Abstract This collection includes materials relating to the construction of the John Crerar Library at the University of Chicago and library activities from 1984 onwards. The majority of the material in the collection relates to the construction of the new library building, built to facilitate the transfer of the collection from the Illinois Institute of Technology to the University of Chicago campus in 1981. In addition, the collection contains materials relating to the tracking and processing of missing books during the early 1980s.

Information on Use

Access

The collection is open for research. Series V contains a restricted theft file and is closed until 2041.

Citation

When quoting material from this collection, the preferred citation is: University of Chicago Library. John Crerar Library. Records, [Box #, Folder #], Special Collections Research Center, University of Chicago Library.

Historical Note

The John Crerar Library was founded in 1894 and was initially housed in the Marshall Field Building (111 N. State Street, Chicago). By 1961 a larger space was needed to house the rapidly growing collection and a new building was constructed at the Illinois Institute of Technology. This building opened in 1963 and the collection was housed there until 1981. By the late 1970s the collection had once again expanded beyond the capacity of its building. On April 13, 1981 an agreement was reached between the Crerar Library Board of Directors and the University of Chicago to consolidate the collection with the University of Chicago's science collection.

A new building was constructed on the University of Chicago campus to house the consolidated collection and opened on September 10, 1984. The structure was designed by Stubbins Associates of Cambridge, Massachusetts, and has 160,836 square feet of floor space, costing $22 million to build. It has capacity for 1.3 million volumes. This building currently houses the John Crerar Library collection.

Scope Note

The materials in this collection date from 1977 to 2009 with the majority dating between 1981 and 1985. The bulk of the collection relates to the construction of the library building at the University of Chicago campus. This includes copies of construction contracts, floorplans and construction drawings, technical information relating to the construction materials and products, data from site surveys and reports, and Schedule B's from the construction process. There is also a small amount of meeting minutes and memoranda relating to the planning and execution of the collection merger. Additionally, the collection contains trace sheets and dealer information from 1982 to 1983 for missing Crerar material. The collection is divided into five series.

Series I, John Crerar Library Construction, contains materials relating to the planning and construction of the John Crerar Library building on the University of Chicago campus. Materials date from 1977 to 1985 and are arranged topically. Planning documents are first, followed by construction records arranged alphabetically within the groupings of subcontractor, materials and products, reports, meetings, and scheduling. Researchers should refer to Series IV for oversized blueprints and engineering drawings relating to construction.

The majority of files in Series I represent the work product of the primary contractor, Schal Associates, and their exchanges with their various subcontractors.

Series II, Missing Books Information, contains processing paperwork from the John Crerar Library missing book file. The majority of the materials are related to the 1980-1982 collection inventory carried out in connection with the prosecution of Joseph Putnam. Putnam was arrested in January 1983 and sentenced to two years in federal prison for the systematic theft and resale of rare books from the John Crerar Library. The books, sold through John Howell Books to various academic institutions and private collectors, were worth an estimated $330,000. The processing paperwork provides metadata for materials published within the 1828-1984 data range. Series II also contains copies of index cards for missing books and a book plate. Materials are arranged alphabetically by author name.

Series III, Audio-Visual, contains 2 compact discs from the Kathleen A Zar Symposium at the University of Chicago in 2009.

Series IV, Oversized, contains oversized construction drawings, blueprints, and building plans from the planning and construction of the John Crerar Library building at the University of Chicago. Materials are arranged alphabetically within each box, under the categories of subcontractor, materials and products, reports, and plans. Researchers should refer to Series I for related non-oversized materials. This series also contains a plaque from the John Crerar Library Director's Office and a large scrapbook of photographs of the library.
