and his graduate work at the University of Chicago. Mostly consisting of course notes, this material has been identified by subject and teacher whenever possible. University of Chicago materials have been identified by course number. Tax's master's thesis and Ph.D. dissertation have been filed in the Writings series.

The fourth subseries, Travel Files, includes all material on Tax's early field work with the Logan Museum archaeological expedition in Algeria, including journals, correspondence, notes, writings, photographs, and postcards. Field work conducted among the Mescalero Apache under Ruth Benedict in New Mexico has been placed into a second sub-set here, including Tax's diary, notes, photographs, and correspondence. One folder of field notes on the Forest Potawatamie produced in the summer of 1933 has been placed at the end of this subseries. The balance of the travel files consist of correspondence concerning travel arrangements, itineraries, and other related material. These have been arranged in chronological order, with passports dating from 1930-1969 placed in one folder at the beginning of the subseries. Travel files document Tax's international travel while organizing Current Anthropology, Guatemala trips in 1963-1966, and a China trip in 1981. Some folders contain correspondence between Tax and his wife Gertrude and daughters Susan and Marianna during his travels, and with travel acquaintances. Other material regarding travel may be found grouped with particular events elsewhere in the collection.

Series II: General Files. Tax maintained his correspondence files in three separate groups: general chronological files, Middle American files, and North American Indian files. That principle of organization has been retained, except that the general files are now organized alphabetically rather than chronologically. This series contains material on colleagues, organizations, foundations, and institutions including correspondence, writings, notes, and clippings. The general alphabetical series is preceded by a set of mail logs, mainly from the early 1970s, consisting of chronological lists of letters received with brief descriptions of the contents, and handwritten drafts of letters written by Tax and given to secretaries to type. Notes used in composition of the letters, memos to secretaries, and telephone message are also found here.

The General Files form the largest series in this collection. Extensive runs of correspondence with colleagues and former students provide rich documentation on Tax's career as well as the careers of many others. Among those heavily represented in his series are Cyril Belshaw, Frederick Gearing, Robert E. Hinshaw, Alicja Iwanska, Magoroh Maruyama, Margaret Mead, Lisa R. Peattie, Steven Polgar, Robert Redfield, Emil and Rachel Reese Sady, Leonard Borman (filed under " Self Help Groups"), Demitri Shimkin, and Dorothy Willner. Others represented less extensively include Thorne Deuel, Fred Eggan, E. E. Evans-Pritchard, Lloyd A. Fallers, Santiago Genoves, Walter Goldschmidt, Andrew M. Greeley, Gustav Ichheiser, Claude Levi-Strauss, Chie Nakane, A.R. Radcliffe-Brown, Thomas Sebeok (material may also be found with the Research Center for Language Sciences files), Milton Singer, James S. Slotkin, M.N. Srinivas, Colin Turnbull, and Lalita P. Vidyarthi.

Material reflecting Tax's involvement with organizations, foundations, and institutions is also filed in this series. Meeting agendas, minutes, reports, notes, and other kinds of material may be found here in addition to correspondence. Among the larger files are the Louis S. B. Leakey Foundation, the Library-Anthropology Resource Group, National Research Council, National Science Foundation, Research Center for Language Sciences, and the United States National Commission for UNESCO. Files on other organizations are contained in the Professional Organizations and Institutional Affiliations series.

Series III: Middle American Correspondence and Field Materials has been divided into six subseries: Correspondence, Sol Tax Field Materials, Guatemala, Sol Tax Field Materials, Mexico, Middle American Field Materials by Others, Notecards, and Human Rights Problems in Central America, 1980-1986.

The first subseries, Correspondence, contains alphabetically arranged exchanges dating from the beginning of Tax's career, as well as a number of notes, papers, and reprints produced by the correspondents. Tax conducted extensive communications with many Middle American specialists, including Fernando Camara Barbachano, Juan Comas, Julio de la Fuente, Calixta Guiteras Holmes, Robert Hinshaw, Robert Cuba Jones, Alfred V. Kidder, Norman A. McQuown, Benjamin and Lois Paul, Alfonso Villa Rojas, and Evon Z. Vogt. Tax's correspondence and financial accounting with the Carnegie Institution of Washington has been placed in this alphabetical listing. Correspondence and documentation regarding the University of Chicago Microfilm Collection of Manuscripts on Middle American Cultural Anthropology (MCM(M)ACA) has been placed at the end of this sub-series.

