Scope Note

A collection of over 1200 paperback volumes of African-American popular fiction, chiefly romance novels. The collection includes a copy of Entwined Destinies by Elsie Washington (writing under the pseudonym, Rosalind Welles), published by Dell in 1980 and described as the first mass-market, paperback original written by an African American to feature African American characters. All the major writers, series, and imprints in this genre are very well represented. Among the publishers are Arabesque, BET Books; Kimani, Indigo, and Urban Books; Pocket Books, Signet, and St. Martin's. Authors include prolific and popular African-American romance writers such as Brenda Jackson, the first in this genre to appear on the New York Times bestseller list, and Rochelle Alers; and others whose work crosses categories and audiences, for example Terry McMillan. The collection was formed by Alfred Willis, a 1986 graduate of the Graduate Library School at the University of Chicago.