Tax's Guatemalan Field Materials, which form the second subseries, have been arranged chronologically. Materials in this subseries include correspondence, diaries, and field notes of Tax and his wife Gertrude, photos, notebooks, and translations.

Much of this material was microfilmed for inclusion in the University of Chicago Microfilm Collection of Manuscripts on Middle American Cultural Anthropology, and is available there; wherever possible, the material in this subseries has been cross-referenced to its location in the MCM(M)ACA, as for example the following entry for Box 93, Folder 5 of the Sol Tax Papers:

" Notes on Santo Tomas Chichicastenango, Politico-Religious Life" [= MCM(M)ACA No. 16, pp. 336-510a] (93:5)

This indicates that all of the material contained in BOX 93, Folder 5 of the Sol Tax Papers can also be found on pp. 336-510a of MCM(M)ACA No. 16.

General and miscellaneous notes and writings have been placed at the end of these field materials, together with a set of photos of Panajachel and Guatemalan families.

Most of the Mexican Field Materials in the third subseries were produced by students of the Escuela Nacional de Antropologia under Tax's direction, and are also available as MCM(M)ACA No. 20, " Notas Sobre Zinacantan, Chiapas." Included here are curriculum materials, correspondence, and field notes and diaries from 1942 through 1946. Research papers and book reviews about Mexico by various authors follow this Chiapas material. A second era of Chiapas research, the University of Chicago " Man-in-Nature" Project, is also represented in this subseries (98:9-99:9). Materials consist of seminar transcripts, bibliographies, research papers, and other material.

The fourth subseries, Middle American Field Materials by Others, contains field notes and diaries, writings, and correspondence. Included are the field materials of Rachel Reese Sady, Juan de Dios Rosales, Melvin M. Tumin, and Fernando Camara Barbachano. Also included here are field materials produced by Robert E. Hinshaw in 1963-1965 under the direction of Tax, together with a draft of Hinshaw's book, Panajachel, a Guatemalan Town in Two Generation Perspective, and other writings.

The fifth subseries, Notecards, contains notes on Panajachel and Guatemala research. A sixth subseries is composed mainly of printed materials relating to human rights problems in Central America during the period 1980-1986.

Series IV: North American Indian Files and Serials has been divided into two subseries: Correspondence and North American Indian Serials.

The first subseries contains alphabetically arranged correspondence with colleagues, former students, organizations, and institutions in regard to Tax's North American Indian interests. Among individuals represented in this series are Joan Ablon, Mary Druke, Nancy O. Lurie, D'Arcy McNickle, Ethel Nurge, Robert K. Thomas, Virgil J. Vogel, Albert L. Wahrhaftig, and John K. White. Files for institutions and organizations include The American Indian Center, Chicago, National Congress of American Indians, Native American Educational Services, the Newberry Library, and Rough Rock Demonstration School.

Files reflecting Tax's involvement in special projects concerning North American Indians are incorporated in the alphabetical sequence. Notable among these projects are the Carnegie Cross Cultural Education Project conducted among the Cherokee of Tahlequah, Oklahoma under Tax's directorship, the 1948-1962 Fox Project based in Tama, Iowa, the National Study for American Indian Education, and the U.S. President's Task Force on American Indians.

The Serials subseries contains runs of North American Indian periodicals varying in length and completeness. Arranged alphabetically, these serials date primarily from the 1960s and 1970s. Included here are runs of Akwesasne Notes, Hopi Action News, Indian Voices (an outgrowth of the Carnegie Cross Cultural Education Project), Menominee News, The Native Nevadan, and Wassaja. At the end of the folder list for the series is a cross-reference list giving names of Indian organizations with the titles of their publications.

Series V: Professional Organizations and Institutional Affiliations is divided into two alphabetically arranged subseries. The first, Professional Organizations, houses chronologically ordered correspondence, annual meeting materials and programs, constitutions, by-laws, minutes, and reports. Filed here are general American Anthropological Association correspondence and other materials, including material dating from Tax's presidency of the AAA, which has been placed at the beginning of that group. Correspondence and planning materials for annual meeting sessions in which Tax was involved have been placed after the general material, with annual meeting programs following. Correspondence and other materials produced while Tax served as associate editor (1948-1952), and editor (1953-1956) of the American Anthropologist have been placed at the end of this group.

International Union of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences material, dating between 1956 and 1979, is also located in this alphabetical sequence.

The second subseries consists of materials regarding Tax's affiliations with a number of institutions, arranged alphabetically. The first set of files were produced in 1969-1970 while Tax was a fellow at the Center for Advanced Studies in the Behavioral Sciences. Materials include chronological correspondence and working papers of other fellows in residence during Tax's tenure in Palo Alto. Illinois State Museum materials cover Tax's years of service on the Board of Directors (1954-1970). Included are chronologically arranged correspondence, agendas, meeting minutes, reports, newspaper clippings, photos, and other materials.

The Smithsonian Institution files comprise the largest group in this subseries. The materials cover the several phases of Tax's involvement with the Smithsonian, including the creation of the Center for the Study of Man in 1968. This group begins with alphabetically arranged general correspondence, followed by financial correspondence and miscellaneous general material. Office of Anthropology minutes, reports, and Foreign Currency Program proposals follow, while Center for the Study of Man files have been grouped together and placed last. Center activities chronicled in these files include the Handbook of North American Indians, Urgent Anthropology Program, a series of conferences sponsored by the CSM between 1971 and 1974, the CSM Monographs Project, and the National Anthropological Film Center.

Wenner-Gren Foundation materials form the last group in this subseries. Correspondence, including material produced while Tax was editor of Viking Fund Publications in Anthropology, is arranged chronologically. Miscellaneous topical files follow, including correspondence regarding the Viking Fund Medal, 1950-1972. Wenner-Gren Foundation material relative to Current Anthropology is housed in the separate collection of that journal's editorial records.

Series VI: Conferences, Seminars and Lectures has been divided into three subseries. The first two sub-series, Invitations Accepted and Invitations Declined, are very small. Invitations Accepted contains correspondence about arrangements and occasionally notes used for participation in the activities. In most cases the volume of material is small. Both of these subseries are arranged chronologically. University of Chicago lectures are filed with Tax's teaching materials in Series VII.

The third subseries consists of conferences that generated a larger mass of material. Often Tax was directly involved in organizing and running these conferences, and an edited publication sometimes resulted. The 1949 Viking Fund seminar on Middle American Ethnology and Social Anthropology, which resulted in the publication of Heritage of Conquest, is one example (205:1-207:8). The 1966 Conference on the Draft, which produced The Draft: a Handbook of Facts and Alternatives, is another. Material filed here includes chronologically ordered correspondence, planning and program materials, working papers, background papers, session transcripts, and clippings. All information on the American Anthropological Association Session on War, and Tax's paper on National Service, follows material from the Conference on the Draft. Conferences are arranged chronologically.

Series VI: University Teaching and Administration is divided into five subseries: Course Materials, Seminars and Workshops, Lectures and Bibliographies, Student Papers, and University of Chicago Administrative Materials.

The first subseries, Course Materials, is arranged according to course number, and the materials are ordered chronologically within each course number. Items include correspondence, course syllabi and bibliographies, assignments, class rosters, student papers, lecture notes, outlines, and transcripts. Anthropology courses are arranged first, with Anthropology 243/343/443, "Action Anthropology," comprising the largest group. Material on University of Chicago anthropology courses is followed by materials from anthropology courses Tax taught at other universities, by anthropology course materials of other professors, and by material on Social Sciences courses taught by Tax and others.

Materials in the second subseries, Seminars and Workshops, are ordered alphabetically by name of event. The third subseries, Lectures and Bibliographies, is composed of lecture outlines, notes, and manuscripts, miscellaneous course syllabi and MA exams, and materials pertaining to the Department of Anthropology Mesoamerican Ethnology Bibliography (1973-1978). The fourth subseries consists of correspondence, notes, and papers produced by students that could not be linked to a specific course. This subseries is arranged alphabetically by name of student. The final subseries is an alphabetical arrangement of correspondence, memos, minutes, reports, and other materials pertaining to offices, divisions, departments, and committees of the University. Included are listings for the Department of Anthropology, the College, the Center for Latin American Studies, the Committee on Education, Training and Research in Race Relations, and the Master of Arts Program in the Social Sciences.

Series VIII: Writings has been divided into two subseries: Correspondence with Publishers, and Published and Unpublished Writings. Correspondence is alphabetically arranged, and mainly involves requests for evaluation of manuscripts, management of Tax writings, and solicitations for Tax writings. Tax had close ties with Aldine Publishing Company and the University of Chicago Press, and advised and wrote for the Encyclopedia Britannica. He also acted as advisor for Scott, Foresman and Company.

The second subseries, Published and Unpublished Writings, consists of book reviews, articles, lecture transcripts, and book-length manuscripts. Items include notes, manuscripts, typescripts, offprints, programs, reviews, and clippings. Writings are arranged chronologically by year, and alphabetically within each year. When writings were reprinted, they were filed under the first publication date. As has been noted above, some writings have been filed in the Conferences series with the conferences for which they were produced.

Series IX: Audio-Visual and Microfilms is organized into three major subseries; the first subseries, Audio Tapes, has been further subdivided into two groups, Reel-to-reel tapes and Cassette tapes.

The University of Chicago Center for Continuing Education's Chicago Cross-Cultural Education Conference (1964) is represented by the first seven reels of reel-to-reel tape. Other materials on this conference may be found in Series IV (119:6-122:4). Reels 8-43 provide extensive documentation of the 1971 Workshop in Population, which was sponsored jointly by the University's Center for Continuing Education and the Smithsonian Institution's Center for the Study of Man; related materials can be found in Series V (202:2-5). The last two reels of reel-to-reel tape document a speech by Tax at the 10th Biennial UNESCO conference in 1965, and a talk given at the University of Chicago by Claude Levi-Strauss in 1967.

A smaller number of cassette tapes document the Xth International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences (ICAES, India, 1978), a paper given by Tax at the Fourth International Conference on the Unity of the Sciences (1975), and the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions' conference on The Family in a Changing Society.

The single videotape in the collection is a documentary by Michael Tarabulski and Barry Teicher titled Reliving the Past: Alonzo Pond and the 1930 Logan African Expedition; Tax was one of the participants in this expedition, and materials relating to his experiences in Algeria can be found in Series I.

Seven reels of microfilm comprise the third subseries. The first reel contains Tax's field notes and genealogies from his 1932-34 fieldwork with the Fox Indians; the remaining six reels all contain materials generated in 1948-1954 over the course of the Fox Project.

Series X: Photographs includes personal and professional photographs and photographs of Tax's colleagues. Included in the first group are copies of photographs of the family of Morris and Kate Tax, and photographs of the family of Sol and Gertrude Tax. The professional photo includes posed and candid images of Tax in a variety of professional contexts, including conferences and meetings. The third group contains photographs of Tax's colleagues and teachers, including A. R. Radcliffe-Brown, Robert Redfield, McKim Marriott, Chie Nakane, and others.

Series XI: Honors and Awards is divided into four subseries. The first, Diplomas, contains diplomas earned by Tax in grade school and high school, as well as his 1931 Hon. from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and his 1935 Ph.D. from the University of Chicago.

The second subseries, Honorary Degrees, centers on the four such degrees that Tax has received; included here are correspondence, printed materials, the diplomas themselves, and the hoods worn by honorees during the ceremonies.

The third subseries, Appointments, Memberships, Titles, contains certificates granting Tax honorary membership in a number of scholarly associations and societies; in some cases, a small amount of correspondence accompanies the certificates.

The fourth subseries, Prizes and Awards, contains a variety of material relating to the many prizes, medals, and awards granted to Tax over the course of his career. Notable among these are the Wenner-Gren Foundation's Viking Fund Medal, which Tax received in 1962, the American Anthropological Association's Distinguished Service Award (1977), and the Society for Applied Anthropology's Bronislaw Malinowski Award (1977). Also included here are the many awards and certificates of appreciation that Tax has received from scholarly and public organizations in the U.S. and abroad.

SERIES XII: RESTRICTED MATERIALS (BOXES 297-307)

This series has been divided into seven subseries, Letters of Reference, National Science Foundation Grant Proposals, Correspondence with Department Heads and Institutions, Sol Tax Financial Materials, Additional Materials on NAES College, 1984-1988, Additional Correspondence, and Additional Writings.

Access to materials in this series is restricted until the year 2019.

Related Resources

The following related resources are located in the Department of Special Collections:

<http://www.lib.uchicago.edu/e/spcl/select.html>

Additional collections include the Community Service Workshop Records (1966-1967), the Current Anthropology Records (1957-1975), the Darwin Centennial Celebration Records (1956-1960), the Origin of Man Symposium Records (1965), and the IXth International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences Records. Other information on Sol Tax can be found in the Robert Redfield Papers, the Presidents' Papers, and the Department of Anthropology Records.

All material involving Tax's presidency of the IUAES (1968-1973), and the meeting of the IXth International Congress of Anthropological and Ethnological Sciences in Chicago (1973) can be found in a separate collection in Special Collections.
